Hanging out at 'The Avenue'

Emanuel Manahan, Angie's brother, opened The Avenue in December 1981 with the support of Peter Manahan, their father. The Elite Spa, an old-fashioned soda fountain, had been located in the same spot for decades.

The Manahans have completely renovated the restaurant only to have their efforts ruined by a fire. They reopened a few weeks later, having salvaged the "deco" stools along the counter.

The Avenue is long and narrow, with barely enough room for its nine stools and seven tables. There is a small grill behind the counter and a kitchen squeezed into the rear, but the limited space hardly inhibits the super-charged Manahan family.

Despite the after-effects of smoke, "We all got along like one big happy family," Peter says about having his two sisters, Martha and Maria, and the main cook, Juliet Bertolini, five grandfather Manahan helps out on occasion.

"It's the business kind of in the family; it's in the blood. We've been here (11 years) and, we've worked in restaurants," Angie explains, adding that Emanuel runs a restaurant in Malden and Maria, Manahan family, two of whom were born in Greece, lives in Medford.

"We all go out of our way to help them customers," Angie says. "We have everything. If you don't see it up there on the menu, just sounds', we make it. We make it our way you want it."

The Avenue's repertoire includes eggs any style, corned beef hash, French toast, hamburgers, subs, "real sandwiches," full dinners, chowder, salads and the daily specials, such as broiled scrod, liver and onions, boiled corned, crab rolls, baked lamb or chicken, stuffed grape leaves, moussaka and pastitsio (lasagna).

With few exceptions, the prices range from $1 to $5.

For the uninitiated, don't expect menus or waiters. Place what you earn from the list above the counter or the specials board, and telegraph your order to one of the Manahans. It will not be forgotten.

About 300 customers pour into The Avenue on weekdays (open 7am to 6pm); primarily at lunch and dinner. Peter says, Saturdays (open 7am to 4pm) is big for breakfast. (It's closed Sunday.)

Yet there is rarely a wait at The Avenue.

"We have people waiting, but they are in and out," Angie says. "No, noone' do they ask for their food, they get. You've heard of McDonald's being fast. McDonald's can't compare to us. And there are only three people behind the counter ... It's not like 20 people doing the whole thing."

Larry Stasi, a 9-year veteran of the police department who grew up in the neighborhood, is in and out of The Avenue every day of the week. And at least 40 of his colleagues on the force are never far behind.

The only quarrel Stasi has with the place "is that I'd like about 5 pounds more of it. I didn't order enough."

Jerry Valcour, a Cambridge native and Checker Cab dispatcher, says, "A lot of cabbies come here. You can't buy the food for what they sell it for.

While describing it as a neighborhood clique, Valcour adds: "If someone comes here from the outside, they come back."

The Deathwish Piano Movers, clad in their black company T shirts, are a classic example of this behavior. They operate out of Belmont but often travel into Cambridge to move pianos in Harvard University and Radcliffe College dorms.

Wayne, one of the movers, quips, "We all love Angie." His partner, Tim Shaw, retorts, "No, I'm in love with Angie."

Angie is singing along with her favorite pop radio station, WMJX, which is in the box on Wayne, who also plays in the rock group, Valdez is a Sinner, that's back in jail. "She sings like me."

For a moment, they get serious. "We never eat anywhere else in Cambridge," Shaw says. They have a tendency to eat breakfast and lunch cheeseburgers, chicken salad sandwiches and blueberry pancakes) at the same time, says Third partner Don Farrell.

But they all continue to having conflicts on the girls behind the counter: "(Angie is 36, Maria, 30 and Martha, 18. They're all single."

Stuart Cody, who owns Automated Media Systems, a film company at 400 Green St., says The Avenue is a magical because "it's a real family organization," especially for people who live or work alone.

"They treat their customers as an extended family," he adds.

The Avenue runs on the energy of its regulars, who are endless sources for neighborhood gossip, stories (sad and funny) and good times, Angie says.

It seems Angie's only real disappointment in life is that "I wish I had a place like this where I lived."

However, it seems the only way that will happen is if Angie sells one of her relatives to open another "Avenue" just for her.

Rights forum boosts morale

Mayor Walter Sullivan tells residents that they have the right to vote. When he introduces himself, many residents greet him with blank stares.

"Mayor," he adds helpfully.

Nellie McCarthy, who is 89 and a native of Somerville, has lived in the home for three years.

"Our meetings together made it easier to speak up about issues that bother us," McCarthy says. "We want the Cambridge community to know about the positive things that happen to us."

"The program hasn't been proven yet," she adds, "but it has brought people together."

The Cambridge Nursing Home is a private facility which has been in operation since the early 1960's. There are 89 residents, of whom only 25 are male. Of the three married couples, one pair wants to split up — not divorce, just have separate rooms.

"The average age here is 86," says Carl Anderson, the administrator who took over the home in November 1985. "But a lot of them go out into the community, shop and eighbors."

Free transportation for residents is provided by Armstrong, the ambulance company that owns the home, the Somerville-Cambridge Elder Services, and the city human services department.

At the home, there are stories to tell. Ann Aranzas lived in Cambridge for over 30 years, is 75, and a native of Boston. She played piano and led a choir for a Greek American band while she lived in Boston.

"Seven years ago was the last time I played the violin," she says. "I made a record with my father once. I can't keep quiet when I'm around music."

"People are timid and people are shy," she says. "Something like this (campaign) will bring forth a lot. I've made friends here that were here."

"Some people don't like bingo or bowling, but we have a lot of fun. The girls do a lot of crafts," she adds.

Elizabeth Barbour, the recreation director, has a degree in recreational therapy and is certified for bringing the residents out of the rec room in the basement and bringing activities to all three floors. She introduced bowling to the living rooms, leads weekly current events classes with newspapers, manages cooking, holds garden club and is open to suggestions from the residents, such as a gift cart, which provides personal sundries.

"Everyone here is pretty much rehabilitated," said Carol DiPietri, director of the 110-member nursing staff. "No one is really confined."

"I think the public should know more," Nellie McCarthy says. "You hear sad experiences from some people, but there's many things that happen you never know. But more knowledge should be out there."

Kathleen Enright, 94 and from Somerville, was one of the residents the champagne is uncorked at the inaugural rights meeting.

Raise your voices, and your glasses proudly and let us all toast to ourselves, a growing population of elderly who care and who want the freedom to express ourselves openly.

Here's to our resident rights campaign.

MARIA SERIO is one of the nursing home residents who "mean business."

Forum on elderly housing is planned

"Elderly Housing - A Unique Opportunity" will be the second program in the spring series offered by the Live Long and Like It Library Club.

The program, designed by the Cambridge Housing Authority, will take place at the Cambridge Public Library, 449 Broadway, Thursday, February 19, at 2:30 pm.

Irving Tallon, chairman of the Cambridge Housing Authority, will lead the presentation which will include a film on the 50 years of service of the CHA. Topics to be presented and discussed are "CHA Elderly Housing--Where Is It and How Does It Works?" by Daniel Warnickel, executive director of the authority, and information on how elders apply and how long they must wait, by Tenant Selection Staff members Margaret D. Moran and Paul Gant.

Ruth Pollard of Millers Rivers Apartments will give a speech on it from a resident's point of view. A question and answer period will follow the program which is free and open to the public. For more information, call the library at 498-9080.

James Thaddeus McDavitt, Chairman of the License Commission appeared before the Committee and stated his support for the proposed amendment and indicated that this is consistent with Chapter 140, Section 183A of the General Laws and cures current Constitutional defects in current laws and ordinances.

Mayor Walter Sullivan questioned whether or not the proposed ordinance requires an increase in the current fee structure.

Mr. McDavitt responded by stating that the fee will be established by the City Manager and that he was unaware of any concern from the business community relative to the fee structure.

Councillor Walsh stated that he believed there was much concern throughout the community relative to fees imposed in general by the City.

Councillor Duehay moved the petition be referred to the City Council without recommendation - and the motion prevailed.

The hearing was adjourned at 7:15 p.m.

To the Honorable, the City Council:

Enclosed please find copy of a proposed ordinance relative to Sunday entertainment licenses. The only ordinance that presently addresses Sunday entertainment is Section 12-13 in the City Code, and this present ordinance only addresses Sunday bowling. It is, therefore, appropriate to rewrite Section 12-13, as has been done in the proposed ordinance, to address Sunday entertainment generally.

An additional reason to rewrite this section stems from a 1983 case out of the U. S. District Court here in Massachusetts. (See the Court Order attached). Essentially, the court declared that the Sunday Entertainment Licensing Statute, G. L., Chapter 136, s. 4, was void, as it lacked the specific standards and procedures required under the federal constitution. The proposed ordinance simply and effectively incorporates into the Sunday entertainment licensing scheme the standards and procedures already present in the general entertainment licensing statute, G. L., Chapter 140, s. 183A. In effect, then, the proposed ordinance cures the constitutional deficiency in G. L., Chapter 136, section 4 and makes that statute usable.

Very truly yours,

DECLARATORY JUDGMENT
PERMANENT INJUNCTION

GARRITY, J.

In accordance with the Court's allowance on June 22, 1983 of Plaintiffs' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment, it is ORDERED:

that plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment be, and it is hereby, allowed. The Members of the Board of Selectmen, and any other public official of the Town of Stoughton, are permanently enjoined from invoking Mass. G.L. c. 136, §§ 2-4 to sanction plaintiffs' provision of entertainment on Sundays prior to one o'clock in the afternoon. These statutes, insofar as they depend on the licensing provisions of Mass. G.L. c. 136, § 4, are facially unconsitutional as violative of the First and Fourteenth Amendments of the Constitution of the United States.

To the Honorable, the City Council:

Enclosed please find copy of a proposed ordinance relative to Sunday entertainment licenses. The only ordinance that presently addresses Sunday entertainment is Section 12-13 in the City Code, and this present ordinance only addresses Sunday bowling. It is, therefore, appropriate to rewrite Section 12-13, as has been done in the proposed ordinance, to address Sunday entertainment generally.

An additional reason to rewrite this section stems from a 1983 case out of the U. S. District Court here in Massachusetts. (See the Court Order attached). Essentially, the court declared that the Sunday Entertainment Licensing Statute, G. L., Chapter 136, s. 4, was void, as it lacked the specific standards and procedures required under the federal constitution. The proposed ordinance simply and effectively incorporates into the Sunday entertainment licensing scheme the standards and procedures already present in the general entertainment licensing statute, G. L., Chapter 140, s. 183A. In effect, then, the proposed ordinance cures the constitutional deficiency in G. L., Chapter 136, section 4 and makes that statute usable.

PERMANENT INJUNCTION

GARRITY, J.

In accordance with the Court's allowance on June 22, 1983 of Plaintiffs' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment, it is ORDERED:

> that plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment be, and it is hereby, allowed. The Members of the Board of Selectmen, and any other public official of the Town of Stoughton, are permanently enjoined from invoking Mass. G.L. c. 136, §§ 2-4 to sanction plaintiffs' provision of entertainment on Sundays prior to one o'clock in the afternoon. These statutes, insofar as they depend on the licensing provisions of Mass. G.L. c. 136, § 4, are facially unconsitutional as violative of the First and Fourteenth Amendments of the Constitution of the United States.

To the Honorable, the City Council:

Enclosed please find copy of a proposed ordinance relative to Sunday entertainment licenses. The only ordinance that presently addresses Sunday entertainment is Section 12-13 in the City Code, and this present ordinance only addresses Sunday bowling. It is, therefore, appropriate to rewrite Section 12-13, as has been done in the proposed ordinance, to address Sunday entertainment generally.

An additional reason to rewrite this section stems from a 1983 case out of the U. S. District Court here in Massachusetts. (See the Court Order attached). Essentially, the court declared that the Sunday Entertainment Licensing Statute, G. L., Chapter 136, s. 4, was void, as it lacked the specific standards and procedures required under the federal constitution. The proposed ordinance simply and effectively incorporates into the Sunday entertainment licensing scheme the standards and procedures already present in the general entertainment licensing statute, G. L., Chapter 140, s. 183A. In effect, then, the proposed ordinance cures the constitutional deficiency in G. L., Chapter 136, section 4 and makes that statute usable.

Very truly yours,

Robert W. Healy
City Manager
