Dear Mr. Connarton:

In response to your letter of March 22, 1990 regarding the following three proposed Amendments to the Zoning Ordinance:

1. Extension of the East Cambridge Interim Overlay District
2. Extension of the Cambridgeport Interim Overlay District

As you know, the City Council has requested through the City Manager that outside counsel with particular expertise in the area of First Amendment law review the Signs and Illumination ordinance. We are in the process of arranging such a review and I will withhold final comment on that proposed ordinance until the review is completed.

Very truly yours,

Russell B. Higley

CAMBRIDGE MA.

January 16,1990

To the Honorable, the City Council:

SUBJECT: Re-submittal of the Cambridgeport and the East Cambridge Interim Planning Overlay Districts Rezoning Proposals

As the statutory time limit for public hearings will have expired before all required hearings can be held on the above referenced zoning amendments the Planning Board respectfully resubmits both petitions for consideration by the City Council. The Planning Board has taken the opportunity presented by the delay to recommend the extension of both Overlay Districts to June 30, 1990 rather than March 30, and May 30, 1990 respectively as originally proposed. Active planning efforts continue in both areas and it is expected that permanent rezoning recommendations will be made to the Council by the Planning Board before the expiration of the Interim Overlay Districts.

Respectfully submitted for the Planning Board,

Paul Dietrich, Chairman

Street cleaning resumes April 1

It's that time of the year again.

Every year, beginning the first week in April, the City of Cambridge, through its Department of Public Works, embarks on an eight-month residential street cleaning program.

Your street will be swept once a month, or eight times during the sweeping season. However, should your sweeping day fall on a holiday, your street will be skipped until the following month. If a holiday occurs in November such as Nov. 12 or Nov. 22 and your street will not be swept; the city, in order to give one last sweeping before the season ends, will come back and sweep the street during the first or second week in December. The city will hand-post the street well in advance of the sweeping in order to give adequate notice. Please note that this will occur only for the areas which were to be swept on the two holidays which come in November.

A copy of the street sweeping schedule is published here. Copies are also given out when residents purchase their parking stickers in November.

Every street in the city is posted with a street sweeping sign, giving the day of the week and the hours, which are from 8 am to 2 pm. However, on streets with parking meters, the sweeping time is 7 to 10 am.

The sweeping crew supervisor rides the street before sweeping and announces over his loud speaker that sweeping will start shortly. Residents are urged to take their cars off the street to avoid being towed. The sweeping crew consists of one mechanical sweeper, a sweeping foreman, one police officer and from two to three contract tow trucks. If your car is not moved, once sweeping has begun, the police officer will write out a parking ticket, stick it on the car and a tow truck will then tow it to the latter's lot.

If your car is towed, you should go to the police department at 5 Western Ave. and ask for the tow desk officer. Please bring your car registration, a copy of it, or other forms of identification. You will be asked to sign the release book and will be given a claim check made out to the towing company's lot indicated by the desk officer and there you will have to pay the towing lot cost: $25 towing charge plus $7.50 per day storage charges.

In addition, when you pick up your car you will find attached to it, a parking ticket which carries a $15 fine. This is to be paid directly to the traffic and parking department, 57 Inman St., either in person or by mail.

The city has contracts with three towing companies: Pat's Towing, 67 Pacific Ave., 354-4000; Cambridge Towing, 84 Webster Ave., Somerville, 492-0404; and B&B Towing, 41 Mooney St., 492-5781.

Every effort will be made to sweep your street, on the scheduled date. However, if it is actually impossible to sweep the street, then you will have to wait for the next regularly scheduled sweeping date. If this occurs in November, the last sweeping month, then a procedure similar to that which covers the November holidays (explained above) will be followed.

For more information call the department of public works at 498-9051.

8-year-old Heather needs a home

NOTE: Foster families are urgently needed by agencies seeking to place local children in temporary homes. In the following article, part of a monthly series in the Chronicle, the child's name and some details have been changed to protect her identity.

Heather is an eight-year-old girl with blonde hair and blue eyes. She is of average height and build for a child her age. It is her smile that allows her bright and cheerful personality to shine through.

Heather has been in several foster homes since she entered the system due to abuse. Heather loves adult attention and she has learned to trust adults again with the help of her therapist. She is an active little girl who is interested in exploring new places and animals. Heather would like to be a "pet doctor" when she grows up.

Heather is legally free for adoption and has been anxiously awaiting a mom and dad to call her own.

Heather has neurofibromatosis, a genetic, neurological disorder, which requires a yearly physical. The nature of this ailment prevents doctors from making a prognosis in regards to how Heather may be affected in the distant future.

Heather adores her older brother who has been adopted by a nice family. It would be ideal if Heather's new parents would let them visit each other.

A two-parent family with no other children would probably work best for Heather due to her strong needs for parental contact.

For more information about becoming a foster parent, call Sandra Foti at Cambridge Family and Children's Service, 99 Bishop Allen Drive, 876-4210. Family Finders at the MetroWest Youth Guidance Center in Framingham is also seeking foster homes for Cambridge children. Call Mary Duclos at 508-620-0010.

Councilors say no to zoning change

By ERIC M. STAHL
Chronicle staff

It was a tempting offer, but the city council said "no thanks" for now.

By not voting on a proposed zoning change Monday night, the council risks losing up to 25 units of affordable housing a local developer said he wanted to include as part of a proposed residential project at Binney Street and Cardinal Medeiros Avenue.

Instead, a majority of the council, suspicious of the lack of specifics offered by the developer, David Clem of the Athenaeum Group, voted instead to keep alive a planning board recommendation that would limit the size of the project and give zoning incentives for affordable housing.

The move leaves in doubt the future of the parcel, which is currently zoned for up to 700,000 square feet of commercial use.

"We're not planning on building housing there, that's for sure," Clem said the day after the meeting.

The unusual housing proposal came about last year in the wake of neighborhood outcry over the construction of the Binney Street garage, an Athenaeum project. The developer agreed to build a residential project that would both shield the garage from existing nearby homes and offer low- and moderate-income housing. A zoning change was required to build housing, and after lengthy discussion, Clem filed the petition last August and subsequently refiled it twice.

At Monday's meeting, Clem appeared dismayed by the resistance to the plan. "We have worked one year in good faith offering to do something no other developer to our knowledge has offered to do," he told the council.

Many neighborhood residents, already feeling pinched by the garage, Athenaeum's One Kendall Square project and other area development, opposed the petition. They said it did not restrict Athenaeum to building solely housing and it allowed the developer to potentially construct a building 85 feet high. The petition would have reclassified the area from one industrial zone to another less dense and more restrictive industrial zone.

"If you want to build housing, then rezone it as a residential zone," Debra McManus, who lives next to the 66-foot garage, said in an interview Tuesday. Had the zoning change passed, she said, Athenaeum "could thumb their noses at us, just like they did with the garage . . . The neighborhood needs protection."

Residents and all nine councilors expressed support for the idea of building much-needed affordable housing on the site. Clem said Monday he envisioned building between 50 and 100 units, and could make up to 25 percent available to low- and moderate-income residents.

But a majority of the council were uneasy with the vagueness of Clem's plan and his reluctance to guarantee in advance the change in zoning would lead to affordable housing construction at the site, despite Clem's insistance that that was his intention.

Clem's petition was not voted on Monday and expired midnight Tuesday. The council voted 6-3 to keep the planning board recommendation alive. Councilor Francis Duehay said he hoped this would at least keep the door open and allow a new, more specific plan to be developed.

Getting housing on the site now "doesn't look promising, but it's still possible," Duehay said Tuesday.

Clem said he was disappointed with the vote and frustrated with the council. "They talk a lot about affordable housing but when it comes time to vote for it, they find reasons not to," he said.

Rejected by plan board

Earlier this month, the planning board recommended against adopting Clem's petition. At the same time, it acknowledged the current zoning of the area bordered by Medeiros Avenue and Binney, Fulkerson and Hampshire Streets was "clearly inappropriate."

Clem's petition "would allow commercial development at a very intrusive level at a critical transitional location, and would not assure housing," the board's report said.

Instead, the board filed its own petition with the council suggesting rezoning to a residential district, in line with what McManus and other residents wanted. The petition provides density incentives for affordable housing. The maximum height of any project would be 35 feet, with up to 60 feet allowed if a certain number of units are offered to low- and moderate-income residents.

Clem complained the planning board did not consult him in drafting its plan and said it would not be "economically viable" for his firm to consider residential construction if the new petition passes. "The planning board has their opinion on what it takes to build housing, and we have ours," he said.

'Basket Case 2' a worthy sequel

"Basket Case 2" (Frank Henenlotter). With Kevin Van Hentenryck, Annie Ross, Heather Rattray, Kathryn Meisle, Ted Sorel and Jason Evers.

ANOTHER BASKET CASE: Duane (Kevin Van Hentenryck) and Belial break out of a hospital in "Basket Case 2."

By PAUL SHERMAN

Yes, Virginia, there is such a thing as a good sequel.

"Basket Case," Frank Henenlotter's creative 1982 horror film about an upstate New Yorker who comes to Times Square carrying around his deformed brother in a wicker basket and looking for blood, has finally been sequelized. Anyone who liked the original or likes horror with its tongue firmly embedded in its cheek will eat up "Basket Case 2."

For those who didn't see the original "Basket Case" — which, like the original "Evil Dead," became an influential horror classic despite shoddy distribution — upstater Duane (Kevin Van Hentenryck) and brother Belial (who looks like a squished stalagmite with a head stuck in it) were Siamese twins, with Belial stuck out of Duane's side. Their father had a skid-row doctor and a vet (!) separate them as teens, and then tossed Belial in the garbage.

But Duane rescued Belial and kept him in a basket, and a few years later they came to Times Square and Duane lets his brother rip the doctor's and vet's faces off.

Now wanted for murder, the tabloid-dubbed "Times Square Twins" now find themselves in the household of Granny Ruth (Annie Ross), a retired doctor who, along with granddaughter Susan (Heather Rattray), helps them escape from the hospital and brings them to her house full of deformed individuals.

But this doesn't mean Duane and Belial have "settled down." When an old geezer with a sideshow falsely advertises he has Belial on display, Granny Ruth bloodily acquaints him with the real Belial. And when a tabloid photographer sneaks into the house, he never comes out.

More persistent is the tabloid reporter (Kathryn Meisle) who's trying to expose Granny Ruth's household of deformities. In a subplot reminiscent of Tod Browning's classic "Freaks," the deformed folks supply comeuppances to her and the private eye (Ted Sorel) trying to help her.

Like the first "Basket Case," the sequel is as much deadpan comedy as it is gore, and the new set of surrounding characters is almost as amusing as the Times Square wackos of the first. Jazz great Annie Ross (of Lambert, Hendricks and Ross fame) is splendid, like in the psychotherapy scene when she earnestly tells Belial that "ripping the faces off people may not be in your best interest," and so is Kathryn Meisle. Meisle looks a lot like Theresa Russell, but the way she throws herself into her venomous B-movie character suggests that she could become the next Colleen Camp.

And then there are the romances Duane and Belial enjoy in the sequel. Duane, wanting to finally live a "normal" life, gets the hots for Susan, who turns out to have a few abnormalities of her own. And Belial finds the apple of his deformed eye in one of Granny Ruth's patients.

Does Belial have sex?, you may be wondering. Hell, yes! And it's the best mutant sex scene in ages — at least since Sally Fields' last film.

FILM CLIPS... House Party isn't quite on the level of previous "Black Pack" films like "Hollywood Shuffle," "She's Gotta Have It" and "I'm Gonna Git You Sucka." This teen party movie is a story we've all seen before, but this time it's thankfully told without racial stereotypes and with the charismatic performances of rappers Kid 'n' Play...

The Lord of the Flies remake is not only well-acted by its all-newcomer cast, it also shows the morality play still has power...

Several new series are starting at the Brattle Theatre. Sunday's "Jack Nicholson Mania" kicks off with two outstanding Roger Corman B-movies (The Cry Baby Killer and Little Shop of Horrors) and the equally outstanding Nicholson-co-written Monkees movie Head. A Stanwyck-dominated Film Noir Mondays set has her Sorry Wrong Number and Robert Siodmark's The Killers. Also, an extensive British New Wave series opens Wednesday with two of the best "angry young man" movies, Look Back in Anger and Saturday Night and Sunday Morning...

Meanwhile, the Museum of Fine Arts has the excellent Amos Gitai documentaries Wadi, Field Diary and Pineapple tonight. The first two are shrewd looks at Israeli-Palestinian relations and the third is an even shrewder take on the economic imperialism of Dole Pineapple...

And the Harvard-Epworth Church has the tag team of Griffith and Gish teaming for the silent Broken Blossoms.

RESTAURANTS

New Yorker: Everything a diner ought to be

By DAVID BORAKS

NEW YORKER DINER: 39 Mt. Auburn St., Watertown. Telephone: 924-9772.
HOURS: Mondays to Sundays, 6:30 am to 2 pm, and Wednesdays to Saturdays, 11 pm to 4 am. During the summer, they're closed Mondays and Tuesdays as well.
CREDIT CARDS: Not accepted.
SMOKING POLICY: Smoking area available.
HANDICAPPED ACCESS: A couple of tall steps make the diner inaccessible to wheelchairs.

The New Yorker Diner in Watertown doesn't have one of those giant, eight- or 10-page menus, listing every food you've ever heard of, as many diners do. Nor does it qualify as a ferns-and-fancy-napkins lure for the upscale breakfast crowd.

The popular Mount Auburn Street restaurant serves an affordable, basic breakfast at convenient hours, when you're likely to find yourself in the breakfast mood: It's open morning, noon and late at night.

The New Yorker is relatively small and clean, with booths or counter service, and the friendliest of help. During one visit, a waitress sat familiarly on the edge of the seat at our booth as she took our order. It's a relaxed atmosphere and even when it's crowded, you're not likely to encounter more than a few minutes' wait.

For a few dollars, there are eggs, any way you want 'em, served with home fries, toast and sausage or bacon. The French toast is a mere $3.25 and their thick and tasty omelets are priced $4.20 to $5.50. For the hungry, there's even an $11 steak-and-eggs special.

They also have a basic lunch menu featuring burgers ($3.25 to $4), soups and club sandwiches ($4.50 to $5), as well as daily specials.

Of particular note are the omelets, which are large and generous on the fillings. One came thick with cheese and tasty ham; another was stuffed with lots of link breakfast sausages and cheese. The Western is delicious and the cheese version comes with a choice of cheeses: feta, cheddar or American. You can also get bacon, tomato or broccoli with cheese.

The two eggs with toast and bacon (you can order sausage instead) were $3.95 and came cooked exactly as ordered — in my case, over easy.

The French toast was made with Italian bread and cooked to a golden-brown. And it's sliced to an edible thickness, unlike fancier breakfast joints I've seen whose French toast designers seem to have forgotten what size the human mouth is.

As with any inexpensive breakfast, the New Yorker's comes without the frills. There was margarine instead of butter, slathered a bit too thickly on the toast. And the only decaffeinated coffee they offered was instant Sanka. The syrup for French toast was of the "table syrup" variety, and came in difficult-to-use individual plastic containers.

But there were refills on coffee, and we were able to relax over an extended conversation without feeling any pressure to leave. What more can you ask from a Saturday morning breakfast?

Teddy bear clinic at hospital

The Association for the Care of Children's Health recognizing March 25-31 as Children in Hospitals Week. The goal of this week is to increase public awareness of the psychosocial needs of children and families in the health care system and to encourage health care institutions to meet these needs.

To highlight the week, Cambridge Pediatrics of The Cambridge Hospital has scheduled the third annual Teddy Bear Clinic for selected Cambridge preschools. During the clinic, children learn about the steps involved in a check-up and become familiar with a hospital setting. Pediatricians examine the children's teddy bears and demonstrate how to take a temperature, listen to a heartbeat, and check for a sore throat. Children also tour the hospital x-ray room and watch how casting is done.

"The clinic is a tremendous success," says Margaret Coleman, M.D., director of Cambridge Pediatrics. "It gives children an opportunity to interact with the pediatrics staff and become familiar with the steps involved in a check-up."

Cambridge Pediatrics is located at The Cambridge Hospital and can be reached by calling 864-2889.

DAN SILVA
CALLING COMMUNITY VOLUNTEERS
If you've been combining a career as homemaker with community volunteer, you could have developed some important marketable skills. Consider putting them to work as a real estate professional.
As a Realtor, you can help people, and earn a handsome income. Many volunteers are expert negotiators, can keep many balls in the air at once, and are great at working with others to accomplish their organization's goals. These are skills we look for in prospective sales associates. Real estate is not easy work. It requires dedication, the ability to listen and an appreciation of other people, both customers and colleagues. While it's hard to predict who will do well in the business, we have found that many of our area's top producers came into the business with community service experience as an important part of their backgrounds. If you've been considering a new career, and if real estate attracts you, let's talk.
For solid advice on buying or selling real estate, consult the professionals at Silva Realty. Please call us at 661-2525 in Cambridge.

Re: Review of Pending Ordinances

Dear Councillor Duehay:

I write in response to Joe Connarton's letter of January 24th to Russell Higley, in which he says that you would like all Ordinances reviewed by this office prior to the hearing before the Committee on Ordinances. In this letter, I will comment on some of the Ordinances mentioned in Mr. Connarton's letter.

1. Disposition of city-owned land (I understand that there will be a hearing on this Ordinance on 2/21/90)

This Ordinance would replace s. 2-10 of the 1972 Codification of the City Ordinances and s. 2.110.010 of the Cambridge Municipal Code.

Towns are generally authorized to convey real estate by G.L. c. 40, s. 3, which is made applicable to cities by G.L. c. 40, s. 1. In a city like Cambridge, the sale of city-owned property is "essentially a legislative function." Sancta Maria Hospital v. Cambridge, 369 Mass. 586, 592 (1976).

I see no legal impediment to the passage of this Ordinance, but I have the following questions, comments and suggestions:

First paragraph

What is meant by "relocation" of city-owned property?

I suggest that the phrase "or similar disposition" be eliminated and that this paragraph specify exactly which transactions it applies to.

Third paragraph

Strike the words "unless" through "goal," so that the paragraph reads as follows:

> No disposition of City Property shall be completed until the following process has taken place:

Paragraph (4)

For the sake of clarity, I would amend this paragraph to read as follows:

> The City Council shall hold a public hearing within one month of receipt of the Planning Board's recommendation.

2. Zoning Petition of David Clem to change the area bounded by Binney Street and Cardinal Medeiros Avenue from Industry B to Industry A - 1st pub. #2475.

3. Cambridgeport Interim Planning Extension

4. East Cambridge Planning Extension

I see no legal problems regarding these three zoning matters. I understand from Les Barber that the Planning Board will be making recommendations.

5. Licensing of dogs - 1st pub. #2436

This section 4-7 in the 1972 codification is now section 6.04.020 in the new code.

6. Disposition of Complaints - dogs - 1st pub. #2437

This section 4-11(b) in the 1972 codification is now section 6.04.110 (c) in the new Code.

Both of these are technical amendments drafted by the Law Department, and we recommend their ordination.

I will comment on the other Ordinances in a future letter.

Very truly yours,

Birge Albright

REPORTS FROM CITY OFFICIALS

Communication from Birge Albright, Legal Counsel, Law Dept., transmitting recommendations regarding various ordinances pending before the Committee on Ordinances.

In City Council,

March 12, 1990

Referred to the petitions

The Committee heard from Hugo Salemme of Third Street, East Cambridge, who stated he supported the extension request but his major concern was to find a way through the zoning process to mandate the development of affordable housing. He continued, in response to Councillor Myers, that the neighborhood is attempting to identify areas for housing development, but just have not gotten to specifics as it relates to a mandate.

At this time, the Committee heard from Paul Casey representing Com/Energy with offices on Third Street in East Cambridge, who stated Com/Energy was the largest property owner within the affected area and it was the company's hope that no further extensions would be requested or granted beyond June 30, 1990.

The Mayor questioned whether anyone else wished to speak in favor of the petition.

No one responded.

The Mayor questioned whether anyone else wished to speak in opposition of the petition.

No one responded.

At this time, Councillor Russell moved that the petition be referred to the full City Council without recommendation.

The hearing was adjourned at 6:19 p.m.

For the Committee

Mayor Alice K. Wolf

City of Cambridge

The Committee on Ordinances conducted a public hearing on Wednesday, February 28, 1990 beginning at 5:40 p.m. in the Sullivan Chamber, City Hall. Present at the hearing were Mayor Alice K. Wolf, Councillor Sheila Russell, Councillor William Walsh, Councillor Timothy Toomey, Vice Mayor Kenneth Reeves, and City Clerk Joseph Connarton.

Mayor Wolf announced that the Chairman of the Committee, Councillor Francis Duehay was ill and consequently she would Chair the meeting.

At this time the Mayor stated the Committee would consider the petition of the Planning Board to amend the Zoning Ordinances in Section 3.15 entitled "The East Cambridge Interim Planning Overlay District" by deleting the existing paragraph and inserting a new paragraph extending the moratorium through June 30, 1990.

Mr. Michael Rosenberg, Assistant City Manager for Community Development, outlined the proposed change to the Committee stating that no other text change was being suggested. Furthermore, he continued, the East Cambridge Advisory Committee has been working very hard with the neighborhood and business groups to develop solid and positive recommendations which he hopes to have available to the City Council by early June, 1990.

At this time, the Committee heard from Chris Chadbourne, Chairman of the East Cambridge Advisory Committee, who informed the Committee of the ongoing work with the people of the neighborhood. He stated that his Committee has been meeting since September, 1988 and they now have a "draft" zoning petition from which they will begin to deal with specifics of the area.

City of Cambridge

The Committee on Ordinances conducted a public hearing on Wednesday, February 28, 1990 beginning at 6:20 p.m. in the Sullivan Chamber, City Hall. Present at the hearing were Mayor Alice Wolf, Vice Mayor Kenneth Reeves, Councillor Sheila Russell, Councillor Jonathan Myers, Councillor William Walsh, Councillor Timothy Toomey and City Clerk Joseph Connarton.

Mayor Wolf opened the hearing by stating that the Chairman of the Committee, Councillor Francis Duehay was ill and therefore she would chair the hearing.

Mayor Wolf opened the hearing by stating that pursuant to a previously adopted order of the City Council in March 1989, former Mayor Alfred Vellucci appointed a "Mayoral Blue Ribbon Committee on Billboards" in an effort to review the number, location, and content of the billboards throughout Cambridge, ~~and made~~ This Committee can ordinance to regulate billboards recommendations to the City Council. The purpose of this hearing, she continued, was to review those recommendations as resubmitted by a motion of Councillor Cyr.

At this time, the Committee heard from Sondra Scheir, ~~chair~~ (member) of the Mayoral Committee, who stated that the committee held a series of meetings at which they;

reviewed all locations of Cambridge billboards;

reviewed the regulations of the Outdoor Advertising Authority;

received public testimony from various local officials including the Board of Assessors;

reviewed a report from the Cambridge City Solicitor's Office relative to their work with the Zoning Specialist of the Community Development Department regarding amending the City's Zoning Ordinance with court-tested language from the City of Somerville Sign Ordinance.

At this time Ms. Scheir presented a series of witnesses who spoke in favor of the proposals before the Committee, beginning with;

George McCray, Chairman
North Cambridge Stabilization Committee

Honorable Eugene Brune
Former Mayor of Somerville and Register of Deeds

Anthony Sullivan
City Solicitor, City of Somerville

Christopher Lovelock
21 Cogswell Avenue, Cambridge

Fred Small
80 Aberdeen Avenue, Cambride

Paul Walker
237 Brattle Street, Cambridge

Alan Bear
8 Gerry's Landing Road, Cambridge

Richard Clarey, Esquire
15 Brookford Street, Cambridge

Jack Martinelli
171 Auburn Street, Cambridge

Speaking directly to the experience Somerville had relative to removing billboards, former Mayor Brune provided the Committee with some history. He stated that upon being elected to office in 1977, he found approximately 30 billboards per square mile and approximately 120 in total. Once he attempted to begin a process to remove them, Donnelly Advertising Company and later Ackerly Communications fought the City through every step. Litigation resulted and lengthy court appearances took place, the final result being that 42 fewer billboards now appear throughout Somerville.

At this time the Committee heard from Anthony Sullivan, City Solicitor of Somerville, who outlined the various stages of litigation the City went through. He stated that the U.S. Supreme Court gave increased protection to this type of advertising in a 1981 landmark decision, Metro Media vs. City of San Diego and consequently made it somewhat more difficult to force such signs to be removed. Furthermore he stated the Committee needs to understand that the billboard industry will "go to war" with Cambridge in an effort to retain all the billboards currently in place.

Furthermore, Attorney Sullivan suggested that the City consider hiring outside counsel who not only should be a first Amendment expert but someone who has some environmental experience as well. He suggested that although the proposal before the Committee is a good one, it could use some tightening. He also stated that even though the U. S. District Court found the Somerville Ordinance to be constitutional, Ackerly Comunications appealed the decision and with the exception of a retroactive clause within the ordinance, the decision of the District Court was upheld.

Thusfar, he said, responding to a question by Councillor Toomey, the City of Somerville has spent some $180,000.00 in legal fees and Cambridge should expect similar costs.

Both Councillor Myers and Russell stated they intend to support the proposed ordinance but Councillor Russell stated she felt that prior to this being referred out of committee, some consideration should be given to the possibility of hiring outside counsel.

At this time Vice Mayor Reeves questioned what, if any, revenue loss resulted from the reduction of billboards? Attorney Sullivan responded by stating that the total collected on an annual basis was $10,000.00.

At this time the Committee heard from Joseph Tulimieri, Executive Director of the Cambridge Redelopment Authority, who outlined the Authority's partially successful experience with Ackerly Communications. He further stated that it was the Authority's position that Ackerly would seek full reimbursement for anything that causes them to lose a sign location.

During the comment made by Richard Clarey, he informed the Committee he believed Ackerly Communications, by suggesting that a "Billboard Advisory Commission" be appointed, had manipulated the Council, since Ackerly thus far has been fairly unresponsive, ~~and~~ Mr Clarey believes they (Ackerly) thought the commission would not make any substantive recommendations. Furthermore he informed the Committee that he has carefully reviewed the proposed ordinance and believes that although Ackerly may have some legal recourse in the area of "taking and "on premises" advertising, these things can be addressed by the City.

Responding to a question by Mayor Wolf relative to the hiring of outside counsel, Attorney Clarey stated he did agree the legal issues which will be before the Council are in fact 1st Amendment and environmental issues and, consequently, outside counsel may be appropriate. Finally, in response to Vice Mayor Reeves, Attorney Cleary stated that, to the best of his knowledge, the Cambridge Assessors do not know if they collect revenue from billboards.

At this time, Vice Mayor Reeves requested the City Clerk to obtain from the Assessors a report outlining the tax policy for billboards.

At this time Councillor Russell moved to refer the proposed amendments to the full City Council without recommendation and with the Vice Mayor's request. That the revenue question be answered by the Assessors as soon as possible.

For the Committee,

Alice K. Wolf
Mayor

City of Cambridge

The Committee on Ordinances conducted a public hearing on Wednesday, February 28, 1990 beginning at 5:57 p.m. in the Sullivan Chamber, City Hall. Present at the hearing were Mayor Alice Wolf, Councillor Sheila Russell, Councillor Jonathan Myers, Councillor William Walsh, Councillor Timothy Toomey, Vice Mayor Kenneth Reeves and City Clerk Joseph Connarton.

Mayor Wolf stated that due to illness, Councillor Francis Duehay, Chairman of the Committee would not be in attendance and consequently she would be chairing the meeting.

The Mayor stated the Committee would hear the petition of the Planning Board to amend the Zoning Ordinance by amending the text of Section 3.14, entitled Cambrideport Interim Planning Overlay District, by deleting Section 3.14 and substituting a new paragraph extending the moratorium through June 30, 1990.

Mr. Michael Rosenberg, Assistant City Manager for Community Development, outlined the proposal to the Committee and stated that no other text change was being requested.

He further stated that should this extension be granted, the Cambridgeport Advisory Committee would continue its very hard work with the neighborhood and commercial and industrial properties.

At this time the Committee heard from Peter Steffian, Chairman of the Cambridgeport Advisory Committee, who stated the Committee has and continues to meet in an effort to address numerous concerns raised through the planning process.

The Committee heard from Hugo Salemme of Third Street, East Cambridge, who stated he supported the extension request but his major concern was to find a way through the zoning process to mandate the development of affordable housing. He continued, in response to Councillor Myers, that the neighborhood is attempting to identify areas for housing development, but just has not gotten to specifics as it relates to a mandate.

At this time, the Committee heard from Paul Casey representing Com/Energy with offices on Third Street in East Cambridge, who stated Com/Energy was the largest property owner within the affected area and it was the company's hope that no further extensions would be requested or granted beyond June 30, 1990.

The Mayor questioned whether anyone else wished to speak in favor of the petition.

No one responded.

The Mayor questioned whether anyone else wished to speak in opposition of the petition.

No one responded.

At this time, Councillor Russell moved that the petition be referred to the full City Council without recommendation.

The hearing was adjourned at 6:19 p.m.

For the Committee

Mayor Alice K. Wolf
