Denise Gallison seeks jail term reduction

By LAURENCE DWYER
Staff Writer

Denise M. Gallison sat expressionless in a twelfth floor courtroom in Middlesex Superior Court as her attorney asked that her 18 to 20-year prison term for the manslaughter of her daughter be cut in half.

Dressed in old clothes, the 24-year-old Somerville woman showed no emotion when her lawyer, Bernard Bradley, told Judge Paul G. Garrity that Denise is now willing to be sterilized "And the only people she was a threat to were her own children," Bradley said.

She is taking high school courses and undergoing therapy at MCI Framingham where she is serving her sentence, Bradley added.

Gallison, who is also serving a nine to 10-year prison term for assaulting her 4-year-old son, was sentenced 14 months ago for killing her 2-year-old daughter, Jennifer Lisa, whose dismembered body was thrown out with the trash.

Herthird child, born in prison, was given up for adoption last year.

Bradley is also seeking a new trial for his client who told a prison therapist four months after her trial that it was her husband Edward, 29, and not herself, who caused their daughter's fatal injury. Assistant District Attorney Edward Gargiulo argued against both motions, which were taken under advisement by Garrity.

Edward Gallison is now serving an 18 to 20-year sentence in Walpole for his daughter's death.

In listing his reasons for cutting her prison term in half, Bradley said Denise Gallison was working toward a high school equivalency degree in prison, scoring an 88 in her English course.

When Garrity asked her how far she had gone in school as a child, she replied: "I don't know."

When her husband was tried last November, she testified against him saying that her daughter had died in February 1978 after he had pushed her, causing her to hit her head on a chair, Bradley said.

"She insisted that I not seek any kind of promise or deal for her testimony. To just give the information," he said. "She said she just wanted to get it off her mind.

"I think this indicates that she is starting to think, starting to put her life together," he added.

Bradley described her decision not to seek some kind of deal for her testimony earlier as "probably the biggest mistake of her life."

In arguing against the two motions, Gargiulo pointed out that no new evidence was available and Gallison, who was physically separated from her husband and in no danger, was aware of her right to testify when she refused to take the stand at her own trial.

Gargiulo said the commonwealth believed that the prison term was fair and justified by the facts of the case.

At the end of the hearing Gallison pleaded guilty to assault and battery on a corrections officer whom she kicked and scratched on the chest last April. Garrity filed the charge.

Teenagers of the Year will be honored by the Somerville Lodge of Elks #917 for 1979-1980. Planning the event (left to right) are Somerville High Teacher Thomas O'Brien, retired school administrator Dr. Joseph Regan, School Community Relations Coordinator Joseph Hrubi, Past Exalted Ruler Joeeph Bruno (chairman), Western Junior High teacher Charles McKenney, and Exalted Ruler James S. Irwin. Nominations forms for Teenager and Junior Teenager of the Year may be obtained from the principal or guidance counselor at each school. All Somerville residents are eligible.

By ROBERT KILLAM
Staff Writer

The 75 million tons of asbestos insulation sprayed in shipyards, factories, mills and schools over the past 30 years is a threat to both health and life, a New York doctor told a seminar at Harvard University yesterday.

Dr. Irving Selikoff said dust from carelessly removed asbestos can cause respiratory illness years from now and even lung cancer.

Selikoff, director of Environmental Sciences at Mt. Sinai School of Medicine in New York City, called asbestos "a biological timebomb" because its effects are not felt for 20 years after it is inhaled.

The doctors said just one week of inhalation 20 years ago can increase the likelihood of lung cancer today by 500 percent among smokers even through they have inhaled no asbestos in two decades.

Selikoff addressed the Speakers Forum at the Harvard School of Public Health.

Asbestos, sprayed widely 30 years ago before its hazard was known, is now a threat to 75 million Americans. Selikoff said even today plumbers, pipefitters, electricians, phone men and others are scraping off asbestos and inhaling the fumes unaware of the danger.

He said a 35-year-old Quincy woman died recently after handling clothes worn by her father, an asbestos worker.

"Nature played a dirty trick on us," Selikoff said, "because we didn't appreciate the incubation period." A man can inhale asbestos dust for days, change jobs and be perfectly well for years, and then die from the asbestos, Selikoff said.

He warned schools should have asbestos removed by experts wearing masks and removing the material carefully and disposing of it properly.

$918,713 for unforeseen expenses

School supplement fund sought

The Cambridge School Department will seek an additional $918,713 from the city council to compensate for unforeseen expenses imposed by Federal and state mandates and excessive fuel costs.

That would be in addition to the previously appropriated budget of $28,409,324.

Budget Subcommittee Chairman Glenn Koocher, Mayor Francis Duehay and Committee Vice Chairperson Alice Wolf recommended that the school committee request the near $1 million in supplemental funds following a hearing last night with Assistant Superintendent Oliver Brown and Fiscal Manager James Conry.

Brown told the subcommittee that fuel costs of $218,000 in excess of budgeted amounts, and mandates placed on the schools to comply with federal Office of Civil Rights regulations total over $500,000.

He said the regulations related to equal educational opportunities for bilingual and handicapped students.

In response to Mayor Duehay's question regarding the impact of the city council refusing the request, Brown said such action could result in a layoff of personnel and a general freeze on all expenditures and payments.

"Current estimates assume a cutoff of all but essential expenditures for the balance of the fiscal year," Brown said. "In our opinion, substantially all basic instructional materials and supplies have been delivered or are ordered and are therefore included in the estimates.

"Any further requirements would probably not be received until the school year is at an end in any case," he said.

"It is also assumed that no new positions (positions not previously filled this fiscal year) will be filled until next fiscal year," he said.

A joint meeting of the Finance Committee of the City Council and the budget subcommittee of the School Committee has been scheduled for 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Ted, Carter aides claim victory

By MARGARET PANTRIDGE
Special to Herald American

Kennedy and Carter supporters both claimed victory last night when the Somerville Democratic Ward and City Committee failed to endorse a presidential candidate.

After four ballots, the tally of 61 votes for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and 45 for President Jimmy Carter remained unchanged except for the addition of one Kennedy vote cast by a late arrival.

The two-thirds majority of 69 votes was required for endorsement.

Assessor John Howe, Kennedy's Somerville Campaign coordinator, said, "It was a great victory for Sen. Kennedy. He did get a majority of the vote and he is running against an incumbent president.

Former Alderman Joseph Guidi, Carter's Somerville campaign coordinator, said, "We started late. We knew we were going to have a tough time nominating Carter. Our objective was to win if possible and if not, to stop any nomination of Kennedy. That in itself was a victory."

Gov. Edward J. King, representing President Carter, said voters are concerned primarily with inflation, the economy and energy problems. He said wage and price controls proposed by Sen.Kennedy, "are in the opposite direction of what we need."

King said believes domestic production of new energy supplies through synthetic fuels, Georges Bank oil and nuclear power are better solutions.

King also praised Carter's leadership in the Iran hostage crisis. He said, "The overriding facts are that those Americans are alive and, I'm convinced, will be back safely."

Harvard economics professor John Kenneth Galbraith spoke on Kennedy's behalf calling him, "the best senator New England and Massachusetts has had." Parodying the title of a book written by President Carter, Galbraith said, "Just ask yourself . . . why not the best?"

He criticized King for descending oil industry profits. "I was surprised there was anyone left who was impressed with their poverty," he said.

Galbraith praised Kennedy's wage and price controls and gasoline rationing plan.

He concluded, "We don't want two conservative candidates although Gov. King might like it. We want a good, progressive, modern Massachusetts liberal."

One convention participant said of Galbraith's speech, "His biggest mistake was he thought this was a liberal community."

State Rep. Vincent Piro, Democratic Ward & City Committee chairman, said he was disappointed at the low turnout of 106 of 235 committee members.

Three locked doors didn't deter slayer of B&M engineer in Hub

By ED CORSETTI and HAROLD BANKS
Staff Writers

The killer of August W. Viden Jr., 53, had to get through three locked doors to lie in wait for him in his two-room, second floor apartment at 492 Commercial St., North End, police said yesterday.

The killer also had to know that Viden's friend, Betsy Lytton, 31, of Hanover Street, North End, was not in his apartment, as she frequently was, investigators said.

Lytton discovered the Boston & Maine railroad engineer's body on the floor of the kitchen on her return at 12:30 a.m. yesterday from a shopping trip.

His hands were bound behind his back with a yard of white nylon cord similar to the kind used in venetian blinds. He had been gagged with a red bandanna of the type used by railroad men, but his own, a blue one, was still tied around his neck.

Medical Examiner Leonard Atkins said Viden, who was divorced by his first wife and was about to divorce his second, had suffered multiple stab wounds in the chest. One of them, he said, was delivered with such force that it cracked one of Viden's ribs. Atkins said the murder was committed some time between 7 p.m. and midnight Monday.

Bloody footprints on a newspaper, and Viden's watch, which had been torn from a chain looped around his belt and may bear the killer's fingerprints, were the only potential clues, investigators said.

They said the killer had to get through a locked outer door to the apartment house, through a locked door to the second-floor corridor, and then through Viden's apartment door, which had a spring lock. There were no signs of forced entry, they said.

Acting homicide chief Lieutenant Det. Sam Abany said robbery was probably not the killer's motive. He said Viden's wallet contained more than $100.

Homicide Detectives Jack Spencer and George Whitley said one of Viden's neighbors heard him talking about 6 p.m. with a man who identified himself by name as a new railroad employee.

The neighbor said the man asked Viden where he could get a room. Giden advised him, the neighbor said, that the railroad has facilities for new employees until they find their own living quarters.

But the railroad reported no such person was in its employ and no one by that name had applied for temporary shelter.

On the outer threshhold to Viden's apartment, Sergeant John P. Meade said, stood a paper bag containing two frozen shrimp-scampi dinners, three packs of Parodi cigars, a quart of Jack Daniels bourbon, and a quart of ginger ale.

Viden, who had 20 keys on a ring, had apparently set the bag down to pick out the one to his apartment, an investigator said, and when he opened the door, the killer seized him from inside, possibly at the point of a gun to prevent any outcry.

Then, the investigator said, the killer used the knife rather than risk the sound of gunfire being heard by neighbors.

Viden had listed his first wife, Charlene Draper of North Glen, Colo., mother of their two daughters, 18 and 22 years old, as next of kin when he rented the apartment Nov. 13.

He and his second wife, Sharon Viden, 29, of Armstrong Circle, Braintree, who also bore him a daughter, now eight years old, were separated.

Mrs. Viden served part of a six-year sentence for manslaughter in the May 9, 1976, shooting death of Richard A. DiCesare, 31, of Granite Street, Braintree, whom she had met approximately 18 months earlier.

His body was found partially buried under eight inches of soil in her back yard. At that time Viden said his wife shot DiCesare in the kitchen of her home because she was afraid he was going to assault her.

Three locked doors didn't deter slayer of B&M engineer in Hub

By ED CORSETTI and HAROLD BANKS
Staff Writers

The killer of August W. Viden Jr., 53, had to get through three locked doors to lie in wait for him in his two-room, second floor apartment at 492 Commercial St., North End, police said yesterday.

The killer also had to know that Viden's friend, Betsy Lytton, 31, of Hanover Street, North End, was not in his apartment, as she frequently was, investigators said.

Lytton discovered the Boston & Maine railroad engineer's body on the floor of the kitchen on her return at 12:30 a.m. yesterday from a shopping trip.

His hands were bound behind his back with a yard of white nylon cord similar to the kind used in venetian blinds. He had been gagged with a red bandanna of the type used by railroad men, but his own, a blue one, was still tied around his neck.

Medical Examiner Leonard Atkins said Viden, who was divorced by his first wife and was about to divorce his second, had suffered multiple stab wounds in the chest. One of them, he said, was delivered with such force that it cracked one of Viden's ribs. Atkins said the murder was committed some time between 7 p.m. and midnight Monday.

Bloody footprints on a newspaper, and Viden's watch, which had been torn from a chain looped around his belt and may bear the killer's fingerprints, were the only potential clues, investigators said.

They said the killer had to get through a locked outer door to the apartment house, through a locked door to the second-floor corridor, and then through Viden's apartment door, which had a spring lock. There were no signs of forced entry, they said.

Acting homicide chief Lieutenant Det. Sam Abany said robbery was probably not the killer's motive. He said Viden's wallet contained more than $100.

Homicide Detectives Jack Spencer and George Whitley said one of Viden's neighbors heard him talking about 6 p.m. with a man who identified himself by name as a new railroad employee.

The neighbor said the man asked Viden where he could get a room. Giden advised him, the neighbor said, that the railroad has facilities for new employees until they find their own living quarters.

But the railroad reported no such person was in its employ and no one by that name had applied for temporary shelter.

On the outer threshhold to Viden's apartment, Sergeant John P. Meade said, stood a paper bag containing two frozen shrimp-scampi dinners, three packs of Parodi cigars, a quart of Jack Daniels bourbon, and a quart of ginger ale.

Viden, who had 20 keys on a ring, had apparently set the bag down to pick out the one to his apartment, an investigator said, and when he opened the door, the killer seized him from inside, possibly at the point of a gun to prevent any outcry.

Then, the investigator said, the killer used the knife rather than risk the sound of gunfire being heard by neighbors.

Viden had listed his first wife, Charlene Draper of North Glen, Colo., mother of their two daughters, 18 and 22 years old, as next of kin when he rented the apartment Nov. 13.

He and his second wife, Sharon Viden, 29, of Armstrong Circle, Braintree, who also bore him a daughter, now eight years old, were separated.

Mrs. Viden served part of a six-year sentence for manslaughter in the May 9, 1976, shooting death of Richard A. DiCesare, 31, of Granite Street, Braintree, whom she had met approximately 18 months earlier.

His body was found partially buried under eight inches of soil in her back yard. At that time Viden said his wife shot DiCesare in the kitchen of her home because she was afraid he was going to assault her.

Full bench to hear school prayer law

The controversial voluntary public school prayer law will be heard by the full bench of the Supreme Judicial Court on March 7.

Justice Herbert P. Wilkins made the announcement yesterday after attorneys for the Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts, (CLUM), the American Jewish Congress and Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti filed a joint motion requesting that a suit on the constitutionality o the recently enacted law be decided by the seven justices of the commonwealth's highest court.

The suit brought on behalf of eight families with children in the Framingham and Marblehead school systems, names among the defendants, state Education Commissioner Gregory R. Anrig.

DENNIS BROWN, a Cambridge Rindge and Latin School senior, will wrestle in the state championships this weekend.

St. Mary's unbeaten hoopsters eye state

St. Mary's of Cambridge needed only one more victory last night against St. Columbkille's to complete an undefeated 20-0 season. Last week they chalked up their 18th and 19th victories over Hudson Catholic and St. Clement's, both on the road.

Wednesday, they played their toughest battle of the year as the Spartans pulled out a squeaker over Hudson with a 25-14 fourth quarter to quiet down an excited crowd. Ralph Grasso's hot hand actually kept the Green Wave of Hudson in the game finishing with 23 points. But the devastating fourth quarter helped the Spartans gain their 18th win on a display of fast-break basketball, which they have used with deadly success all year, combined with good steady, free-throw shooting.

Led by a balanced scoring attack with all the starting five in double figures, Lloyd Gray and Jay Keane posted 16 a piece, guards Marc Ianacco and Eddie Gibson added 12 each, and center, Fran Cunningham, pumped in 11.

Sunday's game was much easier as the Spartans, playing at Somerville High School, embarrassed Clement's 80-57. Running off to a quick 19-10 first quarter and a 37-20 halftime lead, St. Mary's was confident that their 19th triumph was in the bag. Eddie Gibson was high man with 20 pts. and once again the starting lineup were in double figures. Ianacco, Gray, and Cunningham had 14 and Jay Keane threw in 10.

An unselfish athlete

By David McKay Wilson
Chronicle staff

Dennis Brown is an unselfish high school athlete able to look beyond his personal accomplishments, to give others a chance to shine. A Cambridge Rindge & Latin School senior, Brown stars on the Warriors wrestling squad, and this Saturday, will compete in the 189-pound weight class in the state championships.

That's not so unusual, until you learn that Brown weighs just 167 and could qualify for the 169-pound class. Instead of wrestling in his own group, Brown guns for the heavyweights, to give teammate Errol Hudson a chance in the 169-pound class. Teams are allowed to enter just one wrestler per class in the meets.

"I want to give Hudson a chance to make a name for himself," says Brown, a two-time Suburban League football All-Star at noseguard and kicker. "I've ended up doing pretty well in the 189-class. He's (Hudson's) a sure winner when he is up to it, so I would rather the team had two victories instead of just one."

Wrestling against opponents with more than 20 pounds on him, the scrappy Brown has won 11 of 13 matches this year, with one draw. Eight were pins. Last weekend he took second place in the Boston City Championships. Teammate Seth Harpending won the 128-pound class, sophomore Carl Kale won the silver medal in the 100 pound class, and Hudson joined senior Doug Sanford and David Holden for third place finishes.

Wrestling coach Tom Healey thinks the grapplers unprecedented success this year bodes well for the team's future. Two years ago, the team had only club status; it was not a full-fledged varsity sport. This year, the squad was able to win two meets in its tough Suburban League opposition. Healey says that once the school can field wrestlers in all weight classes, the team's record will improve.

Brown is among the seniors graduating, but he feels that the team's progress will show up on next year's record.

"We only started with seven guys this year, but now the team is up to 20," he says. "We put ads in the school paper saying that the training will put you into good shape. Our coach knows his stuff, and works us real hard each week. But he makes sure we keep up our grades too. There were seven more kids who wanted to come out but were told their grades were too low."

After putting away his books, Brown studies wrestling moves to perfect his tactics against larger opponents. His "ball-and-chain" takedown has been particularly successful.

"You need a good takedown to get control of the guy," says Brown, who may need surgery for a split vertebrae in his lower back. "You grab his nearest leg with your leg, then get under his neck and over his left arm, suck it in all the way, force him straight to the mat, lift his leg with yours to gain control. It's a very nice move."

This spring Brown must make another fancy move: he'll decide what college he'll attend. Springfield College wants him to wrestle, Kentucky State wants him to play football, and recruiters from Boston State, Middlebury College, and Norwich University think the youth will fit in at their schools.

Brown also has his final track season to deal with. Each year, he's participated in a different event. First it was the 100 yard dash, then the 440, and last year he hop-skipped-and-jumped to the Suburban League triple jump crown. Recently he went 22 feet in the long jump and may go that route this spring.

Pucksters youth tourney

The Cambridge Pee Wee's won one and lost two tough games going into the State Tournament District playoffs which start today at Wilmington.

In the first game they defeated Wakefield, 5-3, with John Kosinski getting a three goal "Hat Trick" to lead them to victory. Kenny Young and Paul Ciampa each had one goal. Other assists went to Jimmy Gondolfe (two), Sergie Paoilillo, Phil Dusualt, Kevin Murphy, and Paul Corea.

On Saturday they played Winthrop in a make-up and lost a tough one to them, 8-6, with Ciampa leading the way with two goals. Other goals were scored Sil Ferriera, Young, Corea, and Kosinski, he also had two assists. Assists went to Sil and Jimmy Gondolfe.

They played second place Reading at Danvers and lost, 4-1, with Young getting the only goal with an assist to Ciampa and Murphy.

The Squirt A team defeated Randolph, 5-4, at Randolph in a non-league game with Robert Kelly and Larry Mondello each had two goals in the game. Larry had three assists and Kelly had one assist.

The Squirt A team also played in the state tournament and lost areal Heart breaker to Everett in double over-time.

Goals in the game were scored by Mondello with assists to Kelly and Mike Pearson. Dennis Marshall had the other goal for them. Goalie was Jack King.

On Sunday they lost their league game to Somerville, 3-1, with Robert Kelly getting the only goal. The Cambridge Bantams lost one and won one during the week. They defeated Manchester, 6-1, with six different players scoring the goals for them. Goals were by Tom Walsh, Chris Kelly, Jimmy McGrail, Jim Ferriera, Ivan Bermjo, and Brian Noonam.

On Sunday they lost a real heartbreaker to Lynn, 7-6, on a last second goal. They were lead by Walsh and McGrail each had three goal "Hat Tricks" for them in the game. Goalies were Carl Zappata and Tommy Goode.

The Cambridge Squirt B team played a 0-0 tie with Wakefield on Sunday with Jimmy Palusky recording the shutout in nets for them.

The Cambridge Pee Wee Danehy Associates won their opening game in the State District playoffs, 10-1, over Melrose with Kevin Murphy, Paul Ciampa, and Jimmy Gondolfe getting two goals each in the game for them. Ciampa and Gondolfe also had one assist each in the game. Other goals were scored by Sil Ferriera, Kenny Young, John Kosinski, and Phil Dusualt.

Robbie Wright played a great game in nets for them. They were playing Stoneham in their second game of play.

Cops trample Chelsea

Chelsea-Revere, in a valiant attempt to secure the fourth and final play-off spot in the Greater Boston Police Basketball League, tangled with the mighty Cambridge P.D. "Stirs," only to lose, 75-49, the "Stirs" were equally determined to overtake the State Police "Troopers" for the top spot in the league.

Revere-Chelsea show-cased high scoring guard Jim Griffin who last year averaged 21 points a game, good enough for runner-up position in the league. Cambridge matched Griffin with guard Pat Nagle last year's Co-M.V.P. and league leading scorer with a 22.5 average.

While Griffin kept his team close with an assortment of jump shots and power drives, Nagle matched his counterpart with deadly accuracy while gunning 18 of his 26 points with his popular rainbow shot from the 20-25 ft. area.

Game difference was not Griffin's 27 points or Nagles 26, but swingman Lloyd Lewis who continues to be Cambridge's most unsung hero. Lewis scored 25 points while holding power forward Mike Girabaldi to only 2. In recent games, Cambridge has called upon defensive specialist, Lewis and Tim McCusker to hold opponents top scorers in check while Dave Gittens and Hank Korecki dominate the boards.

Youth hockey night

The Cambridge Youth Hockey Program will hold a Las Vegas night on Friday, March 7 at the National Guard Armory on Concord Ave., near the Fresh Pond rotary at 7:30 P.M. to help raise funds for their trip to Lake Placid, N.Y. the week of March 27 to March 30th with all three A teams going.

The Squirt A Stephen James House team, the Pee Wee A Danehy Associates team, and the Bantam A "VFW 8818" team will be making the trip to play in their Annual Tournament which will have 70 teams in it and play at the Olympic site.

The cost of the tickets will be $2 and $1 in chips will be returned at the door. All boys on the team will be selling tickets and tickets will also be sold at the door.

Elderly merger proposed

Many local officials are concerned that this alignment makes it more difficult to coordinate elderly programs with health care and other human services. The proposed area agency cuts across regional lines used to distribute these other services, they say. For instance, the communities represented in the proposal fall in three separate human services regions.

"One of the big questions for all of us is what are the areas of other social service agencies," said Richard Griffen, Cambridge Council on Aging director. "At least that ought to be looked at. You find no rhyme or reason why we're put where we are."

DEA Secretary Mahoney agrees this could be a problem in the proposed set-up. The areas were based on geogrphy, he said, and his department will look carefully at suggestions that would better dovetail other service delivery areas.

"For the 1980s, long term care for the elderly will be a paramount issue not just for Massachusetts but for the country," said Mahoney. "If there are any suggestions that bear on this (better coordination of health, elderly and other human services), we'll be looking very carefully at them."

Citizen participation

Local leaders are also concerned that the needs of their constituents might not be heard in a large agency.

"I think it's a good move to combine. I think what they should do is talk to the local communities and make sure they're protected, their funding is going to continue," said Robert McElreath, director of the Somerville's Council on Aging, Aging Center, and United Seniors, Transportation Center. "I have a lot of questions about how a board is going to be formed to include adequate participation from both communities."

Gerald Bergman, spokesman for the Cambridge Committee of Elders, wants to make sure citizen participation is preserved.

"Ordinarily consolidation is a bad thing for citizen participation," he said. "It's already difficult for people to understand something the size of the Cambridge-Somerville agency... To what extent does it (proposed structure) affect decision making power? It removes services farther and farther away from recipients."

For now, SCHCC Director John O'Neill feels the plan leaves many questions unanswered.

"The whole thing is a series of questions -- the goals of monitoring, of services, of the fiscal thing," he said. "I certainly support those goals. It's a matter of will this accomplish those ends? If you do have larger regions, are the particular regions they have put together right?"

YWCA swimmers improve

The Cambridge YWCA Flying Fish met up with the Newburyport YWCA swim team last week only to go down to a 84-58 defeat. Still, the Fish were pleased with their performance as they bettered their score from an earlier meet with Newburyport this year.

First place winners for the Cambridge were: Leslie Wood, 16 Magnolia Avenue (11- and 12-year old 50-yard freestyle); Anne Murray, 115 Pearl Street (13- and 14-year old 50-yard backstroke - 39:61); Megan O'Connell, 31 Concord Avenue (8-years old and under 25-yard breastroke - 28:02); Murray (50-yard breastroke - 41:39) and Robin Wall, 16 Newell Street (100-yard open breaststroke event - 1:32:00).

Second place swimmers were: Tammy Driscoll, Peabody Terrace (8-years old and under 25 yard freestyle - 17:5); Sandy Minor, 267 Pearl Street (11- and 12-year old 50 yard freestyle); Murray (50-yard freestyle - 32:41); Tarah Hillsman, 262 Harvard Street (9 and 10-year old 25-yard backstroke - 22:18); Wood (50-yard backstroke - 39:60); Driscoll (25-yard - 29:00); Hillsman (25-yard butterfly - 22:66), Wood (50 yard - butterfly - 43:41) and Murray (50-yard butterfly (40:08). The freestyle relay team for 11 and 12 year olds swimming 200 yards came in second with a time of 2:46:30. The 13 and 14 year olds placed second in 2:59:35 in the same event.

Taking third place positions in the meet were: Kate Foley, 51 Norfolk Street (11- and 12-year old 50-yard freestyle); R. Wall (13 and 14 year old 50-yard freestyle - 36:01); O'Connell (25-yard backstroke - 25:04); Gina Hawley, Sacramento Street (9- and 10-year old 25-yard breaststroke - 24:01); Minor (50-yard breaststroke - 49:08); Minor (50-yard butterfly - 49:9); Driscoll (25-yard butterfly - 33:62); Niki Wortis, 231 Norfolk Street (13-and 14-year old 50 yard butterfly - 43:00); Murray (100-yard individual medley open - 1:24:59); Murray (100-yard freestyle open - 1:18:72) and O'Connell (50-yard freestyule - 55:08).

CITY OF CAMBRIDGE REOPENED INVITATION TO BID FOR LOTS ON THE FORMER RUSSELL SCHOOL SITE

The City of Cambridge, Massachusetts, acting through its City Manager at the direction of an order of the City Council dated May 21, 1979 will receive sealed bids for acquisition of the remaining two lots on the former Russell School site. The site has been divided into eleven lots and a public play area. All eleven lots shall be developed for one-or two-family residential use only. It is the City's intent to discourage speculation and encourage use of the lots for owner-occupied residences.

The minimum bid which will be accepted is $35,000.

The lots offered for sale are located on the former Russell School site which consists of 85,851 square feet in the middle of the block bounded by Larch Road on the west, Huron Avenue on the north, Grozier Road on the east and Fresh Pond Parkway on the south, as shown on Assessors' Plat No. 247. The lots for sale are numbered 4 and 11 on the site plan accompanying this text. A public play area will be developed on the lot identified as number 7 on the accompanying plan.

The deeds for each lot will include deed restrictions requiring design approval by the Community Development Department and requiring construction to begin within two years of a bid's acceptance. Details on these restrictions are included in the bid documents. Short-term speculative investments will be discouraged by resale restrictions in the first five years.

The eleven lots on the Russell School site were offered for sale in three groups over three consecutive months: November 1979, December 1979 and January 1980. The high bidders for lots numbered 4 and 11 chose not to execute purchase and sale agreements and were therefore disqualified. Bids for these two lots will now be reopened.

Bids for lots numbered 4 and 11, as shown on the accompanying plan, will be received at the Office of the Purchasing Agent, City Hall, Cambridge from 9 a.m. on Thursday, February 21, 1980 until 2 p.m. on Thursday, March 6, 1980. The bids will be opened and publicly read in the Walnut Room, City Hall, Cambridge at 2 p.m. on Thursday, March 6, 1980.

Bid documents and related materials will be available for $2.00 (non-refundable) at the Office of the Purchasing Agent, City Hall, Cambridge beginning at 9 a.m. on Thursday, February 21, 1980. These materials include a bid form, complete bidding instructions, a site plan of the eleven lots and the public play area, a list of deed restrictions and design review guidelines, and the invitation for bids.

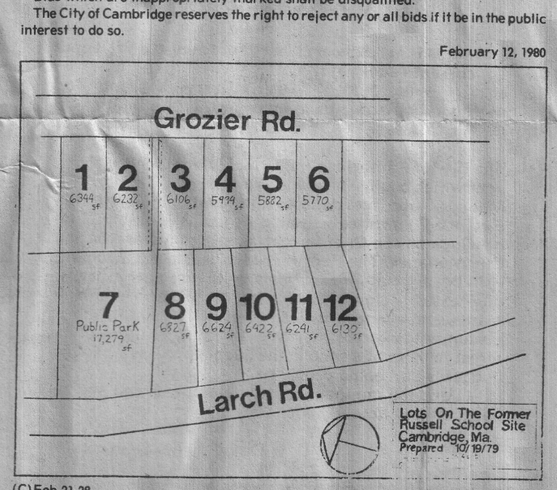

Bidders are only allowed to submit one bid. Each lot will be sold to the highest qualified bidder for said lot in accordance with the regulations set forth in the bid documents for this sale.

Each bid must be in a sealed envelope plainly marked on the outside "Bid for lot number on the former Russell School Site," specifying the lot number as shown on the site plan accompanying this text and addressed to Richard C. Rossi, Purchasing Agent, City Hall, Cambridge, Massachusetts. Bids shall include a signed copy of the bid form and a deposit of $1,000, payable to the City of Cambridge in the form of a certified check.

Bids which are inappropriately marked shall be disqualified.

The City of Cambridge reserves the right to reject any or all bids if it be in the public interest to do so.

Judge refuses to block blasting for Red Line

By RICHARD LAMERE
Staff Writer

Federal Judge Walter Jay Skinner yesterday refused to issue a temporary restraining order requested by the Cambridge City Council and a citizens group seeking to block construction of the MBTA Red Line Extension through North Cambridge because of excessive noise.

At the same time, Skinner scheduled another hearing in the lengthy dispute for Feb. 28 to take testimony from Stephen A. Alsup of Newton, a consultant in engineering geology and geophysics. He contends blasting at the site meets allowable noise levels under environmental laws.

"If Mr. Alsup survives cross examination, I'll be satisfied," the judge said.

The complaintants contend that blasting for twin tunnels, being dug between Harvard Square and Porter Square, was not provided for in the environmental impact statement covering the big project employing hundreds of workers.

But in an affidavit submitted to the court by Attorney Robert City, counsel for Morrison-Knudsen Inc., and Perini Corp., the two contractors building the T extension, Alsup yesterday defended the noise level related to dynamite blasting in the tunnels three times a day.

"I have reviewed detonation analysis reports for all detonations involving tunnel and shaft construction between Harvard Square and Porter Square," Alsup wrote.

"Based upon actual impulse noise level measurements and extrapolations from charge size and location data, impulse noise levels have never approached the peak sound pressure level of 140 decibels. In fact, the highest level did not exceed 100 decibels and the mean is approximately 50 decibels."

Attorney Joseph Alcock the MBTA's general counsel, noted that the environmental impact statement allows for surface noise levels up to 140 decibels.

However, Skinner has questioned whether the contractors should be using boring equipment rather than blasting 80 feet below Massachusetts Avenue. "Blasting is different than boring," Skinner said.

City insisted that the contractors are using adequate geological and construction methods. "The use of blasting is a highly regulated procedure," he said. "We're below any level that would cause damage."

Attorneys for the U.S. Urban Mass Transportation Administration were present in the courtroom but did not testify. The federal government is providing funds for the $440 million project.

"I've received some reports of some loud bangs in the Garfield Street area," the judge said.

If a restraining order is issued at next week's hearing, MBTA construction officials predict that the project would have to shut down for at least a year since it would take that long to obtain a boring machine, at a cost of $5 million.

Council adopts 6 curbs

'Penthouse prison' plan blasted

The Cambridge City Council last night adopted six motions intended to prevent the moving of prisoners into what one councilor termed a "Penthouse Prison" on top of the Middlesex County Courthouse in East Cambridge.

During a special council meeting attended by about 100 residents at the Kennedy School, the council also blasted Sheriff John Buckley, the three county commissioners, Commissioner of Corrections William T. Hogan Jr., and the legislative delegation from the Cambridge district, for not attending the meeting after being invited.

The special session of the council was called as a result of last week's action in which the Middlesex County Commissioners entered into a lease of the jail portion of the courthouse to the Massachusetts Corrections Department to allow the state to operate a classification center "for any prisoner who is sentenced to any state correctional facility."

The commissioners said the expected stay of any inmate would be "from 45 days, with 60 days being the expected maximum stay."

The motions adopted by the council included:

1—Instruct the city building commissioner to deny an occupancy permit.

2—Hire an attorney if the city solicitor needs assistance on the case.

3—Have the city council request the Cambridge delegation to the General Court file legislation intended to cancel the lease.

4—Have the mayor and city solicitor review the law with regard to the Urban Development Action Grants (UDAG) to determine if there is an environmental impact with money being used adversely.

5—Have the city solicitor check to determine if the cells meet federal standards.

6—Authorize the mayor to serve subpoenas to Buckley, the county commissioners, and the commissioner of corrections to make sure they attend next Monday's city council meeting to answer questions concerning the prisoners.

Among the concerns expressed by the councilors are safety, the effect of the move on the neighborhood, fire hazards in the building, parking problems, thugs coming into the area to visit prisoners and the question of how many prisoners would be housed there.

Councilor Alfred E. Vellucci said the building looks like a penthouse for hardened criminals. He said he heard there is a Rose Garden on top of the structure and he wondered if the prisoners would be allowed to jog up there.

He termed the proposed confinement place a "Penthouse Jail."

Old photos sought for exhibit

"Beauty is in the eye of the beholder," a poet once wrote ages ago, and you may very well possess that poetic expression in the form of photographs hidden in the closets, drawers, storage boxes or in the attic.

Look around and see if you have any photographs that were taken before 1945.

And if you do, you can make a valuable contribution to the UCity by lending the pictures to the Cambridge Historical Commission which will select a group of the reporduced photos for a special exhibit to be shown at various locations throughout the city next fall.

From now through May, the commission is asking people to lend their photographs for reproduction to establish a photographic archives for the City of Cambridge.

According to Pat Rogers, project coordinator for the commission, the purpose of the new endeavor is to "broaden the collection so that it will eventually include all available photographs, prints and views from the city's earliest day to 1945."

She said that types of photographs to be collected include those showing people at work or play, parades, ceremonies, street scenes, buildings, gardens and the like.

"We are planning a special exhibit this fall throughout the city and all activities are being planned to coincide with the 250th anniversary of the city this year," she explained.

The photographic archives project is being cosponsored by the Cambridge Public Library with the endorsement of the Cambridge Historical Society.

Rogers noted that the new project is being undertaken by the commission with the support of the Polaroid Foundation, Polaroid Corp., Cambridge Savings Bank, Cambridge Trust Co., Cooldige Bank and Trust Co., Cambridgeport Savings Bank, Shawmut County Bank, North Cambridge Co-operative Bank and Charlesbank Trust Co.

So look around your house and you may find some old pictures awaiting to be discovered by the beholder and who knows what that may lead to.

If you do find any photographs (Only taken in Cambridge prior to 1945) bring them to be copied at the commission office, City Hall Annex, 57 Inman Street, Cambridge, between 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, or contact the commission office at 498-9040.

Birthday party for Ted

Senator Edward M. Kennedy will be honored at a combination birthday and fund raising party at the Stephen James House in Cambridge tonight at 7:30.

While Kennedy's birthday—his 48th—is not until tomorrow, local Democrats are not ones to be tardy in paying their respects.

Former School Committeewoman Mary Ellen Prusser is the organizer of the party and is looking forward to a large turnout to wish Kennedy "many happy returns for the day—and also from the New Hampshire primary."

There will be a buffet, a large birthday cake and constant entertainment by the Jazz Trio Instigation, as well a the "constant Comedy Group," with Lenny Clark and Barry Cremmins.

Other featured guests of the evening will include Joseph Kennedy III and Lt. Gov. Thomas P. O'Neill.

Mayor celebrity guest

Celebrity guest at the next bi-weekly whist party to be held at the Lyndon B. Johnson apartments on Tuesday evening, Feb. 26, will be Cambridge Mayor Frank Duehay.

Then at the Tuesday, March 11, party, City Manager Jim Sullivan will be celebrity guest, according to William J. Flynn, president of the LBJ apartments tenants' council.

Conferees agree on slicing windfall pie

(C) N. Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — House and Senate conferees yesterday agreed on how to distribute the $227.3 billion the windfall profits tax is expected to raise and formally approved a new tax provision that would exclude some interest income from taxes.

Yesterday's action clears up two of the major outstanding problems facing the conference committee, which has been battling since before Christmas to reconcile two different versions of the bill.

Yesterday morning the conferees, unable to agree on the best way of spending the money the tax will raise, established three broad categories under which the money will be spent.

Under that compromise, 25 percent of the money, $56.8 billion, will be set aside for aid to the poor; 60 percent, or $136.4 billion, will be earmarked for an income tax reduction; and 15 percent, or $34.1 billion, will be used to fund energy and transportation programs.

The conferees then returned in the late afternoon and agreed to a Senate proposal that would exempt from taxation the first $200 a year ($400 for joint returns) in income from interest and dividends.

That proposal, introduced by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, would go into effect with the windfall tax bill and will cover interest from corporate bonds and U. S. Treasury bills as well as bank and thrift institutions. The exemption, which was expected to pass, is good for two years starting in 1981, when it is expected to reduce tax liabilities by $2.1 billion.

Proponents of the measure think it will help to boost the rate of savings in the United States, which at 4.1 percent is the lowest in the Western world. Japan's rate of savings is 25.3 percent and West Germany's is 13.2 percent.

Interest and dividends are taxed just like other income under current law. The Carter administration opposes the measure but is expected to accept it because it wants the windfall tax bill.

The conferees used a set-aside method for earmarking where the money raised by the tax will go. This means that none of the money will actually be spent on any of the three categories until Congress passes legislation precisely for that purpose. Thus, it is possible that none of the money earmarked for a tax cut will be used. If it is not used the money will go into general revenue where it will be used to reduce the budget deficit.

As far as the conferees are concerned, this ends their problem of what to do with the money. What it really does is simply delay the hard questions of hwo the money should be used.

Edison: $100M trash plant will produce cheaper energy

Looking around for a cheaper way than oil to make energy for its customers, Boston Edison yesterday announced it plans a joint venture to build a $100 million plant on the North Shore to make fuel out of trash.

A company spokesman said Edison will go in tandem with Wheelabrator-Frye, a world-wide company dealing in energy-producing refuse plants, to build a larger version of RESCO (Refuse Energy Systems Co.) in Saugus.

Since 1975 the Saugus plant has been gobbling up the trash of 700,000 residents of 13 surrounding communities and a part of Boston and has produced in steam the equivalent of over 1.25 million barrels of oil.

The steam is sold to General Electric Co. in Lynn where it is converted to electricity for industrial use, according to Norman Ritter, vice-president of Wheelabrator-Frye.

The new plant to be called RESCO II, will be 50 percent larger than the one in Saugus and will turn out steam and/or electricty at a rate equivalent to 600,000 barrels of oil a year.

Possible sites for the new plant are in the negotiation stage, according to both Ritter and Edison spokesman, Walter Salvi.

Salvi said, however, that the South Shore area is not being considered because "large volumes of trash" are not available. While site selection goes on, the two companies plan a 10-month economic feasability study.

Asbestos perils ship workers

and anybody who handles asbestos on the ship will be protected.

"The risk will be that much lessened," Piccuito concluded.

The union official also noted that the team of doctors and scientists made their study with the union's cooperation.

"I was involved in setting it up with Dr. Selikoff," Piccuito said.

Under the agreement, the research team will notify the union and the company of the final, official findings. The full results of the Quincy shipyard research are not ready for release, Selikoff said.

Selikoff said letters are being sent to each person whose X-rays showed some abnormality. Emergency cases already have been notified, he added.

The doctor explained that asbestosis scars the lungs, leaving a high risk for developing cancer.

He warned that anyone who has been exposed to asbestos, even briefly, should not smoke, as this combination would add significantly to the cancer risk.

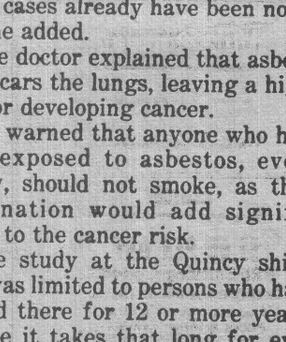

The study at the Quincy shipyard was limited to persons who had worked there for 12 or more years because it takes that long for evidence of asbestos to appear.

Wornom noted that Selikoff did a similar study at General Dynamics facilities in Groton, Conn. The company spokesman added that as at Quincy, the Groton shipyard has taken precautions to abate the asbestos hazard.

Judge refuses to block blasting for Red Line

By RICHARD LAMERE
Staff Writer

Federal Judge Walter Jay Skinner yesterday refused to issue a temporary restraining order requested by the Cambridge City Council and a citizens group seeking to block construction of the MBTA Red Line Extension through North Cambridge because of excessive noise.

At the same time, Skinner scheduled another hearing in the lengthy dispute for Feb. 28 to take testimony from Stephen A. Alsup of Newton, a consultant in engineering geology and geophysics. He contends blasting at the site meets allowable noise levels under environmental laws.

"If Mr. Alsup survives cross examination, I'll be satisfied," the judge said.

The complaintants contend that blasting for twin tunnels, being dug between Harvard Square and Porter Square, was not provided for in the environmental impact statement covering the big project employing hundreds of workers.

But in an affidavit submitted to the court by Attorney Robert City, counsel for Morrison-Knudsen Inc., and Perini Corp., the two contractors building the T extension, Alsup yesterday defended the noise level related to dynamite blasting in the tunnels three times a day.

"I have reviewed detonation analysis reports for all detonations involving tunnel and shaft construction between Harvard Square and Porter Square," Alsup wrote.

"Based upon actual impulse noise level measurements and extrapolations from charge size and location data, impulse noise levels have never approached the peak sound pressure level of 140 decibels. In fact, the highest level did not exceed 100 decibels and the mean is approximately 50 decibels."

Attorney Joseph Alcock the MBTA's general counsel, noted that the environmental impact statement allows for surface noise levels up to 140 decibels.

However, Skinner has questioned whether the contractors should be using boring equipment rather than blasting 80 feet below Massachusetts Avenue. "Blasting is different than boring," Skinner said.

City insisted that the contractors are using adequate geological and construction methods. "The use of blasting is a highly regulated procedure," he said. "We're below any level that would cause damage."

Attorneys for the U.S. Urban Mass Transportation Administration were present in the courtroom but did not testify. The federal government is providing funds for the $440 million project.

"I've received some reports of some loud bangs in the Garfield Street area," the judge said.

If a restraining order is issued at next week's hearing, MBTA construction officials predict that the project would have to shut down for at least a year since it would take that long to obtain a boring machine, at a cost of $5 million.

Council adopts 6 curbs

'Penthouse prison' plan blasted

The Cambridge City Council last night adopted six motions intended to prevent the moving of prisoners into what one councilor termed a "Penthouse Prison" on top of the Middlesex County Courthouse in East Cambridge.

During a special council meeting attended by about 100 residents at the Kennedy School, the council also blasted Sheriff John Buckley, the three county commissioners, Commissioner of Corrections William T. Hogan Jr., and the legislative delegation from the Cambridge district, for not attending the meeting after being invited.

The special session of the council was called as a result of last week's action in which the Middlesex County Commissioners entered into a lease of the jail portion of the courthouse to the Massachu- operate a classification center "for any prisoner who is sentenced to any state correctional facility."

The commissioners said the expected stay of any inmate would be "from 45 days, with 60 days being the expected maximum stay."

The motions adopted by the council included:

1—Instruct the city building commissioner to deny an occupancy permit.

2—Hire an attorney if the city solicitor needs assistance on the case.

3—Have the city council request the Cambridge delegation to the General Court file legislation intended to cancel the lease.

4—Have the mayor and city solicitor review the law with regard to the Urban Development Action Grants (UDAG) to determine if there is an environmental impact with money being used adversely.

5—Have the city solicitor check to determine if the cells meet federal standards.

6—Authorize the mayor to serve subpoenas to Buckley, the county commissioners, and the commissioner of corrections to make sure they attend next Monday's city council meeting to answer questions concerning the prisoners.

Among the concerns expressed by the council neighborhood, fire hazards in the building, parking problems, thugs coming into the area to visit prisoners and the question of how many prisoners would be housed there.

Councilor Alfred E. Vellucci said the building looks like a penthouse for hardened criminals. He said he heard there is a Rose Garden on top of the structure and he wondered if the prisoners would be allowed to jog up there.

He termed the proposed confinement place a "Penthouse Jail."

Old photos sought for exhibit

"Beauty is in the eye of the beholder," a poet once wrote ages ago, and you may very well possess that poetic expression in the form of photographs hidden in the closets, drawers, storage boxes or in the attic.

Look around and see if you have any photographs that were taken before 1945.

And if you do, you can make a valuable contribution to the UCity by lending the pictures to the Cambridge Historical Commission which will select a group of the reporduced photos for a special exhibit to be shown at various locations throughout the city next fall.

From now through May, the commission is asking people to lend their photographs for reproduction to establish a photographic archives for the City of Cambridge.

According to Pat Rogers, project coordinator for the commission, the purpose of the new endeavor is to "broaden the collection so that it will eventually include all available photographs, prints and views from the city's earliest day to 1945."

She said that types of photographs to be collected include those showing people at work or play, parades, ceremonies, street scenes, buildings, gardens and the like.

"We are planning a special exhibit this fall throughout the city and all activities are being planned to coincide with the 250th anniversary of the city this year," she explained.

The photographic archives project is being cosponsored by the Cambridge Public Library with the endorsement of the Cambridge Historical Society.

Rogers noted that the new project is being undertaken by the commission with the support of the Polaroid Foundation, Polaroid Corp., Cambridge Savings Bank, Cambridge Trust Co., Cooolidge Bank and Trust Co., Cambridgeport Savings Bank, Shawmut County Bank, North Cambridge Co-operative Bank and Charlesbank Trust Co.

So look around your house and you may find some old pictures awaiting to be discovered by the beholder and who knows what that may lead to.

If you do find any photographs (Only taken in Cambridge prior to 1945) bring them to be copied at the commission office, City Hall Annex, 57 Inman Street, Cambridge, between 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, or contact the commission office at 498-9040.

Conferees agree on slicing windfall pie

(C) N. Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — House and Senate conferees yesterday agreed on how to distribute the $227.3 billion the windfall profits tax is expected to raise and formally approved a new tax provision that would exclude some interest income from taxes.

Yesterday's action clears up two of the major outstanding problems facing the conference committee, which has been battling since before Christmas to reconcile two different versions of the bill.

Yesterday morning the conferees, unable to agree on the best way of spending the money the tax will raise, established three broad categories under which the money will be spent.

Under that compromise, 25 percent of the money, $56.8 billion, will be set aside for aid to the poor; 60 percent, or $136.4 billion, will be earmarked for an income tax reduction; and 15 percent, or $34.1 billion, will be used to fund energy and transportation programs.

The conferees then returned in the late afternoon and agreed to a Senate proposal that would exempt from taxation the first $200 a year ($400 for joint returns) in income from interest and dividends.

That proposal, introduced by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, would go into effect with the windfall tax bill and will cover interest from corporate bonds and U. S. Treasury bills as well as bank and thrift institutions. The exemption, which was expected to pass, is good for two years starting in 1981, when it is expected to reduce tax liabilities by $2.1 billion.

Proponents of the measure think it will help to boost the rate of savings in the United States, which at 4.1 percent is the lowest in the Western world. Japan's rate of savings is 25.3 percent and West Germany's is 13.2 percent.

Interest and dividends are taxed just like other income under current law. The Carter administration opposes the measure but is expected to accept it because it wants the windfall tax bill.

The conferees used a set-aside method for earmarking where the money raised by the tax will go. This means that none of the money will actually be spent on any of the three categories until Congress passes legislation precisely for that purpose. Thus, it is possible that none of the money earmarked for a tax cut will be used. If it is not used the money will go into general revenue where it will be used to reduce the budget deficit.

As far as the conferees are concerned, this ends their problem of what to do with the money. What it really does is simply delay the hard questions of hwo the money should be used.

Edison: $100M trash plant will produce cheaper energy

Looking around for a cheaper way than oil to make energy for its customers, Boston Edison yesterday announced it plans a joint venture to build a $100 million plant on the North Shore to make fuel out of trash.

A company spokesman said Edison will go in tandem with Wheelabrator-Frye, a world-wide company dealing in energy-producing refuse plants, to build a larger version of RESCO (Refuse Energy Systems Co.) in Saugus.

Since 1975 the Saugus plant has been gobbling up the trash of 700,000 residents of 13 surrounding communities and a part of Boston and has produced in steam the equivalent of over 1.25 million barrels of oil.

The steam is sold to General Electric Co. in Lynn where it is converted to electricity for industrial use, according to Norman Ritter, vice-president of Wheelabrator-Frye.

The new plant to be called RESCO II, will be 50 percent larger than the one in Saugus and will turn out steam and/or electricty at a rate equivalent to 600,000 barrels of oil a year.

Possible sites for the new plant are in the negotiation stage, according to both Ritter and Edison spokesman, Walter Salvi.

Salvi said, however, that the South Shore area is not being considered because "large volumes of trash" are not available. While site selection goes on, the two companies plan a 10-month economic feasability study.

Asbestos perils ship workers

and anybody who handles asbestos on the ship will be protected.

"The risk will be that much lessened," Piccuito concluded.

The union official also noted that the team of doctors and scientists made their study with the union's cooperation.

"I was involved in setting it up with Dr. Selikoff," Piccuito said.

Under the agreement, the research team will notify the union and the company of the final, official findings. The full results of the Quincy shipyard research are not ready for release, Selikoff said.

Selikoff said letters are being sent to each person whose X-rays showed some abnormality. Emergency cases already have been notified, he added.

The doctor explained that asbestosis scars the lungs, leaving a high risk for developing cancer.

He warned that anyone who has been exposed to asbestos, even briefly, should not smoke, as this combination would add significantly to the cancer risk.

The study at the Quincy shipyard was limited to persons who had worked there for 12 or more years because it takes that long for evidence of asbestos to appear.

Wornom noted that Selikoff did a similar study at General Dynamics facilities in Groton, Conn. The company spokesman added that as at Quincy, the Groton shipyard has taken precautions to abate the asbestos hazard.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT BUDGET HEARING
FEBRUARY 26, 1980

The Committee on Finance of the City Council conducted a joint meeting with the Budget Sub-Committee of the School Department on Tuesday, February 26, 1980 for the purpose of discussing the deficit in the School Budget for fiscal 1979-1980.

Present in the Council Chamber were Councillors Kevin P. Crane, Leonard J. Russell, David E. Sullivan, Walter J. Sullivan, Alfred Vellucci and Mayor Francis H. Duehay. School Committee members Sara M. Berman, Glenn Koocher, Joseph E. Maynard and Alice Wolf were present along with Superintendent William Lannon, Assistant Superintendent Oliver Brown, John McCarthy and Ms. Rose O'Rourke. Councillor David A. Wylie, Chairman of the Finance Committee presided.

At the request of the Chairman, Mr. Brown indicated the Fin. Comm. that the School Budget as submitted and approved by the City Council totalled $28,409,034 that additional sums of $218,000 for fuel cost increases, $250,000 for delays during school construction, $151,000 for tuition and the special needs program and $75,000 for security during the reconstruction program, a total of $919,000 was requried to finish out the fiscal year.

In response to questions by the Committee, Mr. Lannon stated that the alternatives to the additional appropriation requests would be to reduce the number of temporary teachers, discontinue student programs, the transfer of some teachers probably 42 to 52 persons who are not covered to other courses by contract, elimination of persons in special courses and to overload regular courses by transfers in the few of the contract which include restrictions on class size.

Mr. Brown stated that substitutes cost the Department $250,000 on a day to day basis, that savings had been effected in this area which were reduced by a $36,000 arbitrators award in a suit brought against the Committee, that the elimination of substitutes would be the subject of negotiations in the coming year and had not worked well in the past year. A ruling by the City Auditor was cited by Mr. Brown which mandated that the School Department members encumber and pay the bills incurred in the last quarter of the fiscal year out of current appropriation of the same fiscal year, that this was a departure from the procedure of past years in which deferred payments were made from subsequent appropriations. Mr. Brown indicated that the sum of $590,000 from fiscal 1978-1979 was paid out of funds appropriated in fiscal 1979-1980, that he had indicated in past budget sessions that more money was needed to operate the system, that increases in the costs of all materials and fuels had exceeded the projected costs.

Committee Member Glenn Koocher outlined the budget procedure, the presentation of all departmental budget to the School Committee which was analyzed by the Committee and the Superintendent and recommendations made after the study. He further indicated that cuts were made to meet the 4% cap. He referred to the method of handling Blue Cross payments as a non-expense and the economics which were effected in reductions of clerical, food service workers and the number of teachers. Mr. Koocher noted that the oil originally budgeted at $22 was in the $34 range and resulted in a deficit of $218,000 that the delay on construction required the continued use of the Latin School building at $250,000, that the Bi-lingual program was upgraded at a cost of $151,000 in order to preserve Federal funding of the program, that changes in rate setting for the education of handicapped resulted in an additional cost of $225,000 and unanticipated security changes resulted in an additional $75,000. Mr. Koocher indicated that negotiaions with the teacher group over a three year period had been successful and resulted only in a 15% increase in that period.

School Committee Member Joseph Maynard stated that the 4% cap was insane and cited the increase cost of oil, security and the deficit financing of the schools as the principal causes of the budget problem.

Councillor Alfred Vellucci stated that he had informed the School Committee to seek additional appropriations prior to the tax rate announcement, that this was not done, that the City Manager doesn't have the money and inquired as to what the Committee could do, that the Committee should hear from the Manager.

Committee Member Alice Wolf stated that the Vappi Company had indicated a firm completion date of September 1979 which they did not meet, the the Committee has financial problems because of the many schools that have been maintained and the Committee had no recourse vs. Vappi since no penalty clause is included in the contract.

Councillor Leonard Russell inquired why the Committee did not consider the outstanding sum of $590,000 when preparing the next years budget.

Assistant Superintendent Brown said that the Committee had considered the possibility of a deficit and estimated that the sum of $400,000 would be sufficient to meet the outstanding bills, that at the same time the Committee projected a one million dollar deficit.

In response to questions by the Council, Mr. Lannon estimated that without additional funding, 40 provisional teachers not covered by contract would be laid off, that some would be classroom teachers hired to deal with increased enrollments, bi-lingual teachers and others in support categories.

In answer to Councillor Crane,Assistant Superintendent Brown indicated that the War Memorial Pool First Phase would be complete on August 20, 1980 to which the City Manager remarked that the time schedule was exceedingly ambitious.

Councillor Vellucci inquired as to the number of teachers hired since October of 1979 and Mr. Brown indicated that the number was 20, required for Bi-lingual classes and increased enrollments, that he had contemplated and mentioned the possibility at budget time.

The Committee heard from City Manager James L. Sullivan who recited figures indicating that the School system had a per pupil cost of $3,369 versus $2,544 in Boston; that Arlington cost $2005 per pupil; that Belmont cost $2230 per pupil; that the Cambridge cost exceeded Newton by $1000; that Cambridge cost per pupil was twice the cost of Somerville which spends $1,659 per pupil. In addition, the City Manager stated that the sum of School related expenses in the City Budget was $7,737,581 which would increase the $3,369 per pupil cost. He further stated that there were 1307 employees in the School Department or 1 employee for ever 6.4 students. The Manager stated that the 1977-78 budget for salary and wages was $21,070,509; that the 1979-80 budget had increased to $23,961,697, a net increase in salary and wages was $2,891.188.

Councillor Wylie questioned the procedure by which the budget requests went directly to the School Committee and not to the Superintendent of Schools.

The City Manager stated that no extra money was available for appropriation, that if the money was available six votes of the Council would be required for an appropriation. The Manager citing the increased amount in excess of two million dollars in the salary and wages schedule stated that there are savings available in a budget of that magnitude.

At this time Councillor Vellucci introduced the following order for consideration of the Finance Committee:

ORDERED: That the City Manager be authorized to borrow $1,000,000.00 on a short term loan to finance the request of the School Committee that $919,000.00 be provided by this City Council in order to carry out the proper business of the Cambridge schools for the remainder of the 1979-1980 fiscal year.

Councillor Vellucci moved that this order be referred to the next meeting of the City Council.

City Manager Sullivan stated that the 4% cap must be considered, that the City could request the Emergency Finance Board for permission to borrow in excess of appropriations otherwise we would have to go against the tax caps.

Councillor David Sullivan stated that one million dollars would approximate $3.00 on the tax rate and that the Council by six votes could override the tax cap.

The Manager stated that the tax cap would be most restrictive, that in his judgement, the question of breach of contract should be discussed at a later time, that in his opinion there was no breach, that if a penalty clause was in the contract, there should also be a reward clause. He estimated the cost of borrowing at $60,000 with an 8% interest rate.

In response to Councillor Crane's inquiry regarding the heating problem, the Manager stated that the difficulty came from running two systems at once.

Councillor Crane inquired as to the possibility of hiring counsel and withholding a percentage of the contract to which the City Manager stated that he was satisified that Vappi had done a good job under difficult circumstances.

At 7:33 p.m. the Chairman declared the hearing closed and the order introduced by Councillor Vellucci was referred to the March 3rd meeting of the City Council.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT BUDGET HEARING
FEBRUARY 26, 1980

The Committee on Finance of the City Council conducted a joint meeting with the Budget Sub-Committee of the School Department on Tuesday, February 26, 1980 for the purpose of discussing the deficit in the School Budget for fiscal 1979-1980.

Present in the Council Chamber were Councillors Kevin P. Crane, Leonard J. Russell, David E. Sullivan, Walter J. Sullivan, Alfred Vellucci and Mayor Francis H. Duehay. School Committee members Sara M. Berman, Glenn Koocher, Joseph E. Maynard and Alice Wolf were present along with Superintendent William Lannon, Assistant Superintendent Oliver Brown, John McCarthy and Ms. Rose O'Rourke. Councillor David A. Wylie, Chairman of the Finance Committee presided.

At the request of the Chairman, Mr. Brown informed the Finance Committee that the School Budget as submitted and approved by the City Council totalled $28,409,034 that additional sums of $218,000 for fuel cost increases, $250,000 for delays during school construction, $151,000 for tuition and the special needs program and $75,000 for security during the reconstruction program, a total of $919,000 was requried to finish out the fiscal year.

In response to questions by the Committee, Mr. Lannon stated that the alternatives to the additional appropriation requests would be to reduce the number of temporary teachers, discontinue student programs, the transfer of some teachers probably 42 to 52 persons who are not covered to other courses by contract, elimination of persons in special courses and to overload regular courses by transfers in the few of the contract which include restrictions on class size.

Mr. Brown stated that substitutes cost the Department $250,000 on a day to day basis, that savings had been effected in this area which were reduced by a $36,000 arbitrators award in a suit brought against the Committee, that the elimination of substitutes would be the subject of negotiations in the coming year and had not worked well in the past year. A ruling by the City Auditor was cited by Mr. Brown which mandated that the School Department members encumber and pay the bills incurred in the last quarter of the fiscal year out of current appropriation of the same fiscal year, that this was a departure from the procedure of past years in which deferred payments were made from subsequent appropriations. Mr. Brown indicated that the sum of $590,000 from fiscal 1978-1979 was paid out of funds appropriated in fiscal 1979-1980, that he had indicated in past budget sessions that more money was needed to operate the system, that increases in the costs of all materials and fuels had exceeded the projected costs.

Committee Member Glenn Koocher outlined the budget procedure, the presentation of all departmental budget to the School Committee which was analyzed by the Committee and the Superintendent and recommendations made after the study. He further indicated that cuts were made to meet the 4% cap. He referred to the method of handling Blue Cross payments as a non-expense and the economics which were effected in reductions of clerical, food service workers and the number of teachers. Mr. Koocher noted that the oil originally budgeted at $22 was in the $34 range and resulted in a deficit of $218,000 that the delay on construction required the continued use of the Latin School building at $250,000, that the Bi-lingual program was upgraded at a cost of $151,000 in order to preserve Federal funding of the program, that changes in rate setting for the education of handicapped resulted in an additional cost of $225,000 and unanticipated security changes resulted in an additional $75,000. Mr. Koocher indicated that negotiaions with the teacher group over a three year period had been successful and resulted only in a 15% increase in that period.

School Committee Member Joseph Maynard stated that the 4% cap was insane and cited the increase cost of oil, security and the deficit financing of the schools as the principal causes of the budget problem.

Councillor Alfred Vellucci stated that he had informed the School Committee to seek additional appropriations prior to the tax rate announcement, that this was not done, that the City Manager doesn't have the money and inquired as to what the Committee could do, that the Committee should hear from the Manager.

Committee Member Alice Wolf stated that the Vappi Company had indicated a firm completion date of September 1979 which they did not meet, the the Committee has financial problems because of the many schools that have been maintained and the Committee had no recourse vs. Vappi since no penalty clause is included in the contract.

Councillor Leonard Russell inquired why the Committee did not consider the outstanding sum of $590,000 when preparing the next years budget.

Assistant Superintendent Brown said that the Committee had considered the possibility of a deficit and estimated that the sum of $400,000 would be sufficient to meet the outstanding bills, that at the same time the Committee projected a one million dollar deficit.

In response to questions by the Council, Mr. Lannon estimated that without additional funding, 40 provisional teachers not covered by contract would be laid off, that some would be classroom teachers hired to deal with increased enrollments, bi-lingual teachers and others in support categories.

In answer to Councillor Crane,Assistant Superintendent Brown indicated that the War Memorial Pool First Phase would be complete on August 20, 1980 to which the City Manager remarked that the time schedule was exceedingly ambitious.

Councillor Vellucci inquired as to the number of teachers hired since October of 1979 and Mr. Brown indicated that the number was 20, required for Bi-lingual classes and increased enrollments, that he had contemplated and mentioned the possibility at budget time.

The Committee heard from City Manager James L. Sullivan who recited figures indicating that the School system had a per pupil cost of $3,369 versus $2,544 in Boston; that Arlington cost $2005 per pupil; that Belmont cost $2230 per pupil; that the Cambridge cost exceeded Newton by $1000; that Cambridge cost per pupil was twice the cost of Somerville which spends $1,659 per pupil. In addition, the City Manager stated that the sum of School related expenses in the City Budget was $7,737,581 which would increase the $3,369 per pupil cost. He further stated that there were 1307 employees in the School Department or 1 employee for ever 6.4 students. The Manager stated that the 1977-78 budget for salary and wages was $21,070,509; that the 1979-80 budget had increased to $23,961,697, a net increase in salary and wages was $2,891.188.

Councillor Wylie questioned the procedure by which the budget requests went directly to the School Committee and not to the Superintendent of Schools.

The City Manager stated that no extra money was available for appropriation, that if the money was available six votes of the Council would be required for an appropriation. The Manager citing the increased amount in excess of two million dollars in the salary and wages schedule stated that there are savings available in a budget of that magnitude.

At this time Councillor Vellucci introduced the following order for consideration of the Finance Committee:

ORDERED: That the City Manager be authorized to borrow $1,000,000.00 on a short term loan to finance the request of the School Committee that $919,000.00 be provided by this City Council in order to carry out the proper business of the Cambridge schools for the remainder of the 1979-1980 fiscal year.

Councillor Vellucci moved that this order be referred to the next meeting of the City Council.

City Manager Sullivan stated that the 4% cap must be considered, that the City could request the Emergency Finance Board for permission to borrow in excess of appropriations otherwise we would have to go against the tax caps.

Councillor David Sullivan stated that one million dollars would approximate $3.00 on the tax rate and that the Council by six votes could override the tax cap.

The Manager stated that the tax cap would be most restrictive, that in his judgement, the question of breach of contract should be discussed at a later time, that in his opinion there was no breach, that if a penalty clause was in the contract, there should also be a reward clause. Councillor Crane inquired as to the possibility of hiring counsel and withholding a percentage of the contract to which the City Manager stated that he was satisified that Vappi had done a good job under difficult circumstances.

At 7:33 p.m. the Chairman declared the hearing closed and the order introduced by Councillor Vellucci was referred to the March 3rd meeting of the City Council.

BUDGET HEARING
JUST-A-START PROGRAM

The Committee on Finance met at 7:45 p.m. on Tuesday, February 26, 1980 and heard testimony regarding the budget requirements for the Fiscal Year 1980-1981 for the Just-A-Start Program.

The Committee heard from Hugh Lyons of 12 Marcella Street, Mary Nicoloro of 15 Harding Street and Gordon Gottsche of 320 Cambridge Street who outlined the program of rehabilitation undertaken by the youngsters who learned new skills in the process of improving homes.

The members stated that they would request $128,000 for fiscal 1980-81 and would like more money if possible to extend the program in addition to the $190,000 allocation from the Block Grant Program. The Committee stated that the requested sums would provide 60 jobs for summer employment and 18 for the school year, that without the requested sum of $128,000 they would lose six crews, that four crews operated in the last year.

Ms. Nicoloro stated that 75 to 100 buildings had been improved and the program had provided for public beuautification and that 100 to 125 work projects were performed in the school year, that over 1100 units worked in a 12 year period. She further indicated that she would like it made part of the School Program. In response to questions by the Committee, she stated that the income test valuation was very detailed and all beneficiaries of the program must meet the requirements that persons who can afford repairs must do so on their own.

The Finance Committee heard from the City Manager who stated that the logical place for this program was on the Community Development Department.

Councillor David A. Wylie, who presided at the hearing, suggested that the Just-A-Start Committee meet with the City Manager and Assistant City Manager for Community Development.

Councillor Walter J. Sullivan asked the City Manager to act favorably on this request.

The Finance Committee heard from Mr. Jerry Bergman of 27A Essex STreet, Cambridge, who stated that applications for weatherization from the elderly were required and would save $250,000 in heating costs with a modest expenditure $35 to $50 for materials. He further stated that none of the Human Services will be funded from Block Grants. He reminded the Committee Members of their commitment to the programs.

The Committee heard from City Manager Sullivan who stated that he agreed to appropriate $61,000 which he believed would be adequate for the program.

Mr. Bergman outlined four programs - Mobile Market, Elder Van, Elder Hire and Housing Assistance, presently undertaken by his agency. He further stated that the Hospital should consider providing other services such as dentistry and podiatry when they present their budget requests, that these services now require trips to Boston by the elderly, that communications with the Council on Aging had not been too successful.

At 8:30 p.m. the hearing was closed.

The Committee on Finance heard from Curtis Poilari of 24 Ash Street, Chairman of the Longfellow Park Neighborhood, who stressed the need of funding to improve this area.

At this time a discussion followed regarding tree planting and the sum of $30,000 from Block Grant Funds was cited.

City Manager Sullivan indicated that he had no recommendation for the City Council, that he has to sit down with the Conservation Commission to resolve this matter.

The Committee on Finance adjourned at 8:45 p.m.
