Mayor Alfred E. Vellucci
Cambridge City Hall
795 Massachusetts Avenue
Cambridge, Massachusetts 02139

Dear Mayor Vellucci:

On April 10, the Cambridge Committee for Responsible Research wrote to you concerning my earlier letter on behalf of C.U.R.E. urging you to protect important animal research efforts in the City of Cambridge. I am writing to correct several errors of fact in their response and am enclosing separately several cards in support of animal research from Cambridge citizens. I would also like to bring your attention to the fact that, between January 1988 and February 1989 the Mayor's Blue Ribbon Committee held 36 meetings, met with the animal care committees of 13 institutions, interviewed approximately 100 persons, and observed approximately 3,000 animals. No abuse of research animals was found and the quality of animal care was observed to be high.

1) The CCRR states that less than 5% of research animals in Cambridge have any type of government inspection. This is false.

Perhaps the CCRR made this error because more than 95% of animals used in research in Cambridge are rats and mice which are not subject to inspection by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. However, they are regulated and inspected by other federal agencies and the state. For example, at Harvard, MIT and Arthur D. Little, all species of animals are subject to inspection by the state. In addition, care and treatment of all species, including rats and mice, are regulated by the NIH, the EPA and the FDA, which do make inspections of animal facilities.

2) CCRR implies that primates used in research are being housed contrary to federal requirements. This is false.

All primates used in research are housed in accordance with current federal standards. Dr. Wiles, a veterinarian, stated in his report to you, "The animals (primates) were healthy appearing, bright, alert and active. They were not hyperactive and did not elicit behavior traits that would reflect emotional or physical stress or pain." "My evaluation of the primates viewed is that there was no evidence or suggestion of cruelty or abuse. My evaluation of all the animals visited and viewed is that there was not evidence of stressful conditions that suggest cruelty or abuse."

3) The CCRR has accused the institutions of refusing to submit reports to the City. This is false.

The institutions have submitted to the City detailed information on the use of animals in research required under federal and state law. In addition, all research proposals which receive federal funding are a matter of public record. Moreover, the Mayor's Blue Ribbon Committee inspected the animal research laboratories in Cambridge and found no abuse.

4) CCRR has accused the institutions of inhumane methods of euthanasia of research animals. This is false.

All methods of euthanasia in Cambridge laboratories are in accordance with federal and state law. Moreover, they also conform to the high standards of the American Veterinary Medical Association which were developed by a panel of veterinary experts and a representative of the American Humane Association.

5) The CCRR has stated that its goals are "modest and reasonable."

Its founder and President was formerly the President of CEASE and is now a member of the Board of the New England Antivivisection Society, both of which are animal rights groups which have a goal of eliminating all use of animals in research. He has stated that "animal research is immoral."

Another member of the board has stated "There is some progress that some of us are willing to forgo or delay because it (animal research) requires too great an ethical sacrifice to achieve."

Also, CCRR chose to appoint a person philosophically opposed to all animal research as their representative on the Blue Ribbon Committee.

The CCRR has proposed ordinances which are consistent with the national animal rights agenda: to make animal research too expensive; to give animal rights groups the power to harass researchers and institutions in the media and in the courts; and to give them the authority to stop research with which they disagree.

Although the report of the Blue Ribbon Committee makes it plain that further regulation is not necessary to ensure humane care of research animals in Cambridge, the Council may wish to provide assurances to the public that this is indeed the case. I would like to submit the attached ordinance for your consideration. This proposed ordinance would ensure that all laboratory animals in Cambridge are subject to the strict federal standards of the National Institutes of Health including community participation in institutional animal care committees.

It would provide for oversight and inspections by the chief City health officer. And it would provide for an ongoing public education program to explain the purposes and methods of laboratory animal research.

This proposed ordinance would provide local oversight using existing city agencies of the important animal research being conducted in Cambridge and would ensure that the current high standards of laboratory animal care continue.

The report of the Blue Ribbon Committee shows that Cambridge institutions are doing humane animal research. The report does not describe the importance of the research nor the loss to medical progress and society that would occur if the animal rights movement were to succeed in their goal of hampering and eventually eliminating animal research. I hope that each of you will continue to keep in mind, as you have in the past, how terribly important it is to all of us to allow research using animals to continue without crippling restraints and without permitting those philosophically opposed to animal research to control what research is done in Cambridge.

Sincerely,

David G. Nathan, M.D.

AN ORDINANCE

In amendment to an Ordinance formerly entitled "The General Ordinances of the City of Cambridge" as revised in 1972 and now designated as "The Code of the City of Cambridge".

RECEIVED BY CITY CLERK
1989 JUN -2 AM 10:31
CAMBRIDGE MA

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Cambridge as follows:

Chaper Eleven entitled "Health, Hospitals and Housing" is hereby amended by inserting the following articles:-

Article IV

The Care and Use of Laboratory Animals in the City of Cambridge

Section 11-30 DEFINITIONS

In the context of this Ordinance the following definitions are adopted:

- (a) An animal is any vertebrate nonhuman sentient being.
- (b) An experiment is any procedure conducted by a research insitution on a live animal.
- (c) A research institution is any institution operating in the City of Cambridge by the United States or by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts or of a political sub-division thereof, or any school or college of medicine, public health, dentistry, pharmacy, veterinary medicine, or agricultural, medical, biological corporation, hospital or other educational or scientific establishment within the Commonwealth of Massachusetts which in connection with any of its activities investigates or gives instruction concerning the structure and function of living organisms or the causes, prevention, control or cure of diseases or abnormal conditions of human beings or animals.

Section 11-31. Guidelines for Animal Experimentation

Because progress in medical research depends upon the use of animals in research and because existing federal and state regulations ensure that research animals are treated humanely, all experiments on animals in the City of Cambridge shall be undertaken in conformity with the Guide for the Care and Use of Laboratory Animals, NIH Pub. No. 85-23, 1985 edition or succeeding revised editions (the Guide), the Public Health Service Policy on Humane Care and Use of Laboratory Animals (September, 1986, and as amended from time to time) (the PHS policy), and applicable statutes and regulations of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and ordinances and regulations of the City of Cambridge.

Section 11-32 Animal Care Committee

All research institutions shall have an institutional Animal Care and Use Committees (the "Animal Care Committee" or "Committee"). As mandated by federal law, the Chief Executive Officer of each research institution shall appoint at least one member to the Committee who is unaffiliated with the institution and will represent the community interest.

Section 11-33 The Commissioner of Health and Hospitals

The Commissioner of Health and Hospitals, at least once annually, shall conduct an inspection of each research institution's laboratory animal facilities. At least once annually, the Commissioner shall meet with the Chairman of each Animal Care Committee and the community member of that committee to discuss the research activities during that period since the previous meeting. The Commissioner shall be responsible for receiving and investigating complaints which relate to compliance with applicable federal and state regulations.

Section 11-34 Educational Programs

The research institutions shall work with the Commissioner and with science teachers in the schools to develop educational programs which increase public understanding of animal research and the medical benefits which accrue from it and to improve students' basic understanding of modern biology and methods of experimentation.

Section 11-35 Reports

Institutions shall make available to the Commissioner a copy of all reports on animal care and use required to be submitted to federal or state governments.

Section 11-37 Severability

If any section, sub-section, clause, phrase or portion of this Article is for any reason held invalid or unconstitutional by any Court of competent jurisdiction, such portion shall be deemed a separate, distinct and independent provision, and such holding shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions thereof.

Comm. from Joseph E. Connarton, City Clerk, transmitting a comm. addressed to the Council from David G. Nathan, M.D., Chairman, CURE, correcting several stated errors Re: lab research on animals & transmitting for the consideration of the Council a proposed amendment to the General Ordinances in Chapter 11, entitled "Health, Hospitals and Housing" by inserting an Article IV entitled "The Care and Use of Laboratory Animals in the City of Cambridge". (Said comm. also transmits 120 card-form comm.'s from CURE members urging the Council not to pass any additional regulations which would impede research utilizing animals).
