

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

David Sheehan

134 Garden St., #2 Cambridge MA 02138

Ann Miller

110 Oxford Rd. Woburn MA 01801

John J. Stout

122 Hancock Street Cambridge 02139

Eugene T. Stout

Watertown, MA

Al Bell

18 Seminary St, Charlestown

Ann Mary

20 IMRIE RD. ALLSTON 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Eneida Rosado	Cambridge MA
J. Schneiderman	Belmont, MA
A. Garcia	Cambridge MA
R. Arsenault	Cambridge MA
M. Moon	Arlington, MA
Caitlin Murray	Arlington MA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Ann K. Winkler

12 McCue Rd. Winstock, Ma.

Mary Louise Pust

8 Chauncy St. Cambridge, Ma 02138

Penny Wilson

44 Mc Kelley St " "

Mildred Bradley

29 Concord Ave. Cambridge 02138

50th St. HESSAS

5 Haskell St, " "

Christine Gabree

6 Appian Way, Camb 02138

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Chris Pollari

University Lutheran Church

Reena Meyer

University Lutheran Church, Cambridge ^{resident}

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Isador Rauh	103 Spring St
Ken Spencer	34 Mt Auburn St. Cambridge 02138
Percy Scott	8 Church St - Boston MA 02124
Paul Keaty	47 Ellery St. Cambridge, MA 02138
(W)	25 Belmont St Som MA 02143
Nick Odome	19 BRICK RD, #7 MANSFIELD, MA
Grace Turok	276 Walden St, Cambridge MA 02138
Robert Campbell	39 INMAN ST Camb, MA 02139
Benjamin	18 Sparks St Camb MA
John H. Schmidt	20 Kalthoff Dr. Andover, MA 01810
Christine Hickey	7 Arlington #4 Cambridge 02140
Richard Hagan	44 Central Ave Hyde Park
Andrew Harpending	102 Holworthy St. Cambridge 02138
Shimon Heller	118 fairweather. Cambridge 02138
Paul Goodwin	58 Lake View Ave Camb 02138
Cecilia Gordon	22 Irving St. Arlington MA 02174
Alvin L. Lyon	16 PLYMOUTH AVE BELMONT, MA
Paul J. Lyons	5 Bridgefield St Apt 1 Cambridge 02140
Bob Flannery	164 Cushing St Cambridge 02138

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIAN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Robert J. Bell

31 Washburn Ave #3, Cambridge

Wilbur E. Jackson

15 DARTMOUTH ST. #2 Somerville, MA.

Tom J. Hannan

137 Highland Ave Somerville, MA.

Patricia K. Bond

54 Howard St. Cambridge, MA 02139

R. L. ...

101 Princeton Rd. Somerville, MA.

James Fayne

240 Western Ave

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

P.O. Box 1209, Allston, MA 02134

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Farah Ravanbakhsh	Brazilian Immigrant Center P.O. Box 1209 ALLSTON, MA 02134, Camb resident
Thaisto F. de Rocha	BRAZILIAN IMMIGRANT CENTER P.O. Box 1209 ALLSTON - MA 02134
Robson Gourlant	Brazilian Immigrant Center P.O. Box 1209 ALLSTON MA 02134
Meirivone F. Rosa	BRAZILIAN IMMIGRANT CENTER P.O. Box 1209 ALLSTON MA 02134
Walter Abreu Vieira	Brazilian Immigrant Center P.O. Box 1209 Allston MA 02134

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

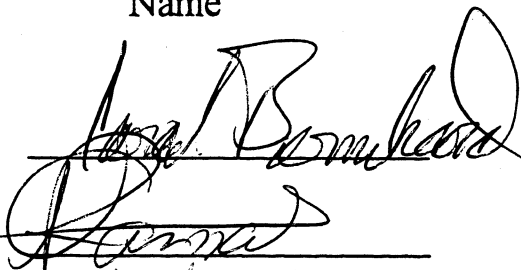

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

92 Marion St #1, Somerville

375 Prospect St. Cambridge

97 Allston St. CamB

16 Grove St. Dorch.

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

M. Talaga	9 Prospect Hill, Somerville MA
Betsy C. Boay	133 Sunnyside Ave. Arlington MA
Richard H Stone	20 Highland Ave, Camb 02139
Ang Summy	43 Willow Ave Somerville 02144
My [unclear]	24 Avon Hill Cambridge
Core E. Centure	43 WILLOW AVE. SOMERVILLE
	02144

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Richard Fenton

59 BISHOP ALLEN DR #1A CAMB. 02139

Tom Fitch

15 Lambert St. 1012 Camb 02141

Dan Fitch

25 Bennett St Brighton MA 02135

J. Zinker

6 Hastings Sq. Cambridge 02139

L Hamitch

Box 9447 Cornell College

C Carter

Box 3172 00320

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Roman Achew	100 H's Pl Boston
Malette Rakh	HUCTW
PR Williams Jones	468 Green St Cambridge MA 02139
John Smith	117 Green St Cambridge
John Siegel	121 Garden St Cambridge
Kathleen Melvin	P.O. Box 1285 Cambridge, MA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Marion Rahmouni	159 Harvard St. Camb. 02139
Julie O'Leary	723 Main St. Melford, MA
Arling Shuman	113 Columbia Camb. MA
Michael Gull	72 A Inman St. Camb. MA 02137
Nellie Ruter	20 Portsmouth, Camb. MA 02141
Timothy

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

David G. ...	21 Fayette St. Cambridge MA
Frank Roberts	5 King Place, Cambridge MA
Eric ...	422 Franklin St, Cambridge MA
... ..	430 Franklin St Cambridge MA
... ..	41 99 Marion St. Somerville
Edmond Wagner	33 Dickinson St. Somerville

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Claudia Maffett	CLAUDIA MAFFETT 24 Tremont St. Camb.
James B. Galt	1228 CAMB. ST #4 CAMB. 02139
James King	43 Oak St Medford MA 02155
John Krough	43 Oakland St Medford MA 02155
Lawrence Blum	149 Prospect St, Camb 02139
Ally	871 Cambridge St Camb MA 02141

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Sumner Lee	BROADWAY, CAMB. 02139
Phoebe Knopf	Boston, MA 02215
Junnie Williams	28 BARKS ST CAMB 02138
Philip Abrams	1446 Camb. St. Camb 02139
E. P. Lee	50 Crampin Way Dorchester MA 02121
Loren Fogley	50 Crampin Way Dorchester, MA 02125
Andy Lee	100 Hurlock St Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

James Cote	Widgery St. Care
JAMES COTE	8 DOUGLASS ST. #2F
Mary Wheel	8 Brastow Ave.
Reuben Flynn	172 Norfolk St #8
George Moseley	13 Perry St., Cambridge
Patricia Parker	19 Kenwood St Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

ST Nguyen	MIT
Islander Park Lee	287 Airmont St Camb.
Valerie Wilson	23 Ironville St (Camb)
Kenneth H. Johnson	240 Acacia St
Ed Wilson	32 Essex St #3 02139
Colton	7 Vermont

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Julia Riseman

6 Holly Ave Cambridge MA

J. H. ...

589 Norfolk St Mattapan

James Michaels

30 Walcott Rd Arlington MA

Hattie Byers

320 B Harvard St

Dr. George Eastman

83 Inman St. CAMBRIDGE

MR ...

229 Harvard St #2 Cam

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Chris Vance

Lesley College 29 Everett St. Cambridge

AEFF P.O. Box 2118 Cambridge MA 02238

255 POWDERHOUSE BLVD. SOMERVILLE MA 02144

177 CENTRAL ST.

SOMERVILLE, MA 02145

Wadi Hatabi

5 Roberts, Cambridge MA 02138

177 Loderivue Ave. Camb. MA 02138

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Jeffrey Thomas

1 Kelly Rd., Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

N. M. Hobden

705 RIVER ST CAMB.

John Ward

91 Harvard CAMB

George M. M.

Liz Cannon

69 Saint Rose St.

John HARRIS

4 ST Paul ST

Lenore Repasz

24 Hampstead Rd, Jamaica Plain

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

ALEXIS PEREZ

CAMBRIDGE MA 02139

William Young

Cambridge Mass 02139

John Gons

Cambridge 02139

Maria Silvestri

Cambridge 02139

Richard Gray

Cambridge 02139

Maria Benitez

5 Huntington Ave Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Minerva

Somerville, MA

Francis R.

Cambridge MA

John Ward

NELROSE, MASS.

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

LEBRETON Nathalie

LE Chuan

Rail Chuan

Abdu Yilang

116 Rue Principale 57430 Wilbroad FRANCE.

Montreal, CANADA

49 Buckingham Rd. Wollaston MA 02125

105 Church St. Winchester MA 01890

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Debra Friedman	108 Chestnut St. Camb. 02129
Joel Wolfe	8 Plympton St. Camb 02138
Alyce Hyatt	7650 OR 174 Summit
ROSALIE CHRISTIANA	1615 MASSA
Ben Di Giorgio	259 VINE ST. EVERET
Robert B. Chant	296 Water Ave. Cambridge 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

JAMES D'ENTREMONT

296 WESTERN AVE. CAMB. MA 02139

Declan McCullagh

4090 Forbes Ave, Pittsburgh PA 15213

Seth Finkelstein

81 Tremont Street Camb MA 02139

Jane J. Bradley

9 Mead Ridge - Gdgsfield CT 06 877

Timothy

1222 Harvard Yard Mail Center Camb. MA

Ben Moody

22 Duval St. Brighton MA

02138 782

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

John A. Fontalis	31 Pleasant St Cambridge
Susana Castillo	80 Portman Park Cam MA 02138
Miguel Gisib	24 Rindgefield St CAMB. MA 02140
Sandra Cofranough	656 E 8th St S. Boston
Kenneth G Barbeau	227 Coolidge Ave, Watertown 02172
Ralph DeGregorio	926 Man Ave #4 Arlington 02174

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

[Signature]

47 Merch. Rd.

Dana Gilbert

Harvard Medical School

Christy Allen

Harvard Law School

Sandra Escobar

6 Porter Rd Cambridge MA 02140.

Jimmy LaBourker

155 RICHDALE AVE CAMB. MA 02141

Charles Thompson

18 Lindglen Sq

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Myron Harris

U9M 2320

Miss Farrell

District 925, SEIU

Jill Havens

District 925, SEIU

Krista Stottman

310 Walter Terr. Somerville, MA 02145

Laurie Swenson

26 Capen St., Melton MA 02186

Adam Brown

1UE Local 201

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Ally Leary	UAW Local 2324, V.P. 650 Beacon St Boston.
Ann Weatherhead	OPEIU Local 6 V.P.
LouAnne Zawodny	OPEIU - #6
Ilene M. Kandel	OPEIU 6
Celia Wislo	SEIU Local 285
Lisbeth McLeander	USWA 9267

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Justin Whittier

204 Holden Green Apt F Cambridge MA

David Duggan

820 Massachusetts Ave. #11955

Diana Tapp

238 Hennway St #10 Boston 02116

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Natalie Rio

David P. Kennel

Bill Falsetano

Lislie O'Brien

Cyrus Grek

Rachel E. Happer

34 Chapel Hill, S. Hadley MA 01075

45 Cherry St. Somerville, MA. 02144

" " " "

4 GARDEN ST CAMB

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Mary Ellen Hannan

261 Pheasant Ave, Allington

Scott Hale

85 Westland Ave., Boston 02115

* Ray, [Signature]

P.O. Box 391721 Cambridge MA. 02139

Martin [Signature]

4422 LATIN WAY 4 OF 5 U.

Kathryn Martin

99 Galen St, Weymouth, MA 02172

Dan [Signature]

58 Cedar Rd Belmont MA 02178

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Joe Curry
Jim Bradford
Becky Lafond
Letty A. Stein
Jonathan Shulman
Beth Buck

288 Harvard St. Cambridge
21 Mount Vernon St. Brighton, MA
92 Waterhouse Rd.

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Andrew M. Scott

Suzanne Kelly

Mary Simmons

J. Allen

Laurie Shecht

HU CTW member

Jim Blair

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Robert Smith

Cambridge, Mass 0238

Ol Azar

Woburn MA

Ala H. Melman

469 Whitney Ave #5 New Haven CT

James Giller

469 Whitney Ave New Haven CT

Metha K. Knudsen

68 Claflin St. Belmont 02178

Timothy W. Brown

72 Commonwealth Ave. Boston, MA 02116

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Charles K. Burr

135 Broadway Everett, MA

D. Allen

35 Cushing St Cambridge MA 02138

DANIEL JOSEPH

20 HIGHLAND RD. SOMERVILLE, MA 02144

Nick Snow

292 Sidney St. Cambridge

John J. Sullivan

92 Beacon St - Boston, MA 02115

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only).

King Mary

14 Monson Ave - Faneuil MA.

Marion Roelants

22 Chardon Rd. Medford MA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

JAMES KENNEDY	122 WILMISSET ST. Cambridge, MA 02150
Shola Friedensohn	31 Lawrence St. Camb. MA 02139
Jane Connerney	7 Temple St. #434 CAMB. MA. 02139
Judith Chan	143 Albany St. Camb., MA 02139
Nora Harrington	27 Amory St., Camb., MA 02139
Yanick Sato	1121 W Newton College MA 02466

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Lorraine E. Murphy

Lin R

21 Beacon St. Somerville

Paul R

John P. 11/21/21

305 Memorial Drive

Karen E. Epsom

89 Partridge Ave.

Ivan Fitzgerald

28 Inman, Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Murales Boris

580 MASS AVE APT 13 CAMB, MA 02139

Jonathan Millman

891 Mass Ave Apt 4 Camb MA 02139

Ambrosio Flores

9 Watson St Cambridge MA 02139

Mr. Goldman

16 Fenwick St Camb, Mass 02139

Gene McCullough

8 Sargent St Roxbury Ma 02110

Paul Rusk

10 Temple Place Boston 02111

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

C Gibbon

Bcy 3575 Cam College

Ann McGrath

Marshall Pl Chastown

Joe Berni

51 Jan St Cambridge MA

Alice Bailey

103 Blake St Weston Ma

R. Maria Grady

7 TEMPLE ST. #500 Cambridge 0213

Ronnie Gardis

UAW Local 2324

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Steve Williams	442 RIVER ST MATTAPOI
Rich May	143 Albany St., Cambridge
John Breen	11 alba St North End
Jim B	290 Mass Ave -
Sally Vardon	196 Hamilton St Cambridge
David Collins	Pine Street 1 pm, South End,

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

D. Stetson

32 Sheridan St. #2, Jamaica Plain, MA 02130

Barbara Brown

86 Harvard St, Cambridge, MA 02140

Cathleen Higgins

345 Norfolk St. #3F, Camb. MA 02139

Harold Brown

336 Western Ave Camb.

John Stetson

20 Grove St. Boston

Renee O'Brien

64 Prospect St. Apt #1 Cambr. 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Anthony Ricciardi	523 Cambridge St Cambridge, Mass 02141
Michael Greer	TUfts Med 74 Glenwood St #2, Malden MA 02148
Henrietta Weissinger	10 Temple Pl, #508, Boston 02111
Susan K. Nasser	6 Poplar Road Cambridge 02138
Tom Varens	69 Elm St. Cambridge 02139
Shula Minton	40 The Seaway Boston, Ma.
Idun Kaur	700 Comm Ave Boston 02215

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Joey M. Fox

Wellesley College

Leonard Allen

Retired -

Martin Blatt

59 Sudley St. Cambridge 02140

Rachel Conley

Redwing Book Co.

Germaine Fabary

Arlington Ave

Debbie L. Madolay

84 Franklin St. #3 Allston MA 02134

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Judy E. Esposito	Museum of Science - Boston
Nichole A. Warner	20 Marie Ave, Cambridge, MA 02139
Craig Zuppi	53 Paul Gore St. J.P. Ma 02130
Donald E. Garner	160 Allston St. Cambridge MA 02139
Barbara Jaggard	2 Cottage Ct Cambridge 02139
CU	295 Harvard Street Cambridge 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Margaret O'Connor

19 Kenwood St Cambridge

Lisa Brady

POB 8000, Ashburnham, MA 01430

Clifford A. Tinsley

29 Essex St, Cambridge, MA 02138

Ben White

23 Quincy St Somerville, MA

MARK LABOSIER

91AMES WAY Dorchester MA 02124

Dan Hachey

45 Lake Shore Dr., Weymouth MA 01978

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

H.K. McAllister

23 Post St Snowville 02147

Ray Trimmer

" " " "

D. Reid

24 JAMICA WAY 02302

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

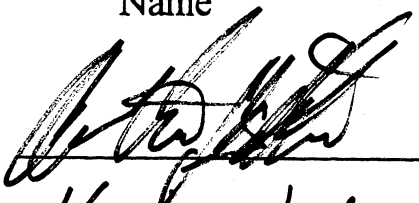

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Kevin M. Lehan

Beth Paster

Jim Paul

Mary O'Malley

Gary Tyler

19 Gould Ave, Malden MA 02148

36 Clifford South St MA 01772

2801 Lankford Way PA 15003

353 E Sea St #29 Quincy Mass 02169

43 Sumner St. Framingham, MA 01761

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Abraham J. de Vries	70 Cushing St. Cambridge
F.I.U.A.	12 Inman St #12 Cambridge
Margaret W. Singer	18 Hopkins Rd. Arlington
Susan M. Alden	9 Mt. St. Newton
Charles Rose	PO 321 Lexington MA
Te Mis	21 Hews St #3

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Julio Barbors

Swissotel — 19 Linden Ave Boston

—

ROBERTO LOPES

Bill Murphy

Leah's Lection

MIT

Mary Ben Mattingly

5 Ashland St. Somerville MA

Robert B. Gillin

314 BEACON ST #2 SOMERVILLE, MA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Henry M. Nunez

P.O. Box #321 Camb. Ma

Grinne Lucat

103 Elm St. #3 Somerville Ma

Alex Lopez

71 Harvard Ave #6 Allston MA

Isaiah R. R. R.

246 Highland Ave #2 Somerville MA 02144

Isaiah R. R. R.

103 Scripps St Cambridge

Isaiah R. R. R.

510 Ridge St. Fall River MA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Applegan
Douglas

21 IRVING ST SOMERVILLE
ELIOT HOUSE, 591.

Felice Kaslen

25 Front St Marblehead

Norman Farrell

16 High Street, Morris NY 13806

Alysa Smith

10 Magazine St. # 312

Jennifer Kimmey

22 Concord Av' # 9

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Paul Shady

Paul Shady

M Kennedy Phister

28 Holden Rd Beacon

TD Chmell

1085 COMM AVE #121, BOSTON

Ann Hyland

23 Belknap St Somerville, MA 02144

Joanne Dineley

163 Summer St #33 Somerville, MA 02143

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

P.R. [Signature]
for DeMerit

11 MADISON ST. 02138

Darianne L. Low

66 Kenwood H., Dorchester, 02124-2228

5 CONCORD AVE- #34, 02138

THOMAS M. POSS

349 Adams St. Boston MA 02122

PRITI PHU

42 IRVING ST. CAMBRIDGE 02139

Samuel E. DeMerit

1716 Cambridge St., #34
Cambr. 02138

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

DAVID LEWIS

ISO

Jason Kowitz for Y

350 135 Auburn St, Cambridge

Kevin Murphy

1137 Mass Ave #35 Cambridge

Ozgur Ozkurt

Student, Textile Engineer. (BU)

ANNA KUPERMAN Anna K

39 Clinton St #3 Cambridge

John O'Brien

45 Saxon St. Dec. 02125

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Susan Fitzgerald

Harvard U.

Bruce D. Burleson

Dorchester, MA

Emmanuel Nunes

Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

[Signature]

107 Amory St, Cambridge

Gil Perrotto

269 WILLIS AVE - MEDFORD

(unsubscribed)

42 Lincoln St Apt #8 Cambridge

Joel Lopez

108 COLIMIST ST

W Barre

Reyn St.

Kelly B. Babin

34 Stone Ave, Somerville (no mailing list, please)

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Felicie Brady	113 Magazine St
MATON	24 Fayette St 02129
J. W. Conner	7A WARE ST.
Frank Sullivan	16 Briscilla Ln. Melrose
Bobby Soares	277 Elm Street 02129
John Marks	1427 Camb St

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

St. N. H.

Harvard Law School

Paul Spitzer

2300 HLS Story Mail Center, Cambridge

John Fader

Harvard Law School

Neal Kaplan

Editor, Harvard Negotiation Law Review

Ada Debby

HLS

James P. Stut

HLS

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Robert F. Smith
David Smith
Zachary Drenth
Myron
Victor Owen
[Signature]

Harvard Labor Law Project
Harvard Law School
Harvard Law School
Harvard Law School
Harvard Law School
Harvard Law School

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

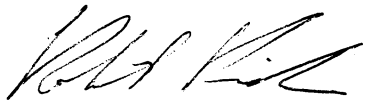

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Robert Friedman, VP

on behalf of Harvard Labor Law Project

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

~~James~~	190 Dunster M.C.
~~John~~	189 Dunster M.C.
~~John~~	322 North M.C.
~~Quanda B.~~	351 Dunster M.C.
~~Sona Jewell~~	174 Dunster M.C.
~~Ernest~~	204 Eliot MC
Matthew Mongaliny	093 Dunster Mail Center
Nyctali Loh	023 Dunster M.C.
Nyctali Loh	164 D. M.C.
Ty Shappard	230 Dunster MC
Nick Allen	41 Dunster MC
John Silber	114 Dunster MC
Darin McKeever	354 Dunster MC
Eliza Hoffman	291 Dunster MC
M. Holman	180 Dunster MC
John Wier	129 Dunster MC
Marin Jamin	188 DUNSTER MC.
Nath Linn	084 Dunster MC
Ed Linn	221 Dunster MC
Maria Colletta	41 Dimick St #2 Somerville

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Robert Feldstein

32 Aberdeen Rd, Somerville MA 02149

Butler

280 Dunster Mail Ctr.

Tim Cullen

28 Dunster M.C.

David Tygh

78 Dunster

Charlotte Klein

68 Dunster Horse Cambridge MA 02138

Danella E. Suss

329 Dunster

Ann B. Suss

009 LEVERETT

~~Chloe~~ ELEANOR ZOE KINCAID

47 INMAN 12A CAMBRIDGE MA 02130

George Shuffelton

112 Dunster Mail Ctr.

Adam Palermo

371 Dunster Mail Ctr.

Sarah Day

28 Inman #1 Camb. MA 02139-

Matthew E. Donahue

162 DUNSTER MAIL CTR.

Jefferson Packer

342 Cabot Mail Center

Jon Hooks

057 Dunster Mail Ctr.

Stewart L. King

329 Dunster Mail Ctr.

Em. Page

289 Dunster Mail Ctr.

Clare P. Pruitt

381 Dunster MC

Elizabeth Papp

211 Dunster M.C.

Ally Suss

255 " "

Chris Bassolin

140 Dunster M.C.

Eden Di

79 Dunster M.C.

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

187 Eliot House Mail Ctr

21 Adams Mail Ctr

304 Dunster M.C.

338 D. MC

244 Dunster MC

073 Dunster Mail Ctr.

224 Dunster Mail Ctr.

192 Lowell Mail Ctr.

346 Putnam Ave, Cambridge

485 Mather Mail Ctr

81 Dunster Mail Ctr.

181 Dunster Mail Ctr.

170 Dunster M.C.

280 Dunster MC

56 Fairview St, Rosl., MA, 02131

262 Leverett House,

48 Dunster Mail Center

330 Dunster Mail Center

414 Dunster Mail Ctr.

127 Dunster Mail Center

500 Dunster Mail Center

Eliot House

Adams

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

Dunster

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

W. J. Gray

293 Dunster Mail Ctr.

[Signature]

303 Dunster Mail Ctr

[Signature]

9 Smith Ave #2.

[Signature]

385 Dunster M.C.

Gweneth Lukersmith

206 DUNSTER M.C.

Febe Sada

8 Plympton #27

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Y. P. J.	Grays
John A. Rodriguez	Canaday
John Miller	Canaday Hall
Steve Henry	Quincy
Eric D. Miller	QUINCY
Michael Luper	Quincy

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Alice Ting

Lowell

Mamill Bhargava

Quincy

John L.

Quincy

Michael

Quincy

Stephanie Snyder

Quincy

Ilenna Barti

Quincy

Amy Yeager

Quincy

Angelina Zappia

Quincy

Anna Dymov

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

RICHARD ALIAMUS

1151 MASS. AVE. CAMBRIDGE.

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

W. E. Elsie Bj.

85 Mt Vermont St Somerville

Robert Perre

306 Washington St #2 Som

Reference François

145 Som Ave #5 Som.

.....

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Melany Weller

Mass Senior Center Board

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

RAY DAVES

FOOD FOR FREE, 11 INMAN ST. CAMBRIDGE

JANET MURRAY

FOOD FOR FREE, 11 INMAN ST.

MA 02139

JOSÉ A. SOARES

CEOC TENANT SERVICES, 11 INMAN ST.

Debra Ashanose

CEOC 11 INMAN ST. Cambridge MA 02139

Donna Conway

CEOC 11 INMAN ST CAMB 02139

Name

Mark Fitzgerald

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Cambridge, MA 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Eric Ashburn	Waltham MA - * I use Cambridge Hosp
Scott Smith	Dorlington, MA.
Nancy Carter	Chatham, MA - (work in Somerville)
John McKeen	DMR, Metro Boston Region
Maureen Crimmins	DMR Somerville
Joanne Sturcho	DMR Somerville

X

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Maria Kana

CACASA

Carolina Henriquez

Teatro Latino.

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Emily Storks	45 CENTRAL AVE RAVENA NY 12143
JASON DOWNS	108 COKETAN PARK
Lion Brathwaite	61 Washburn Avenue Con Br.
Myhlan Cooper	S. A. F. E.
Maura Sibberl	P. Abbey School
[Signature]	36 MONTGOMERY ST Somerville MA 02143

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Jennie Staples	39 St. Joseph St JP.
Charles Watke	Cambr. Mass 02138
Margaret Ann	16 Myrtle St, Boston 02117
Lewis Williams	12 Walden Sq #318 02140
Tarah Plante	70 Tuft St Arlington 02174
Ellen J. Sanat	18 Valentine St #3 02139

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Zeeshan Hasan

590 Putnam Ave, Cambridge MA 02139

Maurice Kibbe

34 SAXTON ST. Dorchester MA

JAM'ORTH

157 Morris Ave Cambridge MA 02138

Bennouna Ali

3 MAPLE ST MALDEN 02148.

Edward Andrie

59 Pearl ST Cambridge 02139

Aram Schrey

274 Adams Mnl Center, Cambridge
MA 02138

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Greg Kasparian

931 Mass Ave #204 Cambridge 02139

Chris McAuliffe

114 Mt Auburn St, Camb 02138

Abdul-Tau

Currier Box 521 Camb 02138

Michael D. King

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Stephanie Lytle	45 Elm St # 11 Somerville, Ma.
Roger Cruz Jr	16 Cedar St #2 Somerville
M. Green	1 Belmont Sq. #3, "
John Lay	45 Ibbetson St #1 Somerville
Sally Rakowski	45 Ibbetson St #1 Somerville
Anna V. Jean-Louis	18 Monponsett Street Mattapan MA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Erka Hero Tanoelo

Philip W. Platt

25 E. ~~Cambridge~~ First St.
Cambridge, MA 02138

James A. Licks

175 Belmont St. Belmont, Ma. 02178

Luis Lopez

175 Belmont St. Belmont MA 02178

Ann A. Clarke

1 Waterhouse St. Cambridge MA 02138

Carlman

921 MASS AVE #204

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name	Organization/Address (for identification purposes only)
Colleen Sobush	SEIU Local 509
Alaine Blom	SEIU Local 509
Ana Costa	JMH Case manager
Garth Hump	SEIU Local 509
Janet Hernandez	SEIU Local 509
[Signature]	SEIU Local 509
Louise Howard	SEIU Local 509
Karen B. Ute	SEIU Local 509
Walter J. Jernin	SEIU Local 509
Kathleen Pohn	SEIU Local 509

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIAN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

James Van Vleet
Michael Cook
SPS Int

Faith Lutheran
Faith Lutheran Church
KESher

Jim Novack

Faith Lutheran Church

I Support UNITE's Campaign for Fair Wages, Safe Working Conditions and the Worker's Right to Organize

Name

Address

Affiliation

Raffi Dinn B. Kuf⁴⁰

Temple Shir Tikvah
P.O. Box 373
Winchester, MA
01890

Temple Shir Tikvah

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Ed Wiley
Thomas Grotter

Somerville, Mass
"

James J. Grotter

James J. Grotter

William Feiler - 888 Mass Ave. Cambridge

Michelle Keby - 5 Hymn, Cambridge, Mass.

Darlene Nuzinski 39 Huron St. Cambridge MA 02141
(NOT FOR PUBLICATION)

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

Ann Anderson	CAMBRIDGE
Greg McHally	11
Tom Moore	"
Kris Kelly	Hillland St. Cambridge
John Warrick	South Mills, Mass
Robert R. Gallagher	Cambridge

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

John Embell
Gert Wallner
John Lawrence
Walt Gichum
Walter Gichum
MARINA MUER

39 Marymount St, Cambridge, MA 02139
Lebanon St, Cambridge
Cambridge, MA
131 Plymouth St, Cambridge
" " " "
CAMBRIDGE

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Klorithy Daley	MNA
Lisa Murray	MNA
Patty R. Brown	MNA
Fred Roberts	Local 75
Betsy Daley
Patricia Ransworth	MNA

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

Patricia Roberts

TCH

Stephen W. Ayres

TCH

John Granger

7 Backus Rd. Lexington

W. J. Lennon

TCH

Maureen Scanlon

TCH

William J. Murphy

TCH

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

MARY Layne

Camb. Hosp.

Sandra Stevens

Camb. Hosp.

David M. Hear

Camb. Hosp.

Kings

Camb. Hosp.

Marion M. Knuth

Cambridge, MA

Stuart Levy

Camb Hosp.

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

[Signature]	TCH
Amy Gurni	TCH
Bob [Signature]	TCH 195
[Signature]	TCH
[Signature]	TCH
Calvin [Signature]	TCH

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

J. Targus

TCH

P. Johnson

TCH

P. Johnson

TCH

William Hallin

TCH

Barbara Bishop

MNA

T. Farrell

TCH

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address
(for identification purposes only)

P. Cohen	TCH
Marion Brown	TCH
Chris Kelly	TCH
Deborah	TCH
William Bennett	TCH
Steven Lelinas	Cambridge Resident

A MESSAGE TO CAMBRIDGE HOSPITAL CEO JOHN O'BRIEN:

Cambridge as a community has a rich history of striving to respect and protect the economic and social health and well-being of all individuals. In no city institution are these important principles more evident than in the Cambridge Hospital.

We believe the Cambridge Hospital should ensure these values are reflected in all of its operations, including its contracts for outside services such as laundry services.

We further believe that the Cambridge Hospital should contract only with a laundry service company that respects its workers, the law, and the community in which it does business and, accordingly, meets the following minimum standards:

- Pays its employees a living wage;
- Provides its employees with basic benefits including employer-paid family health insurance;
- Complies with federal health and safety laws and regulations and acts responsibly with respect to the special health hazards to employees posed by hospital laundry work;
- Complies with federal labor laws and respects and recognizes employees' rights to organize and to collective action;
- Does not discriminate against its employees on the basis of national origin, age, gender, religion, pregnancy, or sexual preference;
- Respects the communities in which it does business and complies with local, state and federal laws which protect the environment and other aspects of community health.

An investigation is currently under way by the Cambridge City Council to determine if the laundry currently used by Cambridge Hospital, Royal Institutional Services, practices humane and fair treatment of its employees. We believe that the standards listed above constitute humane and fair treatment. Thus, we hereby request that if the investigation finds Royal Institutional Services in violation of these standards, the hospital cease doing business with Royal until and unless Royal abides by these standards.

SIGNED,

Name

Organization/Address

(for identification purposes only)

L.A. OSMON.

Cambr. Hospital.

Royal Institutional Services goes against the community standards that have long prevailed in Cambridge, which place a high value on the health and well-being of everyone in the community. We want our city to continue to reflect these values in its policies and practices. To do so, it must bring forth all of the available information about Royal and will take steps to end its relationship with Royal as soon as possible.

Sincerely,

Michael Brook

Pastor Faith Lutheran Church
President, Central Square
Ministers' Association

Barbara Stratton
Chairperson MNA at
The Cambridge Hospital

Mark Erlich
Bill Cavellini

Carpenters Local 40
Ward 5 Democratic Committee

(Rev.) Thomas B. Luttich

University Lutheran Church
Harvard Square

James J. Goldberg

6 Back St Cambridge

Arthur P. Luff

6 Garrison St. Cambridge

January 25, 1995

John O'Brien, CEO, Cambridge Hospital

Robert Healy, City Manager

Councillor Born

Councillor Davis

Councillor Duehay

Councillor Galluccio

Councillor Sullivan

Councillor Toomey

→ Councillor Triantafillou

Vice Mayor Russell

Mayor Reeves

Dear City Officials:

We are writing to forward to you the enclosed petitions which represent the voices of hundreds if not thousands of individuals and organizations who live, work, and operate in Cambridge. The message of the petitions is clear: the community of Cambridge values the social and economic well-being of everyone in the community, and the City should not be contracting with companies that disregard these principles.

Royal Institutional Services does not meet basic standards of human decency. It does not provide a living wage for its employees nor benefits such as affordable family health insurance. Its record is tainted by its history of violating health and safety regulations and environmental regulations. It is under investigation by the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination, and is being taken to court by the National Labor Relations Board.

Royal Institutional Services is also being investigated by the City. As these petitions make clear, we want the City to do business only with companies that obey the law and treat their employees with decency and respect. While Royal's regulatory record is disturbing, we find just as problematic Royal's day-to-day treatment of its workers and the fact that employees of Royal do not earn wages above the poverty line and are not provided basic benefits that would allow them to care for their families. There is no more basic worker treatment issue than whether people take enough home every week to survive. A diligent investigation of Royal will reveal all of these facts.

Petitions from residents regarding Royal Institutional Services business practices.

415(a)

In City Council January 29, 1996