IC parish sets Lenten programs

Lenten fast suppers with evening prayer and reflection will be held on Fridays beginning February 14 at Immaculate Conception School on Alewife Brook parkway and Matignon road.

The simple meal being offered is to encourage a spirit of Lenten fasting and the reflections offered will be directed to Living Gospel values in the world.

The reflection on February 14 will be on Family Life: the foundation of the experience of Church. Speakers will be Pat and Dick McConville of Malden, members of the advisory committee of the Archdiocesan Family Life Office.

On Feb. 21 the reflection will be on the process of grief, "Comforting the Sorrowful: Learning to Grow as we Grieve." Betty Walsh, education coordinator of Omega, will make the presentation. Omega, located at the Somerville Catholic Charities, offers a variety of programs helping persons in the process of grief.

On Feb. 28 the reflection will be

PUBLIC NOTICE RELATIVE TO ZONING CITY OF CAMBRIDGE MASSACHUSETTS

Office of the City Clerk
Notice is hereby given that in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 40A, Section 5 of the General Laws, Tentative Edition and amendments thereto, that the Committee on Ordinances, comprised of the entire membership of the City Council, will hold a public hearing on Thursday, February 27, 1986 at 6:30 p.m. in the City Council Chamber, City Hall, Cambridge, Massachusetts on a petition by the City Council to amend the text of the Zoning Ordinance by deleting the existing Section 11.20 - Community Residences and substituting therefor a new Section 11.20 - Community Residences and by modifying provisions of Section 4.50 - Institutional Use Regulations to bring them into conformance with Section 11.20. The provisions of Section 11.20 are numbered in the following areas:

- 1. the number of facilities permitted per neighborhood is measured by number of beds rather than number of facilities,
- 2. the number of beds allowed per neighborhood is changed from 4 to 10 per 1000 population, and
- 3. a mechanism is provided for exceeding the quota allowed per neighborhood by Special Permit if the basic objectives of the Section are met.

The changes to the Institutional Use Regulations have the effect of providing options in Residence C-1, B and A districts for the location of Community Residence where few existed previously. Copies of this petition are on file in the Office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

All persons interested in this matter may appear at this time and be heard.

For the Committee, Councillor William H. Walsh, Chairman

Articulture kids to stage 'Puppet Logic'

The Articulture Youth Players will present their winter production, "Puppet Logic," at the Cambridge Multicultural Arts Center in East Cambridge on February 28 and March 1 at 8 pm and March 2 at 3 pm. The original musical is a collaboration of three artists and six local students who have been working together since October improvising scenes, learning songs and dances and creating puppets for the show.

According to Lynn Schiel, the coordinator of this Articulture production, the theme of the show, "Newspapers," developed as the kids and adults spent rehearsal time discussing current news articles and their effect on the public and on kids in particular. "Every week, someone would bring in a news clipping to rehearsal, and we'd discuss what impact that story was having on the people in it, on the people who read about it and on ourselves," said Schiel.

In the play, kids and puppets interact with newspapers to ask such questions as: "Where does news come from? Who is responsible for releasing certain news stories, and when?"

CRLS students win art awards

Nine young artists from Cambridge Rindge and Latin School were recently honored in the regional competition of the Boston Globe Scholastic Art Awards program.

Gold Key awards, enabling students to go on to compete at the state level, were awarded to Daniel Ovsu, Greg Edwards, Celia Connaire, Jeremy Walsh, Yung Tang Chan, Kaarma Roberts and Arwen Staros-Sheppard.

Honorable mention awards went to Ovsu, Victor Garcia and Ji-Ah Park.

And, how can kids use the news to learn to make a difference in the world? "Puppet Logic" features the choreography of Glenda Medeiros with the rock music of composer Patrick Daugherty, and a cast of local fifth through eighth graders including Daniel Thompson, Cathleen Warren, Meghan and Kate McLaughlin, Erika Baily, and Imani Perry. Says Schiel, "The kids had to be very dedicated to spend two days a week after school in rehearsal for so many months, and they really have been."

"Puppet Logic" culminates the winter/spring portion of the Articulture Youth Performing Arts Training Project in which local youth are provided with acting, dance and vocal training. This program, now in its twelfth year, has provided over 300 youth with performing arts training and has produced over 20 original productions.

Tickets for "Puppet Logic" are $4 for adults and $2 for students and seniors. For more information or reservations, call the Center's Box Office at 577-1400. Tickets are also available through Boston.

NO STRINGS—Cambridge kids rehearse "Puppet Logic", an original musical about kids, newspapers, and world events to be presented at the Cambridge Multicultural Arts Center. The Articulture program offers training in choreography, acting, and music to area kids and is now in its thirteenth year. Tickets: $4 and $2. For more information, call 577-1400. Continued from page 3 the government. Now it serves two purposes, to produce indictments a prosecutor wants and to carry on any investigation a prosecutor gets it in his head to carry on, whether or not it produces and indictment."

If the justice department is attempting to make an example out of a political activist, as some have charged, then it has picked its victim well: a single woman, head of household who needs the money she earns to survive.

She's not someone who can afford to take a stand, secure in the knowledge that the paycheck will come twice a month no matter what. Although the city has granted her a leave of absence and is holding her job open for when her ordeal is over, it is, nonetheless, an unpaid leave.

As a single, head of household, it's not money she can easily do without.

"I have outstanding legal fees. I've had several lawyers. I stopped working. You still have to pay rent, light, gas, phone bills. It's a real hardship."

"The defense committee is trying to do fundraising," she says.

And the experience has extracted an emotional toll as well.

Hill's son, Kevin says that "for any family, it's a traumatic experience being charged and mishandled by your own government. Luckily, my family is strong enough to deal with this. A lot of families aren't strong enough."

Prison has also meant postponing a return to college for her son Kevin.

Meanwhile, Hill is in prison, waiting for the grand jury term to end. But you can be sure she's not just sitting. She's educating, passing out pamphlets about her case to other prisoners. Perhaps the most tolerable aspect of her prison sentence is that she's not isolated.

While she is confined to her cell at times — and has in the course of her six-month imprisonment spent eight or nine days in solitary confinement — "because of my mouth" — for most of the day she has free movement on the floor.

But she is in prison, eating prison food, despite the fact that she is a vegetarian and needs a special diet because of a medical condition.

She is breathing prison air, except for those twice-weekly occasions when the prisoners are allowed up on the roof to breathe pure downtown Manhattan air. "I can smell Chinese food," she says.

In prison, missing the precious early months of her grandson's life — he'll soon be two. And she missed the last days of her mother-in-law's life, not allowed out for the funeral when she died suddenly in December. "It has to be a close relative," she was told.

"I'll probably be involved in grand jury education," she says, thinking ahead to resuming her life outside prison. She says she wants to "educate people in how the system works and how it can oppress people and how injustices happen."

Her son Kevin says the grand jury experience has "strengthened her as a leader in the community. She's a leader, whether she recognizes it or not."

He adds, "They thought it would do the reverse, but it has done anything but the reverse."

IC parish sets Lenten programs

Lenten fast suppers with evening prayer and reflection will be held on Fridays beginning February 15 at Immaculate Conception Church on Alewife Brook parkway and Matignon road.

The simple meal being offered is to encourage a spirit of Lenten fasting and the reflections offered will be directed to Living gospel values in the world.

The reflection on February 14 will be on Family Life: the foundation of the experience of Church. Speakers will be Paul and Dick McConville of Malden, members of the advisors committee of the Archdiocese of Fall River.

On Feb. 21 the reflection will be on the process of grief, "Comforting the Sorrowful: Learning to Grow as we Grieve." Betty Walsh, education coordinator of Omega, will make the presentation, Omega, located at the Somerset Catholic Charities, offers a variety of programs helping people in the process of grief.

Repair aid for seniors is offered

A small repair service for elderly homeowners in the Riverside-Cambridgeport area is available now under the auspices of the Cambridge Council on Aging.

Small repairs include such items as door and closet repairs, replacing broken window glass, replacing roof shingles, and faucet and shower head repair.

Work of this kind will be performed by a maintenance specialist hired by the COA as part of a neighborhood pilot project. The goal is to help as many elderly residents as possible to remain in their homes by improving their comfort and safety.

Costs of materials and labor will be paid for by the homeowner, but low-income clients may be eligible for partial reimbursement through their neighborhood rehabilitation corporation.

For information on this pilot project and the availability of service, call or write Ed Ayres, COA, 51 Inman St., Cambridge, MA 02139, tel: 498-9039.

Cemetery sets talk series

The newly-formed Friends of Mount Auburn of Mount Auburn Cemetery in Cambridge and Waterbury is sponsoring two lectures in the upcoming weeks.

On Thursday, February 27 at 12 noon, Gary Roberts of the New England Historical Genealogical Society will speak on "An Introduction to Genealogy Research: How to do it and what you can expect to find." Discover some of the fascinating historical family connections in New England, and learn the "how to's" of tracing your own family tree.

On Thursday, March 6, Deirdre Morris of the Mid-Cambridge Community Gardeners will speak about her research on "The Life or Horticulturist Charles Mason Hovey (1810-1887)," also at 12 noon. Leon Hovey, horticulturist and one of the little-known developers of the Hovey Strawberry, the first named variety of any fruit produced by plant breeding. Hovey was also the long-time editor of "The Magazine of Horticulture, Botany and All Useful Discoveries and Improvements in Rural Affairs," then the only horticultural magazine in America. Hovey is buried in Mount Auburn Cemetery on the corner of Mount and Spruce avenues.

The lectures will take place in Story Chapel, adjacent to the main office, and are free of charge. The programs will last approximately 50 minutes so bring your lunch, coffee and a desert will be provided. Call 497-7108 for reservations, or stop by the office at 580 Mount Auburn St., Cambridge.

For more information about the Friends of Mount Auburn and other programs, tours and lectures scheduled for the spring, contact Eden F. Sizemore, program director, Mount Auburn Cemetery.

PUBLIC NOTICE
RELATIVE TO ZONING
CITY OF CAMBRIDGE
MASSACHUSETTS
Office of the City Clerk

Notice is hereby given that in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 40A, Section 5 of the General Laws, Tercentenary Edition and amendments thereto, that the Committee on Ordinances, comprised of the entire membership of the City Council, will hold a public hearing on Thursday, February 27, 1986 at 6:30 p.m. in the City Council Chamber, City Hall, Cambridge, Massachusetts on a petition by the City Council to amend the text of the Zoning Ordinance by deleting the existing Section 11.20 - Community Residences and substituting therefor a new Section 11.20 - Community Residences and by modifying provisions of Section 4.50 - Institutional Use Regulations to bring them into conformance with Section 11.20. The provisions of Section 11.20 are cited in the following areas:

1. the number of facilities permitted per neighborhood is measured by the number of beds rather than number of facilities,
2. the number of beds allowed per neighborhood is changed from 4 to 10 per 1000 populations, and
3. a mechanism is provided for exceeding the quota allowed per neighborhood by Special Permit if the basic objectives of the Section are met.

The changes to the Institutional Use Regulations have the effect of providing options in Residence C-1, B and A districts for the location of Community Residence where few existed previously.

Copies of this petition are on file in the Office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

All persons interested in this matter may appear at this time and be heard.

Articulture kids to stage 'Puppet Logic'

The Articulture Youth Players will present their winter production, "Puppet Logic," at the Cambridge Multicultural Arts Center in East Cambridge on February 28 and March 1, at 8 pm and March 2 at 3 pm. The original musical is a collaboration of three artists and six local students who have been working together since October improvising scenes, learning songs and dances and creating puppets for the show.

According to Lynn Schiel, the coordinator of this Articulture production, the theme of the show, "Newspapers," developed as the kids and adults spent rehearsal time discussing current news articles and their effect on the public and on kids in particular. "Every week, someone would bring in a news clipping to rehearsal, and we'd discuss what impact that story was having on the people in it, on the people who read about it and on ourselves," said Schiel.

In the play, kids and puppets interact with newspapers to ask such questions as: Where does news come from? Who is responsible for releasing certain news stories, and when?

And, how can kids use the news to learn to make a difference in the world?

"Puppet Logic" features the choreography of Glenda Medeiros with the rock music of composer Patrick Daugherty, and a cast of local fifth through eighth graders including Daniel Thompson, Cathleen Warren, Meghan and Kate McLaughlin, Erika Baily, and Imani Perry. Says Schiel, "The kids had to be very dedicated to spend two days a week after school in rehearsal for so many months, and they really have been."

"Puppet Logic" culminates the winter/spring portion of the Articulture Youth Performing Arts Training Project in which local youth are provided with acting, dance and vocal training. This program, now in its twelfth year, has provided over 300 youth with performing arts training and has produced over 20 original productions.

Tickets for "Puppet Logic" are $4 for adults and $2 for students and seniors. For more information or reservations, call the Center's Box Office at 577-1400. Tickets are also available through Boxix.

the government. Now it serves two purposes, to produce indictments a prosecutor wants and to carry on any investigation a prosecutor gets it in his head to carry on, whether or not it produces an indictment."

If the justice department is attempting to make an example out of a political activist, as some have charged, then it has picked its victim well: a single woman, head of household who needs the money she earns to survive.

She's not someone who can afford to take a stand, secure in the knowledge that the paycheck will come twice a month no matter what. Although the city has granted her a leave of absence and is holding her job open for when her ordeal is over, it is, nonetheless, an unpaid leave.

As a single, head of household, it's not money she can easily do without. "I have outstanding legal fees. I've had several lawyers. I stopped working. You still have to pay rent, light, gas, phone bills. It's a real hardship."

"The defense committee is trying to do fundraising," she says.

And the experience has extracted an emotional toll as well. Hill's son, Kevin says that "for any family, it's a traumatic experience being charged and mishandled by your own government. Luckily, my family is strong enough to deal with this. A lot of families aren't strong enough."

Prison has also meant postponing a return to college for her son Kevin.

Meanwhile, Hill is in prison, waiting for the grumbles motion to bear fruit or the grand jury term to end. But you can be sure she's not just sitting. She's educating, passing out pamphlets about her case to other prisoners. Perhaps the most tolerable aspect of her prison sentence is that she's not isolated.

While she is confined to her cell at times — and has in the course of her six-month imprisonment spent eight or nine days in solitary confinement — "because of my mouth" — for most of the day she has free movement on the floor.

But she is in prison, eating prison food, despite the fact that she is a vegetarian and needs a special diet because of a medical condition.

She is breathing prison air, except for those twice-weekly occasions when the prisoners are allowed up on the roof to breathe pure downtown Manhattan air. "I can smell Chinese food," she says.

In prison, missing the precious early months of her grandson's life — he'll soon be two. And she missed the last days of her mother-in-law's life, not allowed out for the funeral when she died suddenly in December. "It has to be a close relative," she was told.

"I'll probably be involved in grand jury education," she says, thinking ahead to resuming her life outside prison. She says she wants to "educate people in how the system works and how it can oppress people and how injustices happen."

Her son Kevin says the grand jury experience has "strengthened her as a leader in the community. She's a leader whether she recognizes it or not."

He adds, "They thought it would do the reverse, but it has done anything but the reverse."

CRLS students win art awards

Office of the City Clerk

Notice is hereby given that in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 40A, Section 5 of the General Laws, Tercentenary Edition and amendments thereto, that the Committee on Ordinances, comprised of the entire membership of the City Council, will hold a public hearing on Thursday, February 27, 1986 at 6:30 p.m. in the City Council Chamber, City Hall, Cambridge, Massachusetts on a petition by the City Council to amend the text of the Zoning Ordinance by deleting the existing Section 11.20 - Community Residences and substituting therefor a new Section 11.20 - Community Residences and by modifying provisions of Section 4.50 - Institutional Use Regulations to bring them into conformance with Section 11.20. The provisions of Section 11.20 are altered in the following areas:

1. the number of facilities permitted per neighborhood is measured by number of beds rather than number of facilities,
  2. the number of beds allowed per neighborhood is changed from 4 to 10 per 1000 population, and
  3. a mechanism is provided for exceeding the quota allowed per neighborhood by Special Permit if the basic objectives of the Section are met.
- The changes to the Institutional Use Regulations have the effect of providing options in Residence C-1, B and A districts for the location of Community Residence where few existed previously.

Copies of this petition are on file in the Office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

All persons interested in this matter may appear at this time and be heard.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

This hearing is being held because the Ordinance Committee was unable to hold their hearing within the 65 day requirement.

The Planning Board of the City of Cambridge will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, March 4th 1986 at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Development Department Conference Room, 3rd Floor, City Hall Annex, 57 Inman Street, Cambridge, Ma., on a petition by the Planning Board to amend the Zoning Map and the text of the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Cambridge by deleting the existing Section 11.50 Harvard Square Overlay District from the text and the existing Harvard Square Overlay Designation from the Zoning Map and substituting therefor a new Section 11.50, Harvard Square Overlay District, in the text of the Ordinance and a new description on the Zoning Map entitled Harvard Square Overlay District, as indicated on the accompanying map. The text of the amendment would substantially revise the provisions of the existing Ordinance. The area of the Overlay District as defined on the Zoning Map would maintain the existing boundaries of the Overlay District with small extensions at Putnam Square and along Dunster Street, Winthrop Street, and Holyoke Place south of Mount Auburn Street as shown on the accompanying map.

IC parish sets Lenten programs

Lenten fast suppers with evening prayer and reflection will be held on Fridays beginning February 14 at Immaculate Conception School on Alewife Brook Parkway and Matignon road.

The simple meal being offered is to encourage a spirit of Lenten fasting and the reflections offered will be directed to Living gospel values in the world.

The reflection on February 14 will be on Family Life: the foundation of the experience of Church. Speakers will be Pat and Jack McCondon of Malden, members of the advisory committee of the Archdiocesan Family Life Office.

On Feb. 21 the reflection will be on the process of grief, "Comforting the Sorrowful: Learning to Grow as we Mourn." Betty Walsh, education coordinator of Omega, will make the presentation. Omega, located at the Somerville Catholic Charities, offers a variety of programs helping parents in the process of grief.

On Feb. 28 the reflection will be "Called to Peace in our Homes and in the World." Robert Wegener, who will be the speaker, is active in the Catholic Worker movement in Boston; is involved in the work of Haley House and has been a part of the Agape Center in Brockton, the Center for Christian Nonviolence.

The Rev. Melvin Surette will speak on grief with addition on March 7; Father Surette, former chaplain of Matignon, has directed Life Resources for the Archdiocese of Boston for many years.

On March 14 the reflection will address grief for the homeless. The evening will be directed by the Rev. George Absorama of the College Avenue United Methodist Church in Somerville.

The final reflection, on March 21, is entitled "Claiming Space to Rest, to Grow, to Pray." Sister Mary O'Rourke, CSJ, of the Cohasset Retreat Center, will be the speaker.

The evenings are open to the public. Supper and evening prayer will begin at 6 p.m.

Repair aid for seniors is offered

A small repair service for elderly homeowners in the Riverside-Cambridgeport area is available now under the auspices of the Cambridge Council on Aging.

Small repairs include such items as door and closet repairs, replacing broken window glass, replacing rotting steps, and faucet and shower head repairs.

Work of this kind will be performed by a maintenance specialist hired by the COA as part of a neighborhood pilot project. The goal is to help as many elderly residents as possible to remain in their homes by improving their comfort and safety.

Costs of materials and labor will be paid for by the homeowner, but low-income clients may be eligible for partial reimbursement through their neighborhood rehabilitation corporation.

For information on this pilot project and the availability of service, call or write Ed Ayres, COA, 51 Inman St., Cambridge, MA 02138; tel: 498-9039.

Cemetery sets talk series

The newly formed Friends of Mount Auburn of Mount Auburn Cemetery in Cambridge and Watertown, is sponsoring two lectures in the upcoming weeks.

On Thursday, February 27 at 12 noon, Gary Roberts of the New England Historical Genealogical Society will speak on "An Introduction to Genealogical Research: How to do it and what you can expect to find." He'll cover some of the fascinating historical family connections in New England, and learn the "how-to's" of tracing your own family tree.

On Thursday, March 6, Deirdre Morris of the Mid-Cambridge Community Gardeners will speak on her research on "The Life or Horticulturist Charles Mason Hovey, (1810-1887)," also at 12 noon. Learn about the contributions of this little-known developer of the Hovey Strawberry, the first named variety of any fruit produced by plant breeding. Hovey was also the long-time editor of "The Magazine of Horticulture, Botany and All Useful Discoveries and Improvements in Rural Affairs," the first American horticultural magazine in America. Hovey is buried in Mount Auburn Cemetery on the corner of Mound and Spruce avenues.

The lectures will take place in Story Chapel, adjacent to the main office, and are free of charge. The programs will last approximately 50 minutes so bring your lunch, coffee and desert will be provided. Call 547-7105 for your reservation, or stop by the office at 580 Mount Auburn St., Cambridge.

For more information about the Friends of Mount Auburn and other programs, tours and lectures scheduled for the spring, contact Eden F. Sizemore, program director, Mount Auburn Cemetery.

Red Cross offers course on nutrition

The American Red Cross offers Better Eating for Better Health as a course for anyone who has wondered "What should I eat?" and wants to learn about food, health, and the diet that's right for you.

The courses will teach participants how to understand the information on food labels, how to evaluate food additives, to consider the relationship between diet and disease, and to think about vitamins, minerals, and other nutrients in your food.

Classes will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, from March 11, 27, 6 to 8 p.m., at the Red Cross Chapter House, 9 Waterhouse St. The course instructor is Mary Ellen Nugent, RN. The course is conducted in six two-hour sessions and is worth 14.4 contact hours. The pre-registration fee of $15 includes all materials and there is free parking at the facility.

For more information and to register, contact the Cambridge Region Red Cross at 354-7800.

the government. Now it serves two purposes, to produce indictments a prosecutor wants and to carry on any investigation a prosecutor gets it in his head to carry on, whether or not it produces an indictment."

If the justice department is attempting to make an example out of a political activist, as some have charged, then it has picked its victim well: a single woman, head of household who needs the money she earns to survive.

She's not someone who can afford to take a stand, secure in the knowledge that the paycheck will come twice a month no matter what. Although the city has granted her a leave of absence and is holding her job open for when her ordeal is over, it is, nonetheless, an unpaid leave.

As a single, head of household, it's not money she can easily do without.

"I have outstanding legal fees. I've had several lawyers. I stopped working. You still have to pay rent, light, gas, phone bills. It's a real hardship."

"The defense committee is trying to do fundraising," she says.

And the experience has extracted an emotional toll as well.

Hill's son, Kevin says that "for any family, it's a traumatic experience being charged and mishandled by your own government. Luckily, my family is strong enough to deal with this. A lot of families aren't strong enough."

Prison has also meant postponing a return to college for her son Kevin.

Meanwhile, Hill is in prison, waiting for the grumbles motion to bear fruit or the grand jury term to end. But you can be sure she's not just sitting. She's educating, passing out pamphlets about her case to other prisoners. Perhaps the most tolerable aspect of her prison sentence is that she's not isolated.

While she is confined to her cell at times — and has in the course of her six-month imprisonment spent eight or nine days in solitary confinement — "because of my month" — for most of the day she has free movement on the floor.

But she is in prison, eating prison food, despite the fact that she is a vegetarian and needs a special diet because of a medical condition.

She is breathing prison air, except for those twice-weekly occasions when the prisoners are allowed up on the roof to breathe pure downtown Manhattan air. "I can smell Chinese food," she says.

In prison, missing the precious early months of her grandson's life — he'll soon be two. And she missed the last days of her mother-in-law's life, not allowed out for the funeral when she died suddenly in December. "It has to be a close relative," she was told.

"I'll probably be involved in grand jury education," she says, thinking ahead to resuming her life outside prison. She says she wants to "educate people in how the system works and how it can oppress people

Articulture kids to stage 'Puppet Logic'

The Articulture Youth Players will present their winter production, "Puppet Logic," at the Cambridge Multicultural Arts Center in East Cambridge on February 28 and March 1 at 8 pm and March 2 at 3 pm.

The original musical is a collaboration of three artists and six local students who have been working together since October improvising scenes, learning songs and dances, and creating puppets for the show.

According to Lynn Schiel, the coordinator of this Articulture production, the theme of the show, "Newspapers," developed as the kids and adults spent rehearsal time discussing current news articles and their effect on the public and on kids in particular. "Every week, someone would bring in a news clipping to rehearsal, and we'd discuss what impact that story was having on the people in it, on the people who read about it and on ourselves," said Schiel.

In the play, kids and puppets interact with newspapers to ask such questions as: Where does news come from? Who is responsible for releasing certain news stories, and when?

CRLS students win art awards

Nine young artists from Cambridge Rindge and Latin School were recently honored in the regional competition of the Boston Globe Scholastic Art Awards program.

Gold Key awards, enabling students to go on to compete at the state level, were awarded to Daniel Owusu, Greg Edwards, Celia Connaire, Jeremy Walsh, Yung Tang Chan, Kaarna Roberts and Arwen Staros-Sheppard.

Honorable mention awards went to Owusu, Victor Garcia and Ji-Ah Park.

And, how can kids use the news to learn to make a difference in the world?

"Puppet Logic" features the choreography of Glenda Medeiros with the rock music of composer Patrick Daugherty, and a cast of local fifth through eighth graders including Daniel Thompson, Cathleen Warren, Meghan and Kate McLaughlin, Erika Baily, and Imani Perry. Says Schiel, "The kids had to be very dedicated to spend two days a week after school in rehearsal for so many months, and they really have been."

"Puppet Logic" culminates the winter/spring portion of the Articulture Youth Performing Arts Training Project in which local youth are provided with acting, dance and vocal training. This program, now in its twelfth year, has provided over 300 youth with performing arts training and has produced over 20 original productions.

Tickets for "Puppet Logic" are $4 for adults and $2 for students and seniors. For more information or reservations, call the Center's Box Office at 577-1400. Tickets are also available through Bostix.

NO STRINGS—Cambridge kids rehearse "Puppet Logic," an original musical about kids, newspapers, and world events to be presented at the Cambridge Multicultural Arts Center. The Articulture program offers training in choreography, acting, and music to area kids and is now in its thirteenth year. Tickets: $4 and $2. For more information, call 577-1400. From the left, bottom row, are Cathleen Warren, composer Patrick Daugherty and Erika Baily. In the top row are Daniel Thompson, choreographer Glenda Medeiros, and Imani Perry. (Photo by Lynn Schiel)

SCHOOL VACATION ACTIVITIES—The Department of Human Service Programs will again sponsor activities for children and their parents during the February school vacation. This year's events will include African craft workshop at the King School on Wednesday, February 19; roller skating at the Wallex Rink in Waltham on Thursday morning, February 20; and a family trip to Disney on Ice at the Boston Garden Friday afternoon, February 21. To register, contact your Community School Office, 498-9037.

PLANNING BOARD

CITY HALL ANNEX, 57 INMAN STREET, CAMBRIDGE 02139

March 19, 1986

TO: The Honorable, The City Council

SUBJECT: City Council Zoning Petition - Gore, Cambridge, Lambert and Seventh Streets

Business A to Business A-1

Findings:

1. Persons testifying at the public hearing indicated that they had no major objections to the housing density allowed in the current zone as it is reflected in a housing proposal currently proposed and undergoing review and comment by the neighborhood. It was indicated that the petition was intended to provide leverage for the community to gain linkage payments or lower cost housing for the community from a development otherwise permitted by right. As important as a wide range of housing availability is for Cambridge, the Planning Board does not consider this an appropriate justification for rezoning a specific parcel of land.
2. There is some merit to limiting development behind Cambridge Street to residential use as is the case everywhere with the exception of this block. The typical pattern is a 100 foot deep Business A District along Cambridge Street with a Residence C-1 District beyond that to Gore Street. Only in this block does the commercial zoning extend all the way to Gore Street.
3. However, given the unique size of the block and the parcels within it and the intense housing and commercial uses surrounding it a Residence C-2 density may be appropriate despite the prevailing Residence C-1 District elsewhere in East Cambridge. The height, density and bulk of a Residence C-2 building are easily accommodated on the large lots prevalent in this block.
4. The proposed rezoning would retain commercial uses along Gore Street but would significantly reduce the housing density (to Residence C-1). The result would likely be to encourage commercial reuse of the vacant land in the block that would generate many more negative impacts (traffic, noise, etc.) than would the more desirable housing use that is given an incentive under the existing Business A designation (housing can be build to a Residence C-2 density).

Public Hearing

Members of the East Cambridge community were present at the public hearing held on February 4, 1986. Representatives of the Awdeh Corporation, proposing a housing development on the affected block, were also present to outline their development proposal. While the Planning Board made it clear that the specific development proposal was not the subject of the hearing, it did serve to illustrate the scale of housing development permitted by right under the current zoning on the site. In general members of the community indicated no fundamental objection to the development proposed with the exception of the demand that more parking be provided. Other persons at the hearing indicated that the purpose of the petition was to afford an opportunity to the community to discuss linkage and/or provision of low cost housing in the development which, without the petition, would be permitted by right.

Recommendation:

The Planning Board recommends denial of the petition.

Dear Sir:

The undersigned, owner of the property at 581-597 Cambridge Street, 2-18 Lambert Street, and 172-174 Gore Street, and Lot No. 85 on Plat No. 35 on Gore Street, Cambridge, containing 72,000 square feet of land, which is included in the proposal to change the zoning as encompassed in the above-captioned petition, has reviewed the amendments to the captioned petition as filed previously with the City Clerk and does hereby protest the proposed amendments pursuant to Massachusetts General Laws, Chapter 40A Section 5, as amended, for the reasons, among others, that such change would:

Significantly and impermissibly impair and restrict the use of the land for proper purposes without sufficient planning justification; and violates Massachusetts General Laws Chapter 40A, Section 4, as amended, by creating a zoning district within which there are not uniform requirements for each class or kind of structures or use as permitted.

Re: The Awdeh Corporation's movement to maintain current zoning at their proposed development site on Cambridge St. and Gore.

Dear Members of the Cambridge Ordinance Committee;

At the February 25th meeting of the East Cambridge Stabilization Committee, the neighbors present voted regarding the above mentioned subject. It was the vote of the committee to support Awdeh's movement to maintain current zoning with one provision of great concern. Since parking congestion is already a problem in the neighborhood, the Awdeh Corporation should revise its development plan to include additional on site parking spaces. The committee feels that the minimal number of spaces per unit in a development of this size should be 1.5. The present proposed number of 1 space per unit makes no provision for a second car or for visitor parking.

Please give careful attention to this provision, as its neglect could lead to considerable difficulties in the future for East Cambridge residents. Thank you.

Respectfully yours,
