CITY OF CAMBRIDGE.

In Board of Aldermen, November 14th, 1893.

The Joint Standing Committee on Roads and Bridges which was "instructed to consider the expediency of laying out a driveway and sidewalk between Quincy and Harvard squares and on the northerly side of the row of trees, now standing on Harvard street, such laying out to be in place of the widening of Harvard street as proposed by an order now pending before the City Council; also to confer with the President and Fellows of Harvard College, for the purpose of ascertaining if they will cooperate with the City Council in the matter of such laying out,"

Reports:

That your Committee has conferred with the authorities of Harvard College upon the subject of a proposed driveway north of the row of trees on Harvard street, in front of the College grounds, and has received oral notice that at a meeting of the College corporation held yesterday, the matter was considered, and it was decided that no further concession of its land be made.

Your Committee therefore reports that it is inexpedient to lay out the driveway as suggested.
