MAYOR REEVES

WHEREAS: The essential and worthy value of reading serves as a bridge of ongoing educational opportunities from one generation to subsequent generations; and

WHEREAS: The conscientious development of concentrated reading habits is the key ingredient to increased knowledge and educational success; and

WHEREAS: To inspire and promote the regular exercise of reading the Massachusetts Reading is Fundamental Program (RIF) has flourished under the outstanding leadership of Joanne Byron; and

WHEREAS: In support of this program, a large number of celebrities, politicians, businessmen and others deeply interested in the educational growth of our students have readily taken the initiative to visit the schools and read to the pupils during RIF week; and

WHEREAS: They also sponsor fundraising events to augment this program; now therefore be it

RESOLVED: That this Cambridge City Council does hereby salute the contributions of Joanne Byron and the performance of the RIF Program for their dedication to the development of the reading skills of the school children of Cambridge.
