VICE MAYOR REEVES
MAYOR WOLF

March 4, 1991

WHEREAS: The month of March is a time when people the world over acknowledge the contributions of women to the betterment of humanity; and

WHEREAS: The people of the City of Cambridge share in this celebration of the impact of women on human history and culture; and

WHEREAS: March 6, 1991 marks the debut of Our Women Talk, a weekly half-hour talk show, produced by Continental Cablevision Channel 3 in Cambridge, and focusing on issues of particular interest to African American women, but reaching out to a broad audience of women in general, and this program will be seen in Cambridge, Somerville, Boston, and Arlington, reaching over 160,000 households; and

WHEREAS: Our Women Talk is co-hosted by Dr. Delores Alleyne Goode, Instructor at Boston's Wheelock College, and Nina Arimah, who is also the program's producer, and will deal with a range of topics from internalized racism, drug dependency, and the effects of violence, to nutrition, careers, life-styles, and children's education issues; and

WHEREAS: The program's format attempts to recreate an informal "kitchen table" setting, stimulating those conversations that take place around kitchen tables all across America; and

WHEREAS: The first two programs feature Women Inc., a drug rehabilitation program which is unique in that it deals with mothers and their children, and Cambridge Public Schools Assistant Superintendent, Sandra Spooner on the subject of mentoring; now therefore be it

RESOLVED: That the City Council extend its warm congratulations and good wishes to Nina Arimah, Cambridge's Continental Cablevision and Dr. Delores Alleyne Goode for this innovative program which has the potential to broaden our understanding of the needs and strengths of all women, and of African American women in particular, and to deepen our conviction that women do, indeed, "hold up half the sky;" and be it further

RESOLVED: That the City Clerk be and hereby is requested to forward a suitably engrossed copy of this resolution to Nina Arimah of Continental Cablevision on behalf of the entire City Council.

In City Council March 4, 1991.

Adopted by the affirmative vote of nine members.
