To the Cambridge City Council:

I live at 115 Mt. Auburn St., right next to where the ⑦ has just opened their new tunnel in Harvard Sq. I feel as though the ⑦ has taken over the neighborhood. The buses are noisy, the fumes spoil the air, loud workmen start shouting at each other at 4:30 a.m., and frankly, ~~it~~^{it} has become nearly impossible to sleep. Every day it gets worse than ever.

To all the developers who have brought "prosperity" to Harvard Sq., which means more money, more yuppies, more noise, and more aggravation to Harvard Sq., I can only say that I hope they do not make this place into an industrial pit. Also, there is no way of turning back, it seems.

I have always loved Harvard Sq., but I am beginning to think it is becoming an unhealthy place to live. My friends are trying to convince me to move to New York — oddly, one of the benefits seems that I would be able to sleep at night.
