Gentlemen:

I want to thank you most sincerely for banning the use of the LD50 and Draize test in your city's commercial laboratories.

This was very fine and humane and courageous decision on your part.

It shows how enlightened you are there, and I hope your example will spread.

You are trail blazers-keep up the good work!

Sincerely,

Lura B. Irish

Sirs/Madams:

Thank you for your unprecedented move to ban the Lethal Dose 50 and the Draize tests in your city. Certainly this will eliminate the suffering of many animals in the future. We applaud your decision to pass such an ordinance.

Sincerely,

= First of all, I applaud & praise the City Council of Cambridge, MA for banning the LD50 + Draize tests in their commercial labs. Thank God, someone finally set a precedent. I urge & plead the other ordinances on this issue be accepted. There needs to be an increased public accountability in animal research & the proposal introduced by Councilor Velluti fits that need. Thanks again for ending the LD50 + Draize in your community & please take positive actions on the corresponding legislations.

Sincerely, Lisa Woods

Dear Sirs/Madams:

Our family has just learned of the most welcome news that your city has outlawed the LD-50. We are very happy that one city had the guts to do this. Hopefully, the alternatives now available will be validated soon and many more cities will follow in your wonderful footsteps.

For the past two plus years we have been using all "cruelty free" products for our family of five. We learned about the LD-50 and Draize and could not tolerate nor condone nor subsidize such pain and suffering. There are currently tests available (which noone seems to be in a hurry to validate) that are alternatives to some of these painful procedures. Maybe if enough people cry out, they will get validated sooner.

Thank you from all of us and congratulations for being humane and caring about the suffering of other beings.

Sincerely,

Mr. & Mrs. Olsen & Family
