To Whom it May Concern:

The Dunster House Committee in conjunction with Harvard Ecology Action and the other house committees, is sponsoring a "Spring Cleaning Day" to clean up the Harvard Square, Cambridge Commons, and river areas in Cambridge. The clean up is scheduled for Saturday, April 29, from ten to four. The object of the clean up is two fold. One is to improve the quality of our living environment. The second is to do something for the Cambridge community in which we study and live, but take all too much for granted.

The clean up will be organized by house. Each house will be given a specific sector to clean up so that all areas will be covered. Prizes will be awarded in various categories including a house award for the most trash collected. The house committees are being asked to coordinate outdoor barbecues to help promote a spirited atmosphere conducive to this event.

The sponsors hope that this day will be successful enough to warrant the name, "First Annual Spring Cleaning".
