Dear Kathy,

As a former colleague, I wanted to take the time to personally share with you this announcement of the formation of Training Innovations, Inc. As I have taken time over the last year to talk with many people, and to consider my next steps, it became evident that my work in employment and training was of most interest to me.

Of course, I have worked with you and many others to help develop and implement solid workforce development policies in the City of Cambridge. For my part I am proud to have been a part of such efforts, and to have worked with you and others in the development of such policies. Nothing, professionally has been as gratifying for me in recent years, as seeing young people who went through the Work Force program with the Cambridge Housing Authority in the 1980's now being successfully employed in Cambridge businesses and institutions. As a City leader, I'm assured you share the joys of these successes.

As you know workforce development is a major topic of discussion, as matters such as Welfare-to-Work, School-to-Work, and public-private partnerships are some of the leading issues of the day. I envision that Training Innovations, Inc. will play an active role in helping to develop and implement programs that will be effective in providing training to young people, while meeting the needs of employers.

Over the past seventeen years much of my professional commitment to young people has been based in Cambridge. As my home and a city that I care deeply about, I am committed to working with Cambridge entities and organizations to continue to serve our city's young people. I also know that on occasion my work will take me outside of our great City. In either case, I look forward to hearing your thoughts, staying in touch with you, and wherever possible working on matters of mutual interest.

Let me conclude by saying it means a lot to me to write this letter to you. It means a lot due to the work that we have put in together, and due to the opportunities and challenges that lay ahead for young people in our world. I value the time that we have worked together. I look forward to sustained and yet new relationships. Thank you for taking the time to read this letter, I look forward to talking with you sometime soon.

Sincerely,

Jonathan
