On the arts scene

MARIA JIMENA LASANSKY, internationally renowned dancer, choreographer and teacher, will present a solo performance at Welch Auditorium, Lesley College, Saturday, January 26, 1980. The public is invited to attend the 8 p.m. performance free of charge. Lesley College is located at 29 Everett Street, just two blocks north of Harvard Square.

Chang art impresses

By Richard Brown
Special to the Chronicle

There was a reason to cheer last week at the Cambridge Rindge and Latin High School when a well-liked, soft-spoken senior became the first person to ever win eight Golden Key art awards in the National Scholastic Art Awards regional preliminaries.

Classmates in Kun-Tee Chang's homeroom and art classes greeted her with standing ovations after hearing the news, and she drew applause again last Sunday from the more than 400 people attending the Golden Key presentation ceremony at the University of Massachusetts' Boston campus.

The seventeen-year-old was one of 670 finalists chosen from about 5,500 statewide senior and junior high school entrants who will now go on to compete in the state contest in the Prudential Tower lobby on January 28.

"She's a born artist, with outstanding potential," says Sara Ulman, her art teacher. "Whatever she does, she does well, from very free figure drawing, to oil painting, to pastels, to very detailed pen-and-ink drawing. And she puts in a lot of hard work."

"I've been an artist ever since I can remember," says the frail-looking Chang, who lives in Cambridge with two of her sisters. But, she freely admits, "I have a long way to go with my technique compared with professionals."

Although Chang occasionally goes skating or window-shopping, the Taiwan-born artist says she devotes most of her extracurricular time to her art. In school, her art teacher says Chang spends many lunch hours and free periods working in the art room.

KUN-TEE CHANG

"I'm not usually satisfied with what I do," Chang says, flashing a quick smile, "I always want to improve."

Chang specializes in drawings rather than paintings, and, unlike most modern artists, prefers realism to abstract art.

"I like Winslow Homer and artists like that," she says. "I like Homer's accurate technique. I also like Degas, because he captures the quickness and mood of his dancers."

Chang has never had private teachers; she considers herself a self-made artist.

"You learn by practicing on your own, that's the main thing," she says. "I've always been

PUBLIC HEARING

The City Council will hold a public hearing on February 4, 1980 at 8:30 P.M. in the City Council Chamber, City Hall, Cambridge, Massachusetts on the taking of two parcels of land at the northeast corner of Concord Avenue and Smith Place to improve circulation and public safety at that intersection.

All interested persons are invited to attend and be heard.

By order of the City Council,
Paul E. Healy, City Clerk.

New School of Music voice concert

The New School of Music will present a lecture recital, free to the general public, by Anne Ayer, soprano, and Elizabeth Wysor, contralto, at Harvard University's Cronkhite Graduate Center, 6 Ash St. on Wednesday, January 30, at 8 p.m.

Ayer will be heard in a group of songs by Schubert, Faure, Nadia Boulanger, and Rachmaninoff. She is well known both in this country and abroad for her solo recitals, appearances with symphony and chamber orchestras, and for her recordings. Her extensive repertory ranges from the French seventeenth centruy through the great nineteenth century Russians and the German and French Romantics to the works of contemporary composers.

Ayer has been prominents in the revival of interest in the operas or "tragedies lyrique" of Jean-Baptiste Lully, the founder of French opera, and has appeared in concert versions of his "Thesee" in this country and in London. With Phyllis Curtin, Hugues Cuenod and other distinguished soloists, she has recorded scenes from Lully's "Alceste."

Wysor's group will open with the aria "Sommi Dei" from Handel's 1720 opera "Radamisto" and will include a Brahms lied, the Carl Loewe setting of Goethe's "Erlkonig," and an arrangement by Gerald Moore of a Scottish folksong.

Phillip Oliver will be the accompanist for Ayer and Wysor. A graduate of the Longy School of Music, Oliver is a member of the music faculty of Boston University and has concertized widely throughout New England.

This furniture doesn't just sit there looking beautiful. It knows when to undress and go to bed! A round pit group, a chair, a plush sofa. Flip it over and it's a bed, as comfortable as you'd wish. And they all save you money with flat standard sheets. A brilliant new design concept by Frank Petersilie for Spherical. Instead of metal frames or springs with creaky mechanisms, you'll find geometric shapes of durable, lightweight, poly foam (beautifully upholstered with removable slip covers) that cleverly flip and rearrange for limitless decorating possibilities. Things aren't always what they seem. At Spherical they're better! We'd love to show you this truly exciting, truly new furniture this week.

Learning and doing

Bilingual program

A course on social aspects of bilingualism, focusing on immigrant ethnic communities, will be given by Harvard University Extension starting Wednesday, January 30, 5:30-7:30 pm. Topics: interference between language structures, the changing cultural and social roles of ethnic languages, language choice as symbol and social weapon, Black English as an emerging "ethnic" language, pidgin and creole ethnic languages (West Indian, Cape Verdean), and what all this means for bilingual education programs. Harvard Hall 102, Harvard Square.

Fees, registration: call 495-4024. Course information: come to first meeting or call 495-4054 (Prof. Heath) weekday afternoons. Credit and noncredit students.

Ethical/medical issues

Youville Rehabilitation Hospital, Cambridge, is presenting a series of afternoon seminars, sponsored by the hospital's Medico-Moral Committee, on the ethical-medical issues which arise in a long-term health facility.

On Thursday, Jan. 31, at 2:00 p.m., the seminar will focus on "Helping Patients Deal with Loss During Hospitalization."

Presenters: Marilyn R. Rossier, RN, MS, is a psychiatric mental health consultant at Youville and Somerville Hospitals. She is a candidate for a M. Div. degree at BU School of Theology. Karen Santella, MSW, has been an active member of Youville's Social Service Department for more than five years. Fr. Jim Shea is assistant director of pastoral services at Youville. He received his D. Min. in pastoral counseling from Southern Methodist Seminars will be offered on the last Thursday of the month until May, from 2:00 to p.m. at the Youville Hospital School of Practical Nursing Auditorium, 1575 Cambridge Street, Cambridge. For more information contact the Public Relations Office, 876-4344, ext. 280.

All health care professionals and community residents are invited to attend at no charge.

YWCA winter programs

The Cambridge YWCA, 7 Temple St., has a wide range of winter programs to beat those cold winter nights. It's not too late to sign up for classes in swimming, exercise, tennis, music, French, gymnastics, dance, photography, judo, tai chi, quilting, and assertiveness training.

On the fourth Tuesday of each month from 6 to 10 p.m., learn about ways to combat racism. Learn to fix your car in an auto mechanics class. Explore whether you want to have a child in the Y's "A Baby Maybe" discussion. Women who have had breast surgery may join ENCORE, a group rehabilitation program for postmastectomy women.

On Feb. 2 teens will spend a day exploring the many career options for young women at the Career Awareness Workshop, from 1 to 4 p.m. A course in basic First Aid begins Feb. 5. Preschool gym and swim classes for children aged 3 and older are offered weekdays and Sat. And multilingual classes in spanish, english and french are also available.

Call 491-6050 for further information.

Open the door

to newsboy or girl

They're coming to your door to make you a good offer.

The 1980 Dole Publishing circulation contest starts Thursday, Jan. 31 and goes through February 28 for the Cambridge Chronicle, Somerville Journal and the Watertown Press.

All regular newscarriers of your weekly paper are expected to call on those in their area who are not already regular weekly subscribers.

They will remind you that through them you may sign to receive the paper at just 20 cents a week, or 5 cents less than you can buy it at the newsstands – and that it will come to your door every week, regardless of the weather.

Sign up! Keep in touch with what's going on here! Know your government better, and catch all your yard sales too. Just incidentally you may be helping some young boy or girl carrier to win a 10-speed bike, a 12" portable TV or a digital clock radio.

St. James

flea market

St. James's Church at 1991 Mass. Ave. (corner Beech) in Cambridge, will hold a Flea Market Saturday, Jan. 26 from 9 to 3. Admission is 25 cents and there will be a snack bar.
