- WHEREAS: The City of Cambridge recognizes the indelible impression that the late Lucy Hammerman left on the children of Cambridge; and
- WHEREAS: Lucy Hammerman served lovingly as the Executive Director of the Community Arts Center which, unlike its current spacious and light-filled quarters, in Lucy's time was in the basement of the Newtowne Court; and
- WHEREAS: Lucy Hammerman's legacy lives on today. It was her definitive offering that the city's children, but particularly its poor children, should be exposed to the very best artists and have exposure to the fullest range of the arts. She left no stone unturned in providing a rich artistic experience to those in her charge; and
- WHEREAS: Lucy Hammerman was plain spoken, kind, firm, loving, nurturing, truthful, quiet, and formidable. She left very large shoes to fill; and
- WHEREAS: Lucy served as a member of the Board of Directors of the Community Arts Center and offered CMAC her great wisdom about how an arts organization must know its audience and be able to know the grass roots constituents because one is actively engaged with people at the grass roots; now therefore be it
- RESOLVED: There are people who on their journey through life have touched the hearts of the people of Cambridge. Lucy Hammerman was one such person. She lives on in the work of the Community Arts Center and the mission of the Cambridge Community Arts Center and amongst her family and friends. Honoring her with a memorial plaque is an honor richly deserved.
