PROCLAMATION

Whereas The Cambridge Multicultural Arts Center has created a splendid new civic and cultural facility for theater, concerts, exhibitions, workshops and cultural education programs serving the residents of Cambridge and the general public, and

Whereas In doing so, the Cambridge Multicultural Arts Center has preserved Middlesex County's oldest public buildings and one of the nation's most worthy historic landmarks, for public programs, and

Whereas This Center will celebrate the world's cultural heritages, and foster cultural awareness and encourage appreciation for all people, of all ages, and backgrounds, and

Whereas The Arts Center will assist civic, community and arts groups to present their own programs as well as showcase emerging and accomplished artists in the performing, visual and media arts, and

Whereas This new cultural institution represents a crowning achievement of public and private cooperation to revitalize the East Cambridge riverfront while supporting this old and proud neighborhood,

Now Therefore, I Leonard Russell, as Mayor of Cambridge, do hereby proclaim Thursday, April 11, 1985 as Cambridge Multicultural Arts Center day in the City of Cambridge, and invite all to salute and support this excellent new addition to the cultural life of our city.
