WHEREAS: The Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) will be hosting its First Annual VOLUNTEERISM DAY on Saturday, April 8, 1995, on behalf of the three emergency homeless shelters which abut the MIT campus; and

WHEREAS: VOLUNTEERISM DAY has been coordinated in an effort to keep alive the energetic and creative community spirit which resulted in the successful resolution of the CASPAR siting process; and

WHEREAS: In March of 1993, the City of Cambridge, CASPAR, and MIT signed an historic agreement which led to the siting and construction of the CASPAR Emergency Service Center at 240 Albany Street; and

WHEREAS: Every segment of the Cambridge community participated in this challenging, yet ultimately rewarding process, and thanks to the perseverance and foresight of many individuals - including neighborhood and business leaders, City of Cambridge administration and staff, and the Honorable, the City Council, along with representatives of CASPAR and MIT - a unique resolution was forged; and

WHEREAS: Now, two years later, the CASPAR Emergency Service Center is serving homeless individuals in an environment that is functional, clean, spacious, and conducive to the execution of the many programs so integral to the consumers at the Emergency Service Center; and

WHEREAS: In honor of the spirit and action of the CASPAR resolution, community residents, government officials, business and institutional leaders are invited to join MIT faculty, students, and staff to carry out volunteer community service projects at the CASPAR Emergency Service Center, Shelter, Inc., and the Salvation Army on Saturday, April 8, 1995; now therefore be it

RESOLVED: That this City Council does hereby extend its best wishes and pledge of support to CASPAR, Shelter, Inc., the Salvation Army, and MIT as they embark upon their first annual VOLUNTEERISM DAY, on Saturday, April 8, 1995.

In City Council April 3, 1995
