

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR
CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS

November 15, 1932

To the Honorable, the City Council:

It becomes my sad duty to officially notify you of the death of General Edgar R. Champlin, who died in Boston on Tuesday, November 8, 1932. He was a member of the old Common Council during the years 1884, 1885 and 1886, a member of the Board of Aldermen for the year 1892, and Mayor of the City during the years 1899 and 1900. He also served the public in many other positions of responsibility and trust.

I respectfully recommend that suitable action be taken by your honorable body as a tribute of respect to his memory, in which action I shall be glad to join.

Yours respectfully,

WHEREAS: Frederick H. Burke City Clerk

The City Council has been officially notified by His Honor the Mayor of the death on November 8th of the Hon. Edgar R. Champlin, a former mayor of our city, it is fitting and proper that notice be taken of this sad event.

Edgar R. Champlin was born in Boston in 1858. After graduating from college he settled in Cambridge and served in the Common Council in 1884-85-86 and in the Board of Aldermen in 1892. He served the City as Mayor during the years 1899 and 1900. During his administration as Mayor the plans for the Longfellow Bridge were consummated resulting in a drawless bridge and an opportunity to beautify the now famous Charles River Basin.

In the business world, and especially in banking circles, he was a leading figure and remained active until shortly before his death. His keen judgment was often sought and freely given. He held the confidence of all persons who entrusted to his care their civic affairs while a member of the Common Council, Board of Aldermen and in the office of Mayor and undoubtedly higher honors in the affairs of state would have come to him had he decided to remain in public life.

It is therefore

RESOLVED:

That the City Council record its appreciation of his faithful public service and the loss sustained in the death of Mr. Champlin, a distinguished citizen and an honored ex-mayor.
