

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Rob Min	69 6th St. #3 Cambridge
Ris Aggenatatz	112 Jersey St. #12A Boston
Ann Lynch	11 Montague St Cambridge
Diane Zimbalwe	7 Linwood Square Roxbury
Walter Hill	18 Inman St. Cambridge
H. Rin-er	14 Perry St Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Wynne Hanson
Freemason

31-C Jay St. Camb 02139

Noah Levinson

"

Lebra Wise

20 Waverly St, Camb 02139

Brenda Kusler

345 ~~100~~ Harvard St, Camb 02138

John O'Brien

27 Lee St #7 Cambridge MA 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Benjamin S. Hall	54 Green St. #1 Jamaica Plain
C Magid	21 Linwood St, Arlington
Carol Boulukos	10 Acorn St, Cambridge
Anita Groh	26 Hingham St Camb
C Ishmael	177 Whitwell St Quincy
A Maguire	29 Chandler Somerville

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Daniel Rivera	50 Bishop Allen Dr Cambridge
Seth Beliner	50 Folk St. Camb. MA
June Seher	454 Green St Cambridge
Plus [Signature]	_____
Bradford Yuanto	243 Broadway, #406, Cambridge
L. K. [Signature]	312 Memorial Dr. Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Henry J. Allen	88 Mirick Rd. Princeton, MA 01541
Charles J. ...	45 Greenwood Rd Sudbury
...	760 Bradlee St.
Adam Trubling	11 Fish Pl Camb. MA 02139
Joseph C. ...	206 Auburn St. Camb. MA 02139
Mary D. ...	31 Fuller St Boston, MA 02124

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Sally O'Brien	27 LINDEN AVE SOMERVILLE 02143
[Signature]	99 ALLSTON ST CAMB-02139
Linda Weinstein	77 Bishop Allen DR Cambridge
Tony King	34 Pine ST Camb. MA
Man Reslow	84 Melton, Arlington, MA
[Signature]	55 Maynard St #13 Camb MA 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Ebbie Boze	14 Wane St
Paul Anders	154 Auburn
JERRY M. MARQUEZ	18 WARE ST^H - 02138
Carolyn R. Swift	269 Harvard St. #13 02139
Fatima Kuff	24 Antwin St #2 02139
Russell J. Fung	37 Woodland St. 02170

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Mrs Cynthia Wilson

100 Ellery St. Camb. MA 02138

Henry Cypher

334 Harvard St Cambridge, MA 02139

Stephen Dale

463 Putnam Ave Camb. MA 02139

Pete J. Berry

18 Worcester St Cambridge MA 02139

Andres Nasel

18 Worcester St " " "

Monica Wing

27 Saint Luke's Rd #17 Allston MA 02134

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Karen Mac Murray

12 Duncan Rd W. Newton MA 02165

Bassam Habal

61 Bay State AVE Somerville, MA 02147

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Philip Weiss	20 Bonner Ave
Erin Esplaine	13 Glenwood Ave
Deesha Nestor	246 Harvard St Camb MA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIAN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

(The Rev.) Louise R. Conant
Associate Rector, Christ Church Cambridge

Dear John - This seems to me to be a very responsible and careful piece of work for justice. I commend it to your attention.
Faithfully
Louise

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Melanie Wagon
114 Pleasant St
Arlington MA 02174

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Nancy Mochi
Secretary, Cambridge Techs. Association

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Linda G. Vitello

President

Somerville Teachers Association

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIAN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Pastor, Faith Lutheran Church

New England Office
2000 Massachusetts Ave., Suite 4
Cambridge, MA 02140
617-354-2210

FAX: 617-354-4075

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

Sincerely,
Handwritten signature of John Z. Maher in black ink.

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Laurie Sheider
Executive Director
Mass CO SH

Mass^CJ'

Programa Latino

Coalicion de Massachusetts para Seguridad y Salud Ocupacional

555 Amory Street Boston, MA 02130 (617) 524-6686

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Laurie Schneider
Executive Director
Mass CO SH

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

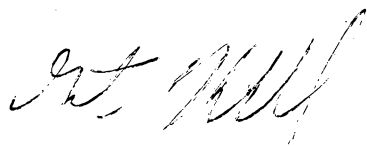

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Nancy Lesun
Senior Staff & Strategy Policy
Mass COSH

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

UP. USWA 9267

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

John Liu

Chinese Progressive Association Workers Center

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

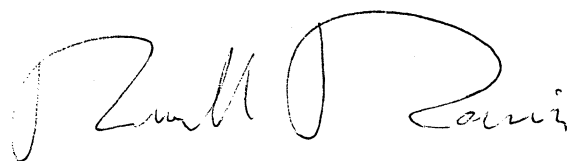

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Russell Davis

Director, Massachusetts

Jobs with Justice

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

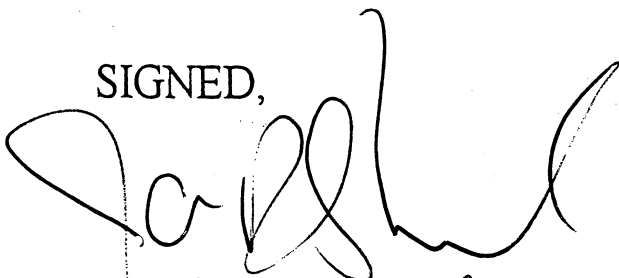

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

J. Gall
First Church Street

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

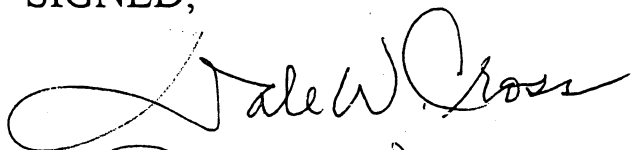

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Pastor, Metropolitan Baptist Church
16 Beech St
Northbridge, Ma

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Paul Germanotta
194 Auburn St.
Cambridge, MA 02139
617-864-7370

member, National Lawyers Guild

Nov. 30. 1975

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Jason Spurr
[Signature]

CASLS 432 Columbia St Unit 16

"

Lina S. Han

"

[Signature]

"

Linda Butcher

CASLS, 432 Columbia St. Suite 16

Armando Ramos

CASLS, 432 Columbia St, Suite 16

Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Bryce Dini

21 Winter St Somerville, MA 02144

Sony White

Lucy Parsons Center, 3 Central Sq
Cambridge, MA 02139

Marianne Donnelly

854 Mass Ave # 8 Camb MA 02139

Matthew Kamban

Lucy Parsons Center 3 Central Sq
Cambridge MA 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Sherrin Tucker, 02139

W Z Holshouser, 02139

Jean Chandler 02139

Lorna Holland 02140

Carol Furbush
Susan Schupp
Arthur Hoek
Matthew James Hebert

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Jim H. Berg

CTA

Chris Robinson

CTA

Luis E. Sullivan

CTA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Joseph X. Sullin

President, Cambridge Teacher Associates

Theresa DiToro

Executive Board C.T.A.

Arthur P. Glavin

Cambridge Teacher Assn

Jack K. Szym

Massachusetts Teachers Assn.

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Shauna Koff

CTA 2464 Mass Ave Cambridge

Eleana Parvato

CTA 2464 Mass Ave, Cambridge

Jas Kung'ath

CTA 2464 Mass Ave Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

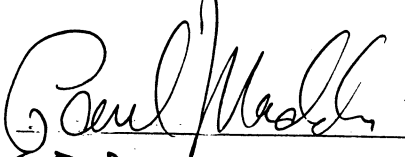

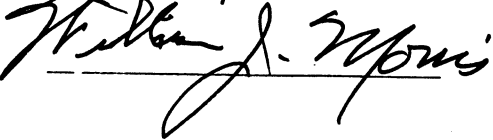

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address
	(for identification purposes only)

	CTA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Constance Hembrough

Somerville Teachers Union

Mary Ripley

STA, SSC

Mark Ruelich

STA, STWC

Kathleen McCarthy

STA

Elaine M. O'Callaghan

STA

Barbara Blanchard

STA VP

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Mary C. Harrington	STA (Somerville Teachers' Assn.)
Ruth Daugh	STA
Alice M. Heffernan	STA
Inea M. de Hong	S.T.A.
Joseph J. Park	Massachusetts Teachers Association
Kathleen R. Bay	STA
Linda Vitello	STA
Marianne Ignorri	STA
Celia Taylor	STA
Floriane Santal	STA
Donald Lynch	Somerville Teachers Association
Peg Lamson	S.T.A.
Barbara Stull	STA
Charles Cook	STA
Cheryl Ann Kelch	STA
Sophia Carofoto	STA
Philip J. Pratt	STA
Julie Leach	STA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Conde Allen	Jobs & Environment Campaign 160 2nd St. Cambridge
Charles Welch	121 Tremont St #311, Brighton MA 02135
Fred Young	CITIZENS ENVIRONMENTAL LABORATORY 180 South St Cambridge MA 02142
John Lopez	177 Central St. Somerville, MA

JOBS W Joke

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Kimberly Barker	Lesley College
[Signature]	Lesley College
Linda Brown	Lesley College
[Signature] BOB SNELL	LESLEY COLLEGE, 29 EVERETT ST. CAMBRIDGE, MA
Delaney Brown	Lesley College
[Signature]	Unit County Org

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Jacqueline Lee Potter
Francis Trevino

Kim Leenan

Undergraduate Student / Lesley College

Richard D. Gurr

Lesley College, Cambridge MA

Lori A. Rickard

Lesley College, Undergraduate

[Signature]

Center for Campus Organizing

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Rebecca Pierce	Cambridge - El Salvador Sister City Project
Michael Prokosch	Cambridge - El Salvador Sister City Project
James Hunt	_____
Dr. H. Andur	Cambridge - El Salvador Sister City Project
David Rohlich	_____
Patricia Lambert of	Cambridge - El Salvador Sister City Project
David Swann	362 Washington St. Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

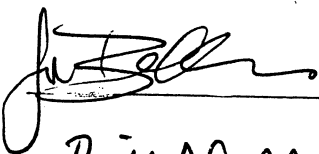

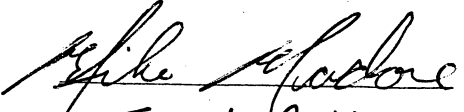

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

	100, 101 Pleasant St. #15 Cambridge
Bill Abadi	Ithw - 78 Adams St. Cambridge
Eric Chester	55 Lafayette St Arlington, MA 02174
Steve Kellerman	IWW 187 Cornell St. Roslindale, Mass. 02131
	I.W.O. - BOSTON GENERAL
Frank Callahan	IWW Boston GMB, 10570 BRANCH

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Alan D. Booth	Local 201 - Civil Rights
Dany Hich	member Local 66 Boston Teachers' Union
Russell Branchwein	MTA, NEA, NTA
Theodore J. Finney	National Writers Union
Kim	Food Not Bombs
Kate O'Brien	Homes Not Jails, Local MTSU

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Mal Pitts	129 SPURHAWK ST BRIGHTON, MASS. 02138
Daniel Kontoff	324 Chestnut Hill Ave Brighton Ma ^{Town of} _{Brighton}
Camille Uversos	8 Varney St JP 02130
Joseph Corvini	488 HARRISON AVE. BOSTON 02118
Clay Livingston	25 COTTRELL ST MYSTIC, CT 06355
Jennifer Karsten	109 Strathmore Rd. #18 ^{BROOKLINE, MA} 02146
Michele Melanson	30 Kenney Ln. Concord MA 01742

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Regina Hansen	Regina Hansen
Marie McHugh	Marie McHugh
Meissa Cistaro	Meissa Cistaro
Dora Richard	Cambridge, MA
Margaret Sam	57 Dana St Cambridge
Stephen E. Smith	42 Fayette St. Camb.

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Mary Ashford	Newton, MA.
Susan Stockard	Cambridge
Jim Stockard	Cambridge
Nancy McGraw	Newton, MA.
Sophra Guglietti	Cambridge
Paul Hill	Cambridge

MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Nanni Meyer	220 Brook St Cambridge, MA 02138
Ronan Rose	" " " "
Susan Conway	18 Channing St, Cambridge, MA 02138
Jennifer Talanian	8 Lancaster St, Cambridge 02140
Jane Vanderwallen	168 Spruce St Wake, MA 02177
Joseph C. Goren	American Inland Service Assoc. 2161 Mass Ave. Cambridge, Ma. 02140

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Carole Linn	Allston, MA 02139
David Law	Somerville, MA 02144
Dan Curley	Wilton, N.H.
Chris Courhan	4-A Gibbs St. Cambridge 02139
Mary Eka Abele	3 Pease St. Jamaica Plain MA 02130
Michael F. Hill	Cambridge MA 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

[Signature]

47 MILLBURN Shrewsbury St. Holden MA

[Signature]

12 Home Ave Medford MA 02155

[Signature]

5 Jere Rd, Reading MA 01862

[Signature]

31 AETERBORG ST BOSTON 02215

[Signature]

11 Green St, Apt #1 Cambridge MA 02139

[Signature]

50 Follen St. Cambridge 02138

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

[Signature]

60 N Main St, Apt 15 North 01740

M. [Signature]

8 Locke St. Cam, MA 02140

[Signature]

51 E. [Signature] St #91 Davenport MA 01926

[Signature]

27 Gleason St. Medford 02155

[Signature]

702 Broadway St Somerville MA 02144

Joseph Evans

160 Chestnut St. Cambridge 02139

Chris Broken

30 Rybrand, Allston 02134

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Mary Ellen Conroy	504 FRANKLIN St. #1 Camb.
Maria Waters	111 Warwick Rd Melrose
Rita Waters	8 Eureka Terrace #2 Brighton Ma 02135
John DePina	29 Garden St. #411 Cambridge MA 02138
EL Marston	17 Perry St Somerville Ma 02147
Richard Allen	35 Benford Rd #2 Brighton MA 02135

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Carole Snowman	137 Walnut St #3, Brookline, MA 02146
Thomas Gillogly	Employee / Harward
Jody Isaacs	Cambridge
Kevin F. Sempit	Cambridge,
Camp J.	161 Cabot St, Beverly
Eric Papp	77 Nicholas Rd. #56

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Nathleen M. Harris

Deborah P. Wilson

Jim James

Robert White

Margaret Mace

Denise Gardner

Student

Natalie Ma

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Angel Suarez Lucha
[Signature]
[Signature]

37 Marwick Square East Boston 75022

29 Roman St, Cambridge MA

55 WELD HILL ST, BOSTON, MA 02130

Gary Reid

55 WEL Hill St Boston 02130

[Signature]

25 Dartmouth St Boston 02116

AK Berchman

11 Carter St. Apt. 1 Newton MA 02460

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Tommy Okun	3 MOORE ST Somerville MA 02144
Mike Rappner	51 Reed St. CAM. 02140
Parcelo Fideamba	304 SOUTH ST. JAMAICA PLAIN.
Rosa Loua	304 SOUTH ST JAMAICA PLAIN
Christopher R. [unclear]	41A PARK AVE #2 HULL, MA 02045
Mark DeLuca	30 Sterling Rd. Waltham, Ma 02154

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Sarah DiLuna	17 High St. Sharon, Ma 02067
Phil R	159 School St. Watertown, Ma. 02172
Michael D. Sh	7 Sherman St. Charlestown 02129
Jennifer Lynn	Same
Justin DeLoro	34 Leonard St Somerville MA 02149
Jenny Robinson	375 Broadway Cambridge 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Frances P. Wood	38 Tremlett St. Dorchester, MA 02124
Michael S. Voldey	22 ROGERS AVE SOMERVILLE, MA 02144
Deborah R. Bridg	346 Washington St. Cambridge 02139
Julie Perlman	90 Elm St. E #2 Cambridge MA 02139
M. Dilke	58 Varnum St, Arlington MA 02176
K. Hoelwald Dilke	_____

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Alan R. Wassick

ALAN R. WASSICK 224 PEARL ST. SOMERVILLE, MA
02145

Francis Hery

67 Devon St Cambridge MA 02138

Bill Simball

29 Francis St. Brookline MA 02146

Norm Goffin

14 Cogswell Ave Camb MA 02140

Julie Poter

250 Wellington St Boston MA 02115

Kevin Toulan

170 Hyde St, Needham MA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Terry Crystel	1200 Mass Ave #47W
Julia Valentine	37 Brookline St
Theresa Nelson	129 Franklin St. #319
Suzanne Gallone	97 Barket Ave, Arlington, MA
Sandra Rose	5 Roberts Rd Cambridge HUCTW/AFSCME
Stephen J. Bunnell	6 NEWTON ST #2 CAMBRIDGE MASS.

CITIZEN ACTION OF MASS.

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Carla P. Wasthug	61 Sparks St. Cambridge
Tom [Signature]	61 Sparks St. Cambridge
Gerald [Signature]	65 Langer St Cambridge
High & L	40 EVERGREEN ST. JP 02130
Wendy [Signature]	18 Hall Ave Som. 02144
William O. B. [Signature]	10 Manway St. 02135

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Gail Graves

8 Appleton Rd., Cambridge MA 02138

John P. Hill
Rub M. Davis

104 Holden Green Cambridge MA
" " " " " 02138

[Signature]

162 Walnut St Boston MA 02116

Mary Louppa

90 School St Somerville MA 02143

Katie Aldard

35 Appleton St #12 JP MA 02130

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Robert Alter

Fairfield St CAMBRIDGE

Deborah Sullivan

Hillcrest Rd., Milton

Paul P. Elmer

~~15~~ 15 Kirkland Rd. Cambridge MA

Wen Elwood

15 Kirkland Cambridge

Mark

20 FARRAR ST. CAMBRIDGE MA

John Pratt

76 Sparks St. Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
David B. Brown	10 Kenney St. Camb.
Abigail Gillman	19 Agassiz St Cambridge
Mariella Smith	20 Clinton St #3 Cambridge
Margaretland	20 Child St JP 02130
Melinda S. Walsh	31 Chilton St Cambridge 02138
Thijs Matteson	275 Concord Ave Cambry 02138

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Frank A. Leeman	14 Whittier St, Cambridge 02146
Francis M. Olin	20 Highland Rd. Somerville 02144
Lionel Joseph	20 Highland Rd Somerville 02144
John E. Sullivan	1 Exeter Park Cambridge MA 02140
Mary Cooper	48 KENT ST #3 BROOKLINE MA 02146
Kenn M. Camargo	30 HOBSON ST. BOSTON, MA 02135

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Donald C. Monk

67 Eustis St. Cambridge MA 02140

Annex Walker

22 Leamington Rd Brighton

Tina B. Bell

22 Leamington Rd Brighton

Jim Brochman

15 ARLAND ST Somerville

Michelle Malley

44 Chestnut St Boston

Robert G. Miskin

105-6 Trowbridge St - Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
MARCELO FERREIRA	270 NORFOLK #5, CAMBRIDGE 02139
VIRGINIA RICHMOND	65 N. POINT DR. APT. 206 Boston MA 02125
Ronald Johnson	167 CENTRE ST Rox MASS 02119
Andre Hughes	100R South End North 02116
John Phillips	552 Mass ave South End 02118
Rodney Bembow	355 Columbus Ave South End 02116

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Virginia Childs

2 Rockwell St Camb. 02139

Aecme Powers

44 Olland Ave Somerville 02145

Laurence Weil

138 Western Ave Cambridge, MA

Janif Adil

138 Western Ave Cambridge MA

Carla

772 Centre St. #2R Jamaica Plain MA

Frankie Dever

678 Mass Ave. Cambridge MA. 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Laura Imperiale	8 Douglass St. Apt 3F Camb. 02139
Jim Stanislasuk	108 MAGAZINE ST APT 1 CAMB 02139
Christina Jackel	" "
Victoria Hunter	199 PROSPECT ST Cambridge
Quack	Cambridge MA
Brenda Whitfield	22 Bishop Allen Drive #4 Camb.

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Jan Bell

Industrial Workers of the World 161 Western Ave. #15 C

J. D. Reed

49 COLLEGE AVE SOMERVILLE MA

Shirley Smith

22 Glenarm St Dorchester

DIJIA LAHOUCHE

324 FRANKLIN ST Camb

J. Palmer

114 Woodstock St. Somerville

Cay Klein

6 Caldwell Ave. Somerville, MA

02143

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Edward Childs	Local 126 H.E.R.F.
NAPATAILE	44 FRANCIS ST APT #1 BOSTON
Edward Hayesworth	17 FESSENDEN ST MITTAPPAH MA
Theretta Hayesworth	27 ELLINGTON ST BOSTON MA
CARMEN DEL ROSARIO	33 DICKFORD ST J.P.
Randi Berniger	1558 Beacon St, Brookline

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Diets Affeln	LPA Malrose ST #4 Bos 02116
Dorothea Manheka	65 Lynchhurst ST Dor MA 02124
Care Johnson	29 Hammond St, Roxbury MA 02119
Danielle Beckett	28 Harlem St. Dor MA 02121
Liz M. Feijer	270 N. Beacon St Brighton 02135
James Hill	21 B Circuit St. Rox 02119

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
[Signature]	30 Symphony Rd. Boston, MA 02115
Cynthia Brown	P.O. Box 350835 Cambridge, MA 02135
[Signature]	255 Powder House Blvd Somerville
Steven Gillis	31 Ballard St. Jamaica Plain, MA 02130 E-Board SWA 8731
Ken C. Kacy	1154 Massachusetts Ave Cambridge 02138
Victoria Wright	6 Pond St #3, J.P., MA 02130

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

George Paul Ross	24 Highland Ave #17, Camb
Holly E Vogel	44 Simpson St Somerville MA 02144
Phyllis Caranau	134 Vassal Lane Camb MA 02138
Patricia E. Maloney	60 Prospect St Shrewsbury MA 01545
Matthew McNeill	85 Central St Apt 7 Somerville 02145
Mary Buscher	129 Magazine St apt 5 Cambridge, 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Caryl Beeri	20 Winthrop St, Boston
Karen Meeker	70 Bishop Allen St, Camb.
Wendy Call	16 Glade Ave #3 J.F. MA 02130
Margaret Decker	6 Walter Terr, Somerville Ma 02135
Rachel Kadel	Dunster C-41, Harvard University
Maria Daccin	30 Norfolk St, Cambridge, 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Bob Bell

600 HUNTINGTON AVE BOSTON MA 02115

Robert Dana

46 William St. Camb. 02139

Supriya

24 Mt Vernon St Somerville

of Mass

14 Elm # 2 Cambridge

Tom Collins

22 Laurel St # 22 Somerville

Don Patton

213 HARVARD ST #1/C Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Walter Boyle	287 Harvard St. Cambridge, MA
DEB COLBUIN	107 PEARL ST CAMB 02139
Wally	57 GORHAM ST. #1 CAMB 02138
J. Martin	66 Main Street Somerville 02100
Michelle Lerner	39 Calvin St. Somerville MA 02143
Rebecca Gray	49 Forest St, Lexington, MA 02173

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Tamara Jones	7209 25 Linden Ave.
Jody Abelt	331A Harvard St. Camb
Dan O'Leary	271 Beant St Camb 02139
Paul Weiner	171 South St J.P. 02130
Walter Mittre	74 Avon Hill St Cambridge, 02140
Wilma Hochett	535 Concord Ave, Cambridge ^{Lexington}, MA 02173

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Julio CASAL	194 Essex St Malden, MA 02148
Alexandra Meier-Werner	464 Comm. Ar# 73 Boston, MA 02215
Joyce Foster	2 Brown Terrace Jamaica Plain 02130
Jan Egan	2 Frederick Ave Medford 02155
Debra F. Pappenhimer	15 Fayweather St Cambridge 02138
Zelda Feinberg	21 Chauncy St (Aunt) 02138

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Sandra Lovell

Ann Peattie

Olse Pelet

Barbara Aiken

Patricia Birkos

Allyen Churchill

Cambridge

30 Kelly Rd, Cambridge

Harvard

Harvard

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Sandra K. Levine

27 Florence St. Andover MA

Steph H. Lin

27 Florence St. Andover MA

Cyril D. H.

118 OXFORD ST. CAMBRIDGE MA

John J. Lewis

Ann Ryther

20 Franklin St. Dorchester MA

Alden Brown

21 Everett St Cambridge MA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

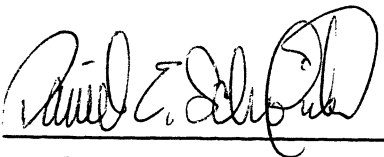

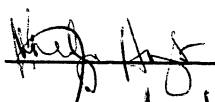

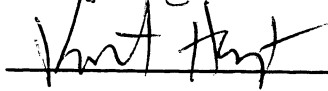

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
	Harvard College
Georgia Young	Harvard College
Kathryn Dodgson	Harvard Divinity School
	EPSE
	Brent Badi
Jean Vallin	8 Westwood Rd Somerville 02143

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Adele Pressman	HCAP
Anson Langens	Wet Survival
H. Susan Freireich	The Cambridge Hospital
Lauren Bunker	Harvard U.
Andrew Santini	Resident of Cambridge / Somerville Hospital
W. G. M. M. M.	Sparks St. Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

D. CHRISTOPHER ROYER	# 237 Tremont St. Newton, MA
Matthew Smith	28 Wendell St. #16 Cambridge MA 02138
Temper Mennard	26 Gray Cambridge 02138
Doris Supri	38 AVON St. Cambridge 02138
Raymond Sevin	88 Avon St. Cambridge 02138
C. Terry	4 Farnham St. Newton, MA 02459

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
SOSAN WETHERALL	7161 MASS AVE CAMBRIDGE, MA 02140
Loren Schechter, MD	9 Centre St. Cambridge
Vanessa [unclear]	124 Hancock St Cambridge
Vivian [unclear]	40 Bellis Circle Cambridge 02140
[Signature]	40 Bellis Circle Cambridge 02140
Oliver C. Stewart	85 Carfield St., Waterborn MA 02172

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Bonnie Jones	128 Halloworth St. Cambridge 02138
Erlayne Krutagan	16 Springstiehl St. Belmont 02178
Mayra S. Vito	24A Prescott St. Arlington 02174
Elli Wagner	184 Upland Ave Newton 02161
Michelle Park	9 St Lawrence St Camb 02138
Hay Jett	39 Calvin St #3 Somerville MA 02143

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Elizabeth Abraham Sobel	489 PEAKHAM Rd Sudbury MA 01776
John Rector	Brookline
Lucy H. Potts	P.O. 222 Cambridge 02140
Loanna Lewis	103 Bennett St Bra Ma 02135
Gilly Wether	144 HARDY POND WALTHAM 02159
Thomas King	12 Temple St Waltham 02152

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Peter Costanza

37 Sargent St. Cambridge MA 02140

Bayleene Smith

37 SARGENT ST Cambridge MA 02140

[Signature]

10 Montague St, Arlington, MA 02174

[Signature]

3 Yonkers Rd, Manalapan, NJ 07726

[Signature]

23 Chandler St, #1L, Somerville, MA 02144

[Signature]

128 Bradford St Needham MA 02192

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Anne Rath	Harvard University
Loretta McQueen	Haymarket Board
Sarah Hunt	53 Lee St., Cambridge 02139
Lee Miller	Northboro MA
Paul Stump	Concord, MA
Bryan Tusk	14 Cottage Lane Watertown, MA
	02172

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Jacqueline Orr	30 Hillside Ave, Camb MA 02140
Jan Skelton	19 Garden St - Cambridge MA 02138
Andrea Walsh	80 Custis St, Somerville MA 02143
Synthia Price	10 Montague St., Arlington MA 02174
M. Duvall	88 Beckett Ave. Arlington 02174
Maureen J. O'Brien	477 Union St. Braintree

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Michelle Ashley	20 WINDLAW ST. CAMB 02138
David Pellinore	35 Ibberson St. Somerville 02143
Jenise Miller	192 Winthrop St. - Haverhill, MA 01746
Margaret Healy	335 Waverlet Rd. Lexington 02173
Theresa B. Savage	49 Winslow St., Cambridge 02138
John Palmer	38 Winslow St Cambridge, MA 02138

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Jeanne McSweeney

10 Forest St Cambridge, MA 02140-1548

Lynn Hall

154 Auburn St Cambridge MA 02139

Marvin Bellows

50 Mt Vernon St Camb - 02140

Robert Hoffman

11 Chester St. Arlington MA 02174

Jacques EMISALEM

24 rue SIBUET 75012 Paris

Cynthia Park

16 Holly Rd Winchester 01890

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

James M. Bellino

Reh Poy

Grad School of Education, Harvard

Van Wallach

Harvard University

Luz Jones, D.

19 Monroch St, Cambridge, MA 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Timothy Pugh	DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb.
Jan Page	DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb.
Jan Mendenhall	DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb.
Debra Castell	DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb.
Robert Green	DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb.
Robert Green	DSS " " "
Frank Smith	DSS " " "
Roberta Parsons	DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb.

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Rita Wang
Rosee Rabin

DSS; 810 Memorial Drive, Camb

DSS 810 Memorial Dr, Camb.

Nicholas Holahan

DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb.

Ramon Beaks

DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb.

Suzanne Cardona

DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb.

Joanna Despotovich

DSS 810 Memorial Dr Camb.

Nella Kelly

DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb.

Julie Calado

DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb, MA 02139

Helena Carrero

DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb, Ma. 02139

Cherie Condon

DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb, MA 02139

E. feu Rodriguez

DSS 810 Memorial Dr Camb MA 02139

Josephine Patis Fera

DSS 810 Memorial Dr, Camb, MA 02139.

Bree Pasternack

DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Camb, MA 02139

Brett Cebul

DSS 810 Memorial Dr. Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Walter Kennedy

1493 Camb St Camb

Janberg

1493 Camb St

Michael Clark

1493 Cambridge St.

Russ Bjorn

14 Melvin St Somerville MA.

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

DRAUG M M

Francisco J. Rosa

2 Chestnut St #14 Camb. Mass. 02139

Lina Torres

homeless

Castle Youngman

1722 Comm. Ave Brighton, MA 02135

Manuel Alicia

34A North St. Somerville, Mass - 02149

Rafael Pereira

375 Broadway St. Cambridge MA

02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Patricia Fitzgerald

Cambridge Hospital

Ann Shea

TCH

Paul Pusucci

Cambridge Hosp.

Menachem Stern

20 Cambridge Terr.

Rebecca Dryden

TCH Laboratory

Priscilla Day

TCH

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Ellen Cabral	The Cambridge Hosp
Maria Alexandre	The Cambridge Hosp
John Alexandre	The Cambr - Hosp
Ann E. Gabriel	TCH
Stephanie	TCH
Liz Beckmann	TCH

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Lo Shu Luo

TCH

Jane Dan

TCH

J. Auerk

Bratt's Tap

B. Curley

Hampshire St

City Hall

Line St

John O'Brien

TCH

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Quirk

Kathryn Babel

Luella Travers

Tom Wyt

Bob Hall

Francis

Cambridge Hospital

TCH

TCH

64 Central Expressway

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Sandra Wilson [Signature]

Donald DeGage [Signature]

Perleton Johnson _____

PATRICIA MCMANN _____

HASSAN CHEHAR 34 ALBION ST. Somerville

[Signature] #407
295 Harvard St Camb

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

15 Francis St. #38

Brookline, MA 02146

10 Magazine St. #602

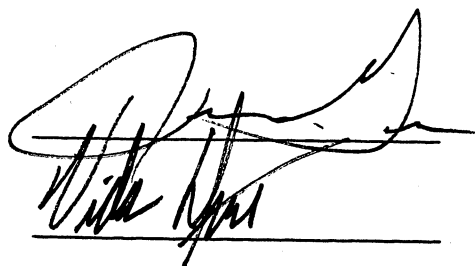

Cambridge, MA. 02139

6 Fairmont St Camb 02139

888 Mass Ave #110 Camb 02139

66. Dikume Ave. Fram. 01701

35 Lee St Camb. MA 02114

Marcia McMenamin

Jennifer Bunton

Leo Larr

Michael Stinsky

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

MILKE COOKE	S.I.U. (C.H.)
Gen Sander	ICA
Kym Hood	CAU (C.H.)
M Woods	YN
Carol Simons	Housekeeping
Michelle Monahan	Laboratory

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Kathleen Deely	Cambridge Hosp - OR
AK	OSF Research
Gerald Russell	12.M.P. @
Gerald Morn	Cambridge Hosp - Dept. Medicine.
Koko Kent	Cambridge Hosp Pediatrics
V. Blaker	Grave Health Ctr, Somerville

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Nancy S Mitchell	NASW, IWRC, 30 Concord St Boston 02118
Carlos Ticas	IWRC
Mercedes Rodriguez	_____
Marin Therpulis	IWRC
Guerra Santa	IWRC
Calys	IWRC

Royal Institutional Services goes against the community standards that have long prevailed in Cambridge, which place a high value on the health and well-being of everyone in the community. We want our city to continue to reflect these values in its policies and practices. To do so, it must bring forth all of the available information about Royal and will take steps to end its relationship with Royal as soon as possible.

Sincerely,

Michael Cook

Pastor Faith Lutheran Church
President, Central Square
Ministers' Association

Barbara Hallow

Chairperson MNA at
The Cambridge Hospital

Mark Erlich
Bill Cavellini

Carpenters Local 40
Woods Democratic Committee

(Rev.) Thomas B. Stittich

University Lutheran Church
Harvard Square

Laura Goldberg

6 Beach St Cambridge

Walter P. Leaf

6 Garfield St. Cambridge

January 25, 1995

John O'Brien, CEO, Cambridge Hospital

Robert Healy, City Manager

Councillor Born

Councillor Davis

Councillor Duehay

Councillor Galluccio

Councillor Sullivan

Councillor Toomey

→ Councillor Triantafillou

Vice Mayor Russell

Mayor Reeves

Dear City Officials:

We are writing to forward to you the enclosed petitions which represent the voices of hundreds if not thousands of individuals and organizations who live, work, and operate in Cambridge. The message of the petitions is clear: the community of Cambridge values the social and economic well-being of everyone in the community, and the City should not be contracting with companies that disregard these principles.

Royal Institutional Services does not meet basic standards of human decency. It does not provide a living wage for its employees nor benefits such as affordable family health insurance. Its record is tainted by its history of violating health and safety regulations and environmental regulations. It is under investigation by the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination, and is being taken to court by the National Labor Relations Board.

Royal Institutional Services is also being investigated by the City. As these petitions make clear, we want the City to do business only with companies that obey the law and treat their employees with decency and respect. While Royal's regulatory record is disturbing, we find just as problematic Royal's day-to-day treatment of its workers and the fact that employees of Royal do not earn wages above the poverty line and are not provided basic benefits that would allow them to care for their families. There is no more basic worker treatment issue than whether people take enough home every week to survive. A diligent investigation of Royal will reveal all of these facts.

Petitions from residents regarding Royal Institutional Services business practices. 415(b)

In City Council January 29, 1996