Order
widening and extension of — Brewery St. —
June 26, 1872.

June 26, 1872.

Received.

To the Honorable the City Council of the City of Cambridge,

Respectfully represents James C. Squire of Boston that at some time in the year Eighteen hundred & seventy two the City of Cambridge, for the purpose of widening Brewery Street in said City, took the greater portion of an estate numbered 27 on Washington Street, which estate was then the property of Sarah P. M. Squire, then living and the wife of your petitioner: that so much of the said estate was taken that the remainder thereof was not worth more than four hundred dollars, for which sum it has since been sold: that neither said Sarah P. M. Squire nor your petitioner had any notice of any hearing upon the matter of damages, but that damages were allowed by the City to the amount of Sixteen hundred & thirty two dollars only. And your petitioner represents that said estate at said time yielded a net annual income of two hundred and forty dollars and its fair value was not less than three thousand dollars: that since said taking and the allowance of damages the said Sarah P. M. Squire has departed this life, testate, and that by her last will duly proved in the Probate Court of Suffolk County, she devised to your petitioner all her property and rights of property whatsoever.

Wherefore your petitioner prays that he may be heard before your honorable body or its Committee and may show the actual damage sustained by reason of such taking and may be allowed and paid by the City such further amount for damages as he may show he is justly entitled to receive therefor.

March 4, 1873.
