

City of Cambridge

MAYOR VELLUCCI

27.

IN CITY COUNCIL

September 12, 1988

- WHEREAS: The people of the City of Cambridge, as part of the international community of man, recognize that our human family is faced with especially challenging lessons and unparalleled opportunities for growth in this, the latter part of the twentieth century; and
- WHEREAS: The people of the City of Cambridge recognize that the time has come to unify our efforts so that we may create a world of harmony and peace, a world transformed by our creative energies and motivated by the spirit of universal loving and brotherhood; and
- WHEREAS: The efforts of the people of the City of Cambridge are clearly dedicated to this transformation of our planet and to the acknowledgment that positive growth begins with the enrichment and upliftment of each individual through the cultivation of an ever-growing commitment to PERSONAL INTEGRITY; and
- WHEREAS: We, the people of Cambridge, support one another in strengthening our own integrity and seeking to encourage others in their awareness, recognizing that Personal Integrity is unique to each of us and is the courage of conviction that allows each member of our human family to discover that perfect alignment with our own truth; now therefore be it
- RESOLVED: That I, Alfred E. Vellucci, Mayor of the City of Cambridge, do hereby declare September 24, 1988 as INTEGRITY DAY in Cambridge, a day when each of us may celebrate the value of Personal Integrity and freely declare, each in the uniqueness of our own expression, our commitment to the creation of a world in which each individual can win; and be it further
- RESOLVED: That I commend the groups and individuals throughout the world who are actively communicating these principles to our human family and encourage their efforts to have 1988 declared as the INTERNATIONAL YEAR OF INTEGRITY AND TRANSFORMATION by the UNITED NATIONS.
