Edna M. London, 72

Retired social worker

Edna M. (Jones) London of Cambridge, a retired social worker with Somerville-Cambridge Elder Services, died in her home Thursday of congestive heart failure. She was 72.

Born and raised in Troy, Ala., Mrs. London graduated from Troy High School. She attended Alabama State College and in 1943 married Oscar Frank London, who died in 1992.

While raising her three children, Mrs. London worked in various capacities at several banks in the Boston area, principally Shawmut Bank. She also volunteered at Sancta Maria Hospital in Cambridge.

After her children were grown, Mrs. London returned to college and earned a bachelor of science degree in social work from Lesley College.

Following graduation, she worked at the Somerville-Cambridge Elder Services until her retirement.

Mrs. London was active in a variety of organizations, including the National Association of Black Social Workers.

In the late 1960s and early 1970s, she and her family opened their home to black graduate students studying in greater Boston.

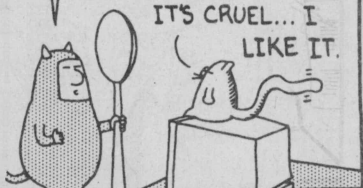

Mrs. London was cited for outstanding and meritorious contributions in the field of social work.

She leaves her two sons, Frank London Jr. and Derek C., both of Cambridge; her daughter, Joyce London Alexander of Cambridge; two sisters, Bernice Lockhart of Boston and Mattie Dix of Chicago; one brother, Eddie K. Jones of Alabama; five grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at the Massachusetts Avenue Baptist Church in Cambridge. Burial will be in Cambridge Cemetery.
