In City Council March 20, 1989

The Committee on Ordinances, comprised of the entire membership of the City Council conducted a public hearing on Thursday, March 9, 1989 beginning at 7:10 p.m. in the Sullivan Chamber, City Hall. The purpose of the hearing was to review the previously adopted Council resolution submitted by Councillor William Walsh, amending the Zoning Ordinances relative to the eastablishment of the Affordable Housing Trust, as well as to review the amendment to same submitted by Mayor Alfred Vellucci relative to the Trust's composition.

At this time Councillor William Walsh opened the hearing and stated his support for the proposal as amended previously by Councillor Francis Duehay, relative to the selection and appointment process to the Trust only after five candidates from each of the colleges and universities have been selected and referred to the City Manager.

At this time Councillor Francis Duehay stated his support for the amendment, due to the fairness of the process and his belief that the entire academic community should be allowed to participate regardless of its size or amount of real estate ownership. He further stated he felt it was important that the various voices which understand the housing issues be represented.

At this time Councillor Walsh requested that anyone wishing to speak in favor come forward. No one came forward.

At this time Councillor Walsh requested that anyone wishing to speak in opposition come forward.

The Committee heard from Michael Turk of 24 Prescott Street, who stated his opposition to the proposed amendment because he felt strongly that neither Harvard nor M.I.T. should be allowed to participate in the Trust.

At this time, Councillor Francis Duehay moved the petition be referred to the full City Council without recommendation.

The motion - prevailed.

The hearing was adjourned at 7:19 p.m.

For the Committee,

Councillor William H. Walsh
Chairman.

SUBJECT: Mass Municipal Association Lobbying Day, Wednesday March 1, 1989

The Massachusetts Municipal Associaton is extremely concerned about the implications of the State budget on cities and towns. The proposed House budget would not only level fund Local Aid revenue which means a net decrease when charges are taken into account. It would also reduce a number of important State services.

This is to inform you that the MMA is having a lobbying day on Wednesday, March 1, 1989. It is asking as many local officials as possible to participate in lobbying State legislators on the importance of State programs to their community.

There will be a briefing meeting at 11:00 a.m. on Wednesday, March 1st at the Parker House. The group will go to the State House at noon.

AN ORDINANCE

Chapter Four, entitled "Animals" is hereby amended by striking out Section 4-20 in Article IV entitled "American Staffordshire Terrier, a/k/a American Pit Bull Terrier or Bull Terrier" and substituting the following new section 4-20

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Cambridge as follows:

Section 4-20. Regulation of Vicious Dogs.

A. Definitions. As used in this section, the following words and terms shall have the following meanings, unless the context shall indicate another or different meaning or intent:

(1) "Potentially Vicious Dog" means (a) any dog which, when unprovoked, in a vicious or terrorizing manner, approaches any person in an apparent attitude of attack upon the streets, sidewalks, or any public grounds or places; or (b) any dog with a known propensity, tendency or disposition to attack unprovoked, to cause injury or to otherwise endanger the safety of human beings or animals; or (c) any dog whose owner has been cited on three (3) separate occasions within the previous twelve (12) months for failing to restrain said dog; or (d) any dog not licensed according to city ordinance as heretofore provided in Article I, section 4-7 of this Chapter.

(2) "Vicious Dog" means (a) any dog having been previously found to be potentially vicious which, when unprovoked, in a vicious or terrorizing manner, approaches any person in an apparent attitude of attack upon the streets, sidewalks, or any public grounds or places; or (b) any dog which bites, inflicts injury, assaults or otherwise attacks a human being or domestic animal without provocation on public or private property; or (c) any dog owned or harbored primarily or in part for the purpose of dog fighting or any dog trained for dog fighting.

Notwithstanding the above definition of vicious dog, no dog may be declared vicious if any injury or damage is sustained by a person who, at the time such injury or damage was sustained, was committing a willful trespass or other tort upon premises occupied by the owner or keeper of the dog, or was teasing, tormenting, abusing or assaulting the dog or was committing or attempting to commit a crime.

No dog may be declared vicious if any injury or damage was sustained by a domestic animal which, at the time such injury or damage was sustained, was teasing, tormenting, abusing or assaulting the dog.

No dog may be declared vicious if the dog was protecting or defending a human being within the immediate vicinity of the dog from an unjustified attack or assault.

(3) "Enclosure" means a fence or structure of at least six feet (6') in height, forming or causing an enclosure to confine a vicious dog in conjunction with other measures which may be taken by the owner or keeper, such as tethering of the vicious dog. Such enclosure shall be securely constructed and locked and designed with secure sides, top and bottom so as to prevent the animal from escaping from the enclosure.

(4) "Impounded" means taken into the custody of the Animal Commission.

(5) "Person" means a natural person or any legal entity, including but not limited to a corporation, firm, partnership or trust.

B. Determination that Dog is Vicious.

In the event that an agent or member of the Animal Commission has cause to believe that a dog is vicious, or upon the written complaint of a citizen made under oath and attesting to the same, the Director of the Animal Commission or his or her designee shall be empowered to convene a hearing for the purpose of determining whether or not the dog in question should be declared vicious. The Animal Commission shall, as is deemed necessary, conduct or cause to be conducted an investigation of the matter and shall notify the owner or keeper of the dog that a hearing will be held, at which time he or she may have the opportunity to present evidence why the dog should not be declared vicious. Service of notice shall be made by hand delivery or certified mail. The hearing shall be held promptly within no less than five (5) nor more than ten (10) days after service of notice upon the owner or keeper of the dog. The hearing shall be informal and open to the public.

After the hearing, the owner or keeper of the dog shall be notified in writing of the determination. If a determination is made that the dog is vicious, the owner or keeper shall comply with the registration provisions of this section, stated below, in accordance with a time schedule established by the Animal Commission, but in no case more than thirty (30) days subsequent to the date of determination. If the owner or keeper of the dog contests the determination, he or she may, within five (5) days of such determination, appeal the determination in the Third District Court of Eastern Middlesex County.

In the event that the Animal Commission has cause to believe that the dog in question is vicious and may pose a threat of serious harm to human beings or other domestic animals, the Commission may seize and impound the dog pending the aforesaid hearing and appeal. The owner or keeper of the dog shall be liable to the City of Cambridge for the costs and expenses of keeping such dog.

C. Determination that Dog is Potentially Vicious.

Any Animal Control Officer or other agent of the Animal Commission may make a determination without a hearing that a dog is potentially vicious, in accordance with the aforementioned definition of "Potentially Vicious Dog." Such a determination may be subject to the review of the full membership of the Animal Commission upon the petition of the owner or keeper of said dog.

D. Registration Requirements.

No vicious or potentially vicious dog shall be licensed by the City of Cambridge for any licensing period commencing after November 1, 1988 unless the owner or keeper of such vicious or potentially vicious dog shall meet the following requirements:

(1) The owner or keeper of a vicious or potentially vicious dog shall confine said dog inside his or her dwelling or inside a proper enclosure on his or her property. It shall be unlawful for an owner or keeper of a vicious or potentially vicious dog to permit said dog to be outside the proper enclosure or dwelling unless said dog is muzzled and restrained by a substantial chain or leash and under the control of a responsible person. The muzzle shall be made in a manner that will not cause injury to the dog or interfere with its vision or respiration but shall prevent it from biting any person or animal;

(2) The owner or keeper of a vicious dog shall, at his or her own expense, have the licensing number assigned to such dog, or other such number as the Animal Commission shall determine, tattooed upon such vicious dog by a licensed veterinarian or other person trained as a tattooist. The Animal Commission may, in its discretion, designate the particular location of said tattoo;

(3) The owner or keeper of a vicious dog shall present to the Animal Commission proof that the owner or keeper has procured liability insurance in the amount of at least one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000.00), covering any damage or injury which may be caused by such vicious dog during the twelve (12) month period for which licensing is sought, which policy shall contain a provision requiring the City of Cambridge to be named as an additional insured for the sole purpose of the Animal Commission to be notified by the insurance company of any cancellation, termination or expiration of the liability insurance policy;

(4) The owner or keeper of a vicious or potentially vicious dog shall display a sign on his or her premises warning that there is such a dog on the premises. Said sign shall be visible and capable of being read from any adjacent public way.

(5) The owner or keeper of a vicious or potentially vicious dog shall sign statements attesting that: (a) in the case of a vicious dog, the owner or keeper of said dog shall maintain and not voluntarily cancel the liability insurance required by this section during the twelve (12) month period for which licensing is sought, unless the owner or keeper shall cease to own or keep the vicious dog prior to expiration of such license; (b) the owner or keeper shall, on or prior to the effective date of such license for which application is being made, have an enclosure for the vicious or potentially vicious dog on the property where said dog will be kept or maintained; (c) the owner or keeper shall notify the Animal Commission within twenty-four (24) hours if a vicious or potentially vicious dog is on the loose, is unconfined, has attacked another animal or has attacked a human being, or has died or has been sold or given away. If the vicious or potentially vicious dog has been sold or given away, the owner or keeper shall also provide the Animal Commission with the name, address, and telephone number of the new owner of said dog;

(6) The Animal Commission is hereby empowered to make whatever inquiry is deemed necessary to ensure compliance with the provisions of this section, and any agent of the Commission is hereby empowered to seize and impound any vicious or potentially vicious dog whose owner or keeper fails to comply with the provisions hereof. In the event that the owner or keeper of the dog refuses to surrender the animal to the Commission, the Commission Director may request a police officer to obtain a search warrant and to seize the dog upon execution of the warrant;

(7) The provisions of this section shall not apply to K-9 or other dogs owned by any police department or any law enforcement officer which are used in the performance of police work.

(8) The owner or keeper of a vicious dog shall pay, in addition to the standard dog license fee, a sum of ten dollars ($10.) for each vicious dog registered.

(D) Penalties for Violation.

(1) (a) Any vicious or potentially vicious dog which does not have a valid license in accordance with the provisions of this Chapter, or (b) in the case of a vicious dog, whose owner or keeper does not secure the liability insurance coverage required in accordance with this section, or (c) any vicious or potentially vicious dog which shall be outside of the dwelling of the owner or keeper or outside of an enclosure and unmuzzled and/or otherwise unrestrained shall be confiscated by the Animal Commission and destroyed in an expeditious and humane manner after the expiration of a ten (10) day waiting period exclusive of Sundays and holidays. In addition, the owner or keeper shall pay a one hundred fifty dollar ($150.00) fine.

(2) If any vicious or potentially vicious dog shall, when unprovoked, kill, wound or worry or assist in killing or wounding any domestic animal, the owner or keeper of said dog shall pay a one hundred fifty dollar ($150.00) fine and the Animal Commission is empowered to confiscate and, after the expiration of a ten (10) day waiting period, exclusive of Sundays and holidays, shall destroy said dog. For each subsequent violation the owner or keeper of said dog shall pay a fine of three hundred dollars ($300.00).

(3) If any vicious or potentially vicious dog shall, when unprovoked, attack, assault, wound, bite or otherwise injure or kill a human being, the owner or keeper shall pay a three hundred dollar ($300.00) fine and the Animal Commission is empowered to confiscate and, after the expiration of a ten (10) day waiting period, exclusive of Sundays and holidays, shall destroy said dog. For each and any subsequent violation, said owner or keeper shall pay a fine of three hundred dollars ($300.00).

(4) No person shall be charged under subsections (1), (2) or (3) above unless the dog, prior to the offense alleged, shall have been declared vicious or potentially vicious pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(5) The Animal Commission shall provide notice of the impoundment and/or pending destruction of a vicious or potentially vicious dog to the registered owner or keeper of said dog. Service of notice shall be made by hand delivery or certified mail within five (5) days next following the date of impoundment.

(6) If the owner or keeper of a dog impounded for an alleged violation of this section shall believe that there has not been a violation of this section, such owner or keeper may petition a court of competent jurisdiction praying that the dog not be destroyed. The impounded dog shall not be destroyed pending resolution of such owner's or keeper's petition. The dog shall remain impounded pending a hearing on the petition and any subsequent appeal.

at the DeMoulas market in Somerville, but a friend reports that John goes out early to start the car and get it warmed up for his wife to drive.

Cambridge-Born

He was born on Gore street, East Cambridge, on October 20, 1890 of parents who came from the Azores island of Graciosa, yet, surprisingly, he cannot speak much Portuguese. When he was only two weeks old, his father was killed in an accident at the John P. Squire pork-packing plant.

This left his mother with seven children, six boys and a girl, and very little money to feed and clothe them. "We were very poor," he says, "and if we had only a few slices of bread, my mother wouldn't eat any herself until she was sure there was some for each of us. She was an energetic little woman and she was wonderful. No matter how hard up we were, she would always say, 'Tomorrow things will be better.' "

John Philip himself had three children, by his first wife, whom he married in 1914 and who died in 1948. Their son, Joseph, died when he was three years old as the result of being accidentally impaled on a sharp stick that was holding a flag; John Jr., a soldier in World War Two, was killed, along with others, when a gun exploded during a training exercise in England; and their third son, Francis died three years ago.

No-Fault Motorman

As he looks back on his life, his eyes light up as he enthusiastically recalls his days as trolley car conductor, motorman and long-time member of the Boston Carmen's Union. (TV stations missed a good bet when they failed to put him on the air during the recent celebration of the 100th anniversary of the electrification of a Boston trolley line. He would have electrified the viewing audience.)

He began his career in transportation humbly enough as a painter's helper ("I was paid peanuts"), soon was promoted to painter, then became a conductor and later, when one-man came into use, was broken in as an operator or motorman.

It was the World War One shortage of men that enabled him to qualify as a motorman, because at 5 feet 4½" he had previously been a half inch too short to meet the height requirement.

As a motorman, he worked out of Cambridge's Bennett street yards, driving trolley cars on the Harvard square-Dudley street line, and also from Harvard square to Arlington, Belmont and Watertown. Sometimes he drove trolleys from Watertown to Newton and down Commonwealth avenue by Braves Field. He liked the Braves but says he and Hazel have always been red hot Red Sox fans.

"When I first became an operator," he says, "I had to report at 4:30 a.m. or perhaps lose a whole day's pay. It all went by seniority and the senior men picked the best runs. We were paid by the hour and pay was deducted if we were late."

There was a five cent fare then, the same price, he says, as the cost of a loaf of bread at Cambridge street bakeries. Spotters rode the trolleys to check up on whether the motormen were "clipping any of the fare money." If they got caught at it, they were fired. John Philip, of course, was strictly honest and worked as a motorman until he retired on October 31, 1955, "when the buses came in."

"In all those years," he says with great pride, "I never had a serious accident."

What's His Secret?

What's the secret of his lively longevity?

At age 98 plus, he says, "I can do anything." In the morning before rising, he does stretching exercises in bed, and when he gets up, rubs his hands over his back at the waistline. "That's where age can get you," he says," so I massage my back every day."

Just before bedtime, he drinks a small shot glass of brandy and milk. "Not whiskey," he insists, "it's brandy and in a little bit of a glass."

The truth is, however, that he doesn't claim all the credit for being so well and so active.

"I don't know how I do it," he muses "My mother must be praying for me up in heaven."

LEGAL NOTICE
COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY ENGINEERING

Pursuant to M.G.L. c. 21E, Section 14(a) and the Massachusetts Contingency Plan (310 CMR 40.00), the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering announces that Preliminary Assessments and Limited Site Investigations have been performed at the following locations:

COMMUNITY	SITE NAME	ADDRESS	SITE #	CLASSIFICATION (N=Non-Priority P=Priority)
Cambridge	Former Gulf Station	1201 Massachusetts Ave.	3-1263	N
Cambridge	Former Midland Ross Corp.	445 Concord Ave.	3-0959	N

These investigations have confirmed that a release of oil and/or hazardous materials has occurred at these locations. Therefore, the Department has identified them as confirmed disposal sites. The Department has also determined that these sites are non-priority disposal sites (as defined by M.G.L. c. 21E, Section 2). M.G.L. c. 21E, Section 3A (f) (3) requires that, if feasible, permanent solutions be implemented at each of these disposal sites. If a permanent solution is not feasible, then a temporary solution must be implemented, and a plan for achieving a permanent solution must be developed.

M.G.L. c. 21E and the Massachusetts Contingency Plan provide several opportunities for public notice of and involvement in decisions regarding response actions at disposal sites, including:

• The Chief Municipal Official and Board of Health of the community in which the site is located will be provided with notices of the results of investigations, plans for remedial responses, and field work involving the use of heavy construction equipment and/or protective clothing (310 CMR 40.202).

• Upon receipt of section from ten or more residents of the municipality in which the disposal site is located, or of a municipality potentially affected by a disposal site, or upon the Department's initiative, a plan for involving the public in decisions regarding response actions at the site will be prepared and presented at a public meeting. This plan will be revised based on comments received, and will be implemented over the course of the response action (310 CMR 40.203).

For more information on the confirmed disposal sites referenced above, and the opportunities for public involvement in their location, please contact Karen Stromberg, DEQE Northeast Regional Office, Site Assessment and Tech Section, 5 Commonwealth Avenue, Woburn, MA 01801 (Telephone: 617/935-2160).

The Department provide for grants to be given to groups of individuals who may be affected by oil or hazardous materials from any disposal site. These grants may be used to obtain advice and technical assistance on matters relating to the handling of disposal sites. Regulations describing this program are contained in the Massachusetts Contingency Plan (310 CMR 40.700). For more information about the Technical Assistance Program, please contact Sarah Weinstein, DEQE/Division of Hazardous Waste, Public Participation/Tech, One Winter Street, Boston, MA 02108 (Telephone: 617/292-5820).

at the DeMoulas market in Somerville, but a friend reports that John goes out early to start the car and get it warmed up for his wife to drive.

Cambridge-Born

He was born on Gore street, East Cambridge, on October 20, 1890 of parents who came from the Azores island of Graciosa, yet, surprisingly, he cannot speak much Portuguese. When he was only two weeks old, his father was killed in an accident at the John P. Squire pork-packing plant.

This left his mother with seven children, six boys and a girl, and very little money to feed and clothe them. "We were very poor," he says, "and if we had only a few slices of bread, my mother wouldn't eat any herself until she was sure there was some for each of us. She was an energetic little woman and she was wonderful. No matter how hard up we were, she would always say, 'Tomorrow things will be better.' "

John Philip himself had three children, by his first wife, whom he married in 1914 and who died in 1948. Their son, Joseph, died when he was three years old as the result of being accidentally impaled on a sharp stick that was holding a flag; John Jr., a soldier in World War Two, was killed, along with others, when a gun exploded during a training exercise in England; and their third son, Francis died three years ago.

No-Fault Motorman

As he looks back on his life, his eyes light up as he enthusiastically recalls his days as trolley car conductor, motorman and long-time member of the Boston Carmen's Union. (TV stations missed a good bet when they failed to put him on the air during the recent celebration of the 100th anniversary of the electrification of a Boston trolley line. He would have electrified the viewing audience.)

He began his career in transportation humbly enough as a painter's helper ("I was paid peanuts"), soon was promoted to painter, then became a conductor and later, when one-man came into use, was broken in as an operator or motorman.

It was the World War One shortage of men that enabled him to qualify as a motorman, because at 5 feet 4½" he had previously been a half inch too short to meet the height requirement.

As a motorman, he worked out of Cambridge's Bennett street yards, driving trolley cars on the Harvard square-Dudley street line, and also from Harvard square to Arlington, Belmont and Watertown. Sometimes he drove trolleys from Watertown to Newton and down Commonwealth avenue by Braves Field. He liked the Braves but says he and Hazel have always been red hot Red Sox fans.

"When I first became an operator," he says, "I had to report at 4:30 a.m. or perhaps lose a whole day's pay. It all went by seniority and the senior men picked the best runs. We were paid by the hour and pay was deducted if we were late."

There was a five cent fare then, the same price, he says, as the cost of a loaf of bread at Cambridge street bakeries. Spotters rode the trolleys to check up on whether the motormen were "clipping any of the fare money." If they got caught at it, they were fired. John Philip, of course, was strictly honest and worked as a motorman until he retired on October 31, 1955, "when the buses came in."

"In all those years," he says with great pride, "I never had a serious accident."

What's His Secret?

What's the secret of his lively longevity?

At age 98 plus, he says, "I can do anything." In the morning before rising, he does stretching exercises in bed, and when he gets up, rubs his hands over his back at the waistline. "That's where age can get you," he says," so I massage my back every day."

Just before bedtime, he drinks a small shot glass of brandy and milk. "Not whiskey," he insists, "it's brandy and in a little bit of a glass."

The truth is, however, that he doesn't claim all the credit for being so well and so active.

"I don't know how I do it," he muses. "My mother must be praying for me up in heaven."

LEGAL NOTICE
COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
DEPARTMENT OF ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY ENGINEERING
Pursuant to M.G.L. c. 21E, Section 14(a) and the Massachusetts Contingency Plan (310 CMR 40.00), the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering announces that Preliminary Assessments and Limited Site Investigations have been performed at the following locations:

COMMUNITY	SITE NAME	ADDRESS	SITE #	CLASSIFICATION (N = Non-Priority P = Priority)
Cambridge	Former Gulf Station	1201 Massachusetts Ave.	3-1263	N
Cambridge	Former Midland Ross Corp.	445 Concord Ave.	3-0959	N

These investigations have confirmed that a release of oil and/or hazardous materials has occurred at these locations. Therefore, the Department has identified them as confirmed disposal sites. The Department has also determined that these sites are non-priority disposal sites (as defined by M.G.L. c. 21E, Section 2). M.G.L. c. 21E, Section 3A (f) (3) requires that, if feasible, permanent solutions be implemented at each of these disposal sites. If a permanent solution is not feasible, then a temporary solution must be implemented, and a plan for achieving a permanent solution must be developed.
M.G.L. c. 21E and the Massachusetts Contingency Plan provide several opportunities for public notice of and involvement in decisions regarding response actions at disposal sites, including:
• The Chief Municipal Official and Board of Health of the community in which the site is located will be provided with notices of the results of investigations, plans for remedial responses, and field work involving the use of heavy construction equipment and/or protective clothing (310 CMR 40.202).
• Upon receipt of a petition from ten or more residents of the municipality in which the disposal site is located, or of a municipality potentially affected by a disposal site, or upon the Department's initiative, a plan for involving the public in decisions regarding response actions at the site will be prepared and presented at a public meeting. This plan will be revised based on comments received, and will be implemented over the course of the response action (310 CMR 40.203).
For more information on the confirmed disposal sites referenced above, and the opportunities for public involvement in their remediation, please contact Karen Stromberg, DEQE Northeast Regional Office, Site Assessment and Cleanup Section, 5 Commonwealth Avenue, Woburn, MA 01801 (Telephone: 617/935-2160).
The Department may provide for grants to be given to groups of individuals who may be affected by oil or hazardous materials from any disposal site. These grants may be used to obtain advice and technical assistance on matters relating to the handling of disposal sites. Regulations describing this program are contained in the Massachusetts Contingency Plan (310 CMR 40.700). For more information about the Technical Assistance Grant Program, please contact Sarah Weinstein, DEQE/Division of Hazardous Waste, Public Participation Branch, One Winter Street, Boston, MA 02108 (Telephone: 617/292-5820).

NCC girls earn berth

History was made last weekend by the North Cambridge Catholic High School varsity girls basketball team.

With victories over St. Mary (Lynn) on Friday and Columbus on Sunday, the Lady Panthers improved their record to 11-4 and clinched a spot in the upcoming MIAA state tournament and Catholic Suburban League tournament. This is the first time the NCC girls basketball team has qualified for post-season tournament play.

NCC played its best game of the year in defeating St. Mary, 44-29. The teams were tied at 6 after one period.

The Lady Panthers took the lead early in the second quarter and never looked back. NCC built a lead of 18-11 by halftime and increased the margin to 32-18 entering the final stanza. Sharon Silva, Dee M'Causland, and Joanne Desrosiers led the scoring for NCC with 10 points each. Eva Ace scored 6 points, Rima Zahr pitched in with 4, and Shannon Dottin and Christine Hafey added 2 points each.

On Sunday, NCC travelled to Boston to face a tough Columbus squad, coached by former NCC basketball player Rile Rhodes. The Lady Panthers couldn't seem to get untracked in the first half and trailed 20-9 at the halftime break. Columbus maintained a comfortable margin through the third period and still led 25-16 entering the final period.

NCC's offense finally exploded in the fourth period, outscoring Columbus 20-6 on its way to a 36-31 victory. Eva Ace led the Panthers with 11 points, including a key three-point shot during the fourth quarter surge. Joanne Desrosiers added 10 points and pulled down 12 rebounds. Sharon Silva and Dee M'Causland scored 7 and 6 points respectively. Columbus's Sharon Fidler led all scorers with 21 points.

NCC, under second year coach Val Bonds, will finish its regular season with a 3:30 game on Friday against St. Clement at the Fitzgerald Gym on Rindge Avenue. The Lady Panthers will then prepare for next Tuesday's semifinal game in the Catholic Suburban League Tournament.

NCC squares against St. C's for tourney

North Cambridge Catholic-St. Clement's, one of the hottest boys high school basketball rivalries takes center stage tommorrow night. At stake for the Panthers versus their crosstown rivals is a chance at revenge and a piece of the Catholic Surburban League crown.

In their first meeting, St. Clement's (13-0 15-0) shocked NCC (11-1 14-2) with a 106-85 victory. For three quarters the game lived up to its billing. However in the fourth quarter NCC was besieged by foul trouble and self-destructed.

What at the time seemed like a devastating defeat, may have been a blessing in disguise. Since their last meeting, the Panthers have been "red hot", having rolled off an impressive string of eight consecutive victories by an average margin of 25 points.

"The St. Clement's game was a real eye opener for us. It cost us our top ten ranking, it dropped us into second place and it raised a lot of doubts about the character of our team. Our kids are upset and they're hungry. I don't think they're as concerned about the league title as they are with just beating St. Clement's," explained Head Coach Frank McGrail.

As if they need anymore, there will also be added incentive for seniors Scott Pugh, Henry Prophet, James Peachwall and Dwaine Lilley, as it will be the last time they don their NCC uniforms in a home game. "These four gentlemen have been a tribute to our program. They are an instrumental piece of the foundation for our success past, present and future."

This past week NCC defeated both Maimonidies and Mission. Against Maimonidies the Panthers were slow out of the box and only led 14-11 with a minute remaining in the first quarter. However in the last nine minutes of the half, the Panthers put on an incredible display of basketball. They outscored Maimonidies 43-13 in those nine minutes to take a 57-24 lead into the locker room at half-time.

In second half, NCC never looked back cruising to an easy 100-62 victory. Senior Scott Pugh led the Panthers with 27 points while fellow senior James Peachwall added a career high 8 points.

On Sunday, NCC held off Mission High School for a 77-67 victory. Both teams played hard as the tempo was fast and furious.

The Panthers, who trailed briefly (12-11), never reached a comfort zone in the game. Despite trailing by as much as 16 points in the second half, Mission never quit.

In the end, however, NCC just had too many weapons for Mission to handle. Junior Jon Ace led the Panthers with 18 points and 12 rebounds. Scott Pugh added 16 points and 12 rebounds. Scott Pugh added 16 points and 10 rebounds while Henry Prophet and sophomore Lorenzo Gross added 14 and 13 points respectively.

Tomorrow night's showdown begins at 8 p.m. at the M.E. Fitzgerald School on Rindge Avenue. Due to the large crowd that witnessed the last game, it is expected that there will be a larger crowd tomorrow. Thus, it is advisable that you get here as early as possible.

IS IT TIME TO TAKE THE PLUNGE?
Your landlord just sent you a notice that he's increasing your rent, and it's the last straw! You sit down, go over your finances, and begin to think that this might be the right time to stop paying rent and get a place of your own. It makes you nervous, and you don't have a lot of ready cash for the down payment and closing costs. This is a perfect time to sit down with a good agent to talk about the possibilities.
We've helped a lot of people buy their first homes, and we know all of the tricks that can make it happen. If you're low on cash there might be a perfect FHA or other government program that can help you purchase with limited funds. An adjustable rate mortgage can ease the strain of your first mortgage payments. You might be pleasantly surprised when the agent shows you how your tax savings can reduce the costs of ownership, making the monthly payments comparable to the rent you now give your landlord. Then there's the equity you'll build as the property increases in value over the years.
If there's a move in your future, the real estate professionals at Silva Realty Associates are ready to serve you. Call us at 661-2525 in Cambridge.

BOOK

He said he wouldn't.

He listened politely. He said the Inner Belt was needed.

I thought, "Here speaks the rest of the state. If we can't even persuade this nice man..."

The Paul Revere ride was another part of the public relations.

It took place in a thin chilly rain. I hoped the rented tricorne wouldn't melt. Like a child on a New England Halloween, I was bulky in extra sweaters under my white shirt and tan jerkin.

My horse was waiting in Hastings Park where Brookline Street meets the river; around it stubborn homeowners were still keeping their gardens nice. To the north and west spread mixed residential and small business. To the east industry began with a Polaroid plant.

The horse was accompanied by a silent attendant and I by Paul Morris, the mayor's secretary, driving the mayor's car.

Horses are surprisingly high and broad when you think of sitting on them, and this one was the broadest I'd had a chance to ride, a cart horse. The attendant boosted me up and handed me the reins. As I tried to remember what my riding teacher had taught me about proper fingering, he led us to the curb; waited for a car to go by; crossed us to the legal side of the street for heading north. He said he'd meet us at Mass. Ave. Then he was gone.

I hadn't contracted to be in charge of the horse.

Paul Morris back in the car unleashed a classic wail on the siren.

I nearly fell off, but the horse was wonderfully lethargic, perhaps deaf. When my heart stopped pounding I had the problem of making it move. I kicked with my heels very gently so as not to stir it into a canter. Nothing happened. I kicked harder. When I kicked very hard indeed the saddle shifted under me and we moved north.

Behind us Paul drove the car at a snail's pace, and switched the black box over to the loud speaker.

"The highway is coming," his eerie voice said. He had been given a script and, though not enthusiastic, was game. "Citizens of Cambridge! Save our cities. The highway is coming."

Anyone who was listening, hiding in the houses, surely already knew that. Paul and I and the horse were putting on a show for a nonaudience. I was shivering, but at least there was little traffic and it was a pearl of a horse. It didn't trot, it didn't canter. Neither startling nor stopping, it walked straight ahead along the lane next to the parked cars where I would have pedaled my bicycle.

Sad Brookline Street, little houses, failing shops, failing businesses, for twenty years waiting to be taken for a highway.

"The ones with money sold out, left at the beginning," a neighbor had told me. "The ones who were left behind had all they could do to keep their house. Because, you know why, the bank wouldn't lend you money to fix your house."

And certainly no one would buy it. There was nothing to do but wait for the state taking. I wondered, "Even if we stop the highway, can the area survive?"

At Mass. Ave. I was glad to see a policeman waiting to stop the cars and the horse's attendant waiting to take the reins and steer my friend left. Now in the busy shopping street there should have been an audience, but the rain fell heavier, chillier.

I waved up left to Eliot Spalding, who sat in the second-floor window of the "Chronicle," with the linotype machines whirring in a great loft behind him. He would give us a mention, but Cambridge already knew about the Belt.

A major traffic light. A minor one. City Hall.

The mayor's photographer, Ed Pacheco, ducked out of the sheltering entry and came down the stairs toward us. Snap snap snap snap snap. Ed Pacheco crouched and bounced on the stairs and sidewalk.

That was the point of the whole wet, lonely effort.

A chubby lady with a triumphant smile waved a revolutionary hat and stormed City Hall on a horse. The picture was odd enough to get into the "Boston Globe," which has readers from Connecticut to Maine. How many readers looked at it long enough to discover the message behind it. A hundred? A thousand? Ten?

'YOU THE MAYOR?' REVIEWED ON PAGE 5A

MAYOR

will recognize "novelistic qualities" in the final product.

Ackermann says she deliberately chose not to focus on such controversial issues as rent control or political patronage, opting to zero in on what she felt were the major issues of the radical '60s and early '70s: the schools, police department and public housing. She also wanted to explain how city government worked and failed, filling each chapter with colorful anecdotes, major political figures and everyday citizens so the book would have broad interest.

"There is this whole history behind you of unsatisfied people," she says in her soft-spoken voice. "The book was sort of an apology from that point of view ... that I wasn't always doing my best and that things don't always work out the way you want them to."

Ironically, Ackermann had never considered a life in politics.

The daughter of a foreign service officer, she spent her childhood in Ireland and France and eventually graduated from Smith College with a bachelor's degree in Greek and Latin. In the early 1950s, she moved to Cambridge with her husband, Paul Kurt Ackermann, who was getting his PhD at Harvard University and later became a professor at Boston University.

Ackermann had her heart set on being a writer of fiction. Frustrated in her effort to be published, she soon discovered the power of words in the political arena.

Not surprisingly, she made her entrance into politics through a successful neighborhood zoning battle that ended up in court. "I was hooked on this idea," she says, "that something could happen as a result of your actions."

With her two children enrolled in the city's public schools in the early 1960s, she became active in the PTA and also began writing articles on school issues for the "Cambridge Chronicle."

She soon found herself running for the school committee and drawing the attention of the liberal Cambridge Civic Association. Formed in the early 1940s by New Deal Democrats and progressive Republicans, the CCA seemed the perfect political match for Ackermann.

But initially she resisted the good-government group's overtures. Her first mentor, longtime CCA Councilor and Mayor Edward Crane, talked her into accepting the group's endorsement. He told her "to join the organization and then bend it from within."

After winning her first bid for the school committee in 1961, she sat on the panel for two more terms. And then she won her first bid for the city council in 1967.

Although she admits to being politically "naive" in her first council term, she started to develop a philosophy based on compassion for people of all walks of life.

Her heroes were Crane, a Harvard College and Law School graduate who was born in the city; former House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr., a son of working-class North Cambridge; and City Councilor Alfred E. Vellucci, the populist maverick of ethnic East Cambridge whom Ackermann always considered the "independent" Independent.

Although perceived as the quintessential "issue-oriented" CCA politician, Ackermann says she has more in common with the basic liberal principles of these three men. She's a great believer in the motto: "Get them the job, get them the house and get them health care."

"That's where I'm coming from," she said, stressing that her book focuses on the importance of education and equal opportunity for all.

Ackermann says she also takes pride in the fact that, in 1967, she was the first councilor to speak out against the war in Vietnam. She devotes a few chapters in her book to the peace demonstrations at Harvard College in the late '60s.

By 1972, Ackermann became the first woman councilor to be appointed mayor by her council colleagues. Under the city's Plan E form of government, which was adopted in 1943, the mayor's role is mostly ceremonial. The city manager has the authority to appoint almost all city employees and write up budget allocations for the various departments.

Citizens would often ask Ackermann, "You the Mayor?" and then request a favor to have snow removed from a certain street or to put in a good word for a municipal job. Because of the city's charter and her limited powers as mayor, she would always respond, "Ask the city manager."

To this day, she still believes in the Plan E form of government for Cambridge. "It has its drawbacks," Ackermann says. "But I think its advantages outweigh its drawbacks."

And she also believes in proportional representation, the city's unique form of voting. Nonetheless, she deliberately avoided discussing it in her book because, she says, "I wanted the book to be of interest to people who don't live here."

She also doesn't fling much dirt, not even at her independent adversaries on the council, because she says "that's not the point of the book."

As the first woman mayor of Cambridge, Ackermann drew a lot of headlines. But she modestly says now that she was not acutely aware of her unique role on the council, despite the emergence of the woman's movement at that time.

The biggest shock in her political career came in 1977, when she lost her seat on the city council. Admitting now that she took re-election for granted, her defeat marked the first time she had ever lost a race.

"It was a terrible surprise," she says. "I just expected to win."

Ackermann then ran as the "liberal" choice in the Democratic gubernatorial primary against incumbent Gov. Michael Dukakis and challenger Edward King in 1978. She ended up being perceived as a "spoiler" because she drew votes away from Dukakis, allowing the more conservative King to pull off an upset to become governor.

She says now that she has no regrets about her role in that bitter race. "I think it was a good thing for the state and a good thing for Dukakis," she says. "It has taken me a long time to come around to saying that."

Today, Ackermann keeps a much lower political profile. She sits on the Cambridge Health Policy Board, which creates policies for the municipal hospital and its neighborhood health centers.

And, because of that role, she makes one thing clear: "I'm not supporting anybody for city council."

NCC girls earn berth

History was made last weekend by the North Cambridge Catholic High School varsity girls basketball team.

With victories over St. Mary (Lynn) on Friday and Columbus on Sunday, the Lady Panthers improved their record to 11-4 and clinched a spot in the upcoming MIAA state tournament and Catholic Suburban League tournament. This is the first time the NCC girls basketball team has qualified for post-season tournament play.

NCC played its best game of the year in defeating St. Mary, 44-29. The teams were tied at 6 after one period.

The Lady Panthers took the lead early in the second quarter and never looked back. NCC built a lead of 18-11 by halftime and increased the margin to 32-18 entering the final stanza. Sharon Silva, Dee M'Causland, and Joanne Desrosiers led the scoring for NCC with 10 points each. Eva Ace scored 6 points, Rima Zahr pitched in with 4, and Shannon Dottin and Christine Hafey added 2 points each.

On Sunday, NCC travelled to Boston to face a tough Columbus squad, coached by former NCC basketball player Rile Rhodes. The Lady Panthers couldn't seem to get untracked in the first half and trailed 20-9 at the halftime break. Columbus maintained a comfortable margin through the third period and still led 25-16 entering the final period.

NCC's offense finally exploded in the fourth period, outscoring Columbus 20-6 on its way to a 36-31 victory. Eva Ace led the Panthers with 11 points, including a key three-point shot during the fourth quarter surge. Joanne Desrosiers added 10 points and pulled down 12 rebounds. Sharon Silva and Dee M'Causland scored 7 and 6 points respectively. Columbus's Sharon Fidler led all scorers with 21 points.

NCC, under second year coach Val Bonds, will finish its regular season with a 3:30 game on Friday against St. Clement at the Fitzgerald Gym on Rindge Avenue. The Lady Panthers will then prepare for next Tuesday's semifinal game in the Catholic Suburban League Tournament.

NCC squares against St. C's for tourney

North Cambridge Catholic-St. Clement's, one of the hottest boys high school basketball rivalries takes center stage tommorrow night. At stake for the Panthers versus their crosstown rivals is a chance at revenge and a piece of the Catholic Surburban League crown.

In their first meeting, St. Clement's (13-0 15-0) shocked NCC (11-1 14-2) with a 106-85 victory. For three quarters the game lived up to its billing. However in the fourth quarter NCC was besieged by foul trouble and self-destructed.

What at the time seemed like a devastating defeat, may have been a blessing in disguise. Since their last meeting, the Panthers have been "red hot", having rolled off an impressive string of eight consecutive victories by an average margin of 25 points.

"The St. Clement's game was a real eye opener for us. It cost us our top ten ranking, it dropped us into second place and it raised a lot of doubts about the character of our team. Our kids are upset and they're hungry. I don't think they're as concerned about the league title as they are with just beating St. Clement's," explained Head Coach Frank McGrail.

As if they need anymore, there will also be added incentive for seniors Scott Pugh, Henry Prophet, James Peachwall and Dwaine Lilley, as it will be the last time they don their NCC uniforms in a home game. "These four gentlemen have been a tribute to our program. They are an instrumental piece of the foundation for our success past, present and future."

This past week NCC defeated both Maimonidies and Mission. Against Maimonidies the Panthers were slow out of the box and only led 14-11 with a minute remaining in the first quarter. However in the last nine minutes of the half, the Panthers put on an incredible display of basketball. They outscored Maimonidies 43-13 in those nine minutes to take a 57-24 lead into the locker room at half-time.

In second half, NCC never looked back cruising to an easy 100-62 victory. Senior Scott Pugh led the Panthers with 27 points while fellow senior James Peachwall added a career high 8 points.

On Sunday, NCC held off Mission High School for a 77-67 victory. Both teams played hard as the tempo was fast and furious.

The Panthers, who trailed briefly (12-11), never reached a comfort zone in the game. Despite trailing by as much as 16 points in the second half, Mission never quit.

In the end, however, NCC just had too many weapons for Mission to handle. Junior Jon Ace led the Panthers with 18 points and 12 rebounds. Scott Pugh added 16 points and 12 rebounds. Scott Pugh added 16 points and 10 rebounds while Henry Prophet and sophomore Lorenzo Gross added 14 and 13 points respectively.

Tomorrow night's showdown begins at 8 p.m. at the M.E. Fitzgerald School on Rindge avenue. Due to the large crowd that witnessed the last game, it is expected that there will be a larger crowd tomorrow. Thus, it is advisable that you get here as early as possible.

IS IT TIME TO TAKE THE PLUNGE?

Your landlord just sent you a notice that he's increasing your rent, and it's the last straw! You sit down, go over your finances, and begin to think that this might be the right time to stop paying rent and get a place of your own. It makes you nervous, and you don't have a lot of ready cash for the down payment and closing costs. This is a perfect time to sit down with a good agent to talk about the possibilities.

We've helped a lot of people buy their first homes, and we know all of the tricks that can make it happen. If you're low on cash there might be a perfect FHA or other government program that can help you purchase with limited funds. An adjustable rate mortgage can ease the strain of your first mortgage payments. You might be pleasantly surprised when the agent shows you how your tax savings can reduce the costs of ownership, making the monthly payments comparable to the rent you now give your landlord. Then there's the equity you'll build as the property increases in value over the years.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate professionals at Silva Realty Associates are ready to serve you. Call us at 661-2525 in Cambridge.

He said he wouldn't.

He listened politely. He said the Inner Belt was needed.

I thought, "Here speaks the rest of the state. If we can't even persuade this nice man..."

The Paul Revere ride was another part of the public relations.

It took place in a thin chilly rain. I hoped the rented tricorne wouldn't melt. Like a child on a New England Halloween, I was bulky in extra sweaters under my white shirt and tan jerkin.

My horse was waiting in Hastings Park where Brookline Street meets the river; around it stubborn homeowners were still keeping their gardens nice. To the north and west spread mixed residential and small business. To the east industry began with a Polaroid plant.

The horse was accompanied by a silent attendant and I by Paul Morris, the mayor's secretary, driving the mayor's car.

Horses are surprisingly high and broad when you think of sitting on them, and this one was the broadest I'd had a chance to ride, a cart horse. The attendant boosted me up and handed me the reins. As I tried to remember what my riding teacher had taught me about proper fingering, he led us to the curb; waited for a car to go by; crossed us to the legal side of the street for heading north. He said he'd meet us at Mass. Ave. Then he was gone.

I hadn't contracted to be in charge of the horse.

Paul Morris back in the car unleashed a classic wail on the siren.

I nearly fell off, but the horse was wonderfully lethargic, perhaps deaf. When my heart stopped pounding I had the problem of making it move. I kicked with my heels very gently so as not to stir it into a canter. Nothing happened. I kicked harder. When I kicked very hard indeed the saddle shifted under me and we moved north.

Behind us Paul drove the car at a snail's pace, and switched the black box over to the loud speaker.

"The highway is coming," his eerie voice said. He had been given a script and, though not enthusiastic, was game. "Citizens of Cambridge! Save our lives. The highway is coming."

Anyone who was listening, hiding in the houses, surely already knew that. Paul and I and the horse were putting on a show for a nonaudience. I was shivering, but at least there was little traffic and it was a pearl of a horse. It didn't trot, it didn't canter. Neither startling nor stopping, it walked straight ahead along the lane next to the parked cars where I would have pedaled my bicycle.

Sad Brookline Street, little houses, failing shops, failing businesses, for twenty years waiting to be taken for a highway.

"The ones with money sold out, left at the beginning," a neighbor had told me. "The ones whowere left behind had all they could do to keep their house. Because, you know why, the bank wouldn't lend you money to fix your house."

And certainly no one would buy it. There was nothing to do but wait for the state taking. I wondered, "Even if we stop the highway, can the area survive?"

At Mass. Ave. I was glad to see a policeman waiting to stop the cars and the horse's attendant waiting to take the reins and steer my friend left. Now in the busy shopping street there should have been an audience, but the rain fell heavier, chillier.

I waved up left to Eliot Spalding, who sat in the second-floor window of the "Chronicle," with the linotype machines whirring in a great loft behind him. He would give us a mention, but Cambridge already knew about the Belt.

A major traffic light. A minor one. City Hall.

The mayor's photographer, Ed Pacheco, ducked out of the sheltering entry and came down the stairs toward us. Snap snap snap snap snap. Ed Pacheco crouched and bounced on the stairs and sidewalk.

That was the point of the whole wet, lonely effort.

A chubby lady with a triumphant smile waved a revolutionary hat and stormed City Hall on a horse. The picture was odd enough to get into the "Boston Globe," which has readers from Connecticut to Maine. How many readers looked at it long enough to discover the message behind it. A hundred? A thousand? Ten?

'YOU THE MAYOR?" REVIEWED ON PAGE 5A

will recognize "novelistic qualities" in the final product.

Ackermann says she deliberately chose not to focus on such controversial issues as rent control or political patronage, opting to zero in on what she felt were the major issues of the radical '60s and early '70s: the schools, police department and public housing. She also wanted to explain how city government worked and failed, filling each chapter with colorful anecdotes, major political figures and everyday citizens so the book would have broad interest.

"There is this whole history behind you of unsatisfied people," she says in her soft-spoken voice. "The book was sort of an apology from that point of view ... that I wasn't always doing my best and that things don't always work out the way you want them to."

Ironically, Ackermann had never considered a life in politics.

The daughter of a foreign service officer, she spent her childhood in Ireland and France and eventually graduated from Smith College with a bachelor's degree in Greek and Latin. In the early 1950s, she moved to Cambridge with her husband, Paul Kurt Ackermann, who was getting his PhD at Harvard University and later became a professor at Boston University.

Ackermann had her heart set on being a writer of fiction. Frustrated in her effort to be published, she soon discovered the power of words in the political arena.

Not surprisingly, she made her entrance into politics through a successful neighborhood zoning battle that ended up in court. "I was hooked on this idea," she says, "that something could happen as a result of your actions."

With her two children enrolled in the city's public schools in the early 1960s, she became active in the PTA and also began writing articles on school issues for the "Cambridge Chronicle."

She soon found herself running for the school committee and drawing the attention of the liberal Cambridge Civic Association. Formed in the early 1940s by New Deal Democrats and progressive Republicans, the CCA seemed the perfect political match for Ackermann.

But initially she resisted the good-government group's overtures. Her first mentor, longtime CCA Councilor and Mayor Edward Crane, talked her into accepting the group's endorsement. He told her "to join the organization and then bend it from within."

After winning her first bid for the school committee in 1961, she sat on the panel for two more terms. And then she won her first bid for the city council in 1967.

Although she admits to being politically "naive" in her first council term, she started to develop a philosophy based on compassion for people of all walks of life.

Her heroes were Crane, a Harvard College and Law School graduate who was born in the city; former House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr., a son of working-class North Cambridge; and City Councilor Alfred E. Vellucci, the populist maverick of ethnic East Cambridge whom Ackermann always considered the "independent" Independent.

Although perceived as the quintessential "issue-oriented" CCA politician, Ackermann says she has more in common with the basic liberal principles of these three men. She's a great believer in the motto: "Get them the job, get them the house and get them health care."

"That's where I'm coming from," she said, stressing that her book focuses on the importance of education and equal opportunity for all.

Ackermann says she also takes pride in the fact that, in 1967, she was the first councilor to speak out against the war in Vietnam. She devotes a few chapters in her book to the peace demonstrations at Harvard College in the late '60s.

By 1972, Ackermann became the first woman councilor to be appointed mayor by her council colleagues. Under the city's Plan E form of government, which was adopted in 1943, the mayor's role is mostly ceremonial. The city manager has the authority to appoint almost all city employees and write up budget allocations for the various departments.

Citizens would often ask Ackermann, "You the Mayor?" and then request a favor to have snow removed from a certain street or to put in a good word for a municipal job. Because of the city's charter and her limited powers as mayor, she would always respond, "Ask the city manager."

To this day, she still believes in the Plan E form of government for Cambridge. "It has its drawbacks," Ackermann says. "But I think its advantages outweigh its drawbacks."

And she also believes in proportional representation, the city's unique form of voting. Nonetheless, she deliberately avoided discussing it in her book because, she says, "I wanted the book to be of interest to people who don't live here."

She also doesn't fling much dirt, not even at her independent adversaries on the council, because she says "that's not the point of the book."

As the first woman mayor of Cambridge, Ackermann drew a lot of headlines. But she modestly says now that she was not acutely aware of her unique role on the council, despite the emergence of the woman's movement at that time.

The biggest shock in her political career came in 1977, when she lost her seat on the city council. Admitting now that she took re-election for granted, her defeat marked the first time she had ever lost a race.

"It was a terrible surprise," she says. "I just expected to win."

Ackermann then ran as the "liberal" choice in the Democratic gubernatorial primary against incumbent Gov. Michael Dukakis and challenger Edward King in 1978. She ended up being perceived as a "spoiler" because she drew votes away from Dukakis, allowing the more conservative King to pull off an upset to become governor.

She says now that she has no regrets about her role in that bitter race. "I think it was a good thing for the state and a good thing for Dukakis," she says. "It has taken me a long time to come around to saying that."

Today, Ackermann keeps a much lower political profile. She sits on the Cambridge Health Policy Board, which creates policies for the municipal hospital and its neighborhood health centers.

And, because of that role, she makes one thing clear: "I'm not supporting anybody for city council."

NCC girls earn berth

History was made last weekend by the North Cambridge Catholic High School varsity girls basketball team.

With victories over St. Mary (Lynn) on Friday and Columbus on Sunday, the Lady Panthers improved their record to 11-4 and clinched a spot in the upcoming MIAA state tournament and Catholic Suburban League tournament. This is the first time the NCC girls basketball team has qualified for post-season tournament play.

NCC played its best game of the year in defeating St. Mary, 44-29. The teams were tied at 6 after one period.

The Lady Panthers took the lead early in the second quarter and never looked back. NCC built a lead of 18-11 by halftime and increased the margin to 32-18 entering the final stanza. Sharon Silva, Dee M'Causland, and Joanne Desrosiers led the scoring for NCC with 10 points each. Eva Ace scored 6 points, Rima Zahr pitched in with 4, and Shannon Dottin and Christine Hafey added 2 points each.

On Sunday, NCC travelled to Boston to face a tough Columbus squad, coached by former NCC basketball player Rile Rhodes. The Lady Panthers couldn't seem to get untracked in the first half and trailed 20-9 at the halftime break. Columbus maintained a comfortable margin through the third period and still led 25-16 entering the final period.

NCC's offense finally exploded in the fourth period, outscoring Columbus 20-6 on its way to a 36-31 victory. Eva Ace led the Panthers with 11 points, including a key three-point shot during the fourth quarter surge. Joanne Desrosiers added 10 points and pulled down 12 rebounds. Sharon Silva and Dee M'Causland scored 7 and 6 points respectively. Columbus's Sharon Fidler led all scorers with 21 points.

NCC, under second year coach Val Bonds, will finish its regular season with a 3:30 game on Friday against St. Clement at the Fitzgerald Gym on Rindge Avenue. The Lady Panthers will then prepare for next Tuesday's semifinal game in the Catholic Suburban League Tournament.

NCC squares against St. C's for tourney

North Cambridge Catholic-St. Clement's, one of the hottest boys high school basketball rivalries takes center stage tommorrow night. At stake for the Panthers versus their crosstown rivals is a chance at revenge and a piece of the Catholic Surburban League crown.

In their first meeting, St. Clement's (13-0 15-0) shocked NCC (11-1 14-2) with a 106-85 victory. For three quarters the game lived up to its billing. However in the fourth quarter NCC was besieged by foul trouble and self-destructed.

What at the time seemed like a devastating defeat, may have been a blessing in disguise. Since their last meeting, the Panthers have been "red hot", having rolled off an impressive string of eight consecutive victories by an average margin of 25 points.

"The St. Clement's game was a real eye opener for us. It cost us our top ten ranking, it dropped us into second place and it raised a lot of doubts about the character of our team. Our kids are upset and they're hungry. I don't think they're as concerned about the league title as they are with just beating St. Clement's," explained Head Coach Frank McGrail.

As if they need anymore, there will also be added incentive for seniors Scott Pugh, Henry Prophet, James Peachwall and Dwaine Lilley, as it will be the last time they don their NCC uniforms in a home game. "These four gentlemen have been a tribute to our program. They are an instrumental piece of the foundation for our success past, present and future."

This past week NCC defeated both Maimonidies and Mission. Against Maimonidies the Panthers were slow out of the box and only led 14-11 with a minute remaining in the first quarter. However in the last nine minutes of the half, the Panthers put on an incredible display of basketball. They outscored Maimonidies 43-13 in those nine minutes to take a 57-24 lead into the locker room at half-time.

In second half, NCC never looked back cruising to an easy 100-62 victory. Senior Scott Pugh led the Panthers with 27 points while fellow senior James Peachwall added a career high 8 points.

On Sunday, NCC held off Mission High School for a 77-67 victory. Both teams played hard as the tempo was fast and furious.

The Panthers, who trailed briefly (12-11), never reached a comfort zone in the game. Despite trailing by as much as 16 points in the second half, Mission never quit.

In the end, however, NCC just had too many weapons for Mission to handle. Junior Jon Ace led the Panthers with 18 points and 12 rebounds. Scott Pugh added 16 points and 12 rebounds. Scott Pugh added 16 points and 10 rebounds while Henry Prophet and sophomore Lorenzo Gross added 14 and 13 points respectively.

Tomorrow night's showdown begins at 8 p.m. at the M.E. Fitzgerald School on Rindge avenue. Due to the large crowd that witnessed the last game, it is expected that there will be a larger crowd tomorrow. Thus, it is advisable that you get here as early as possible.

Exercise class for mothers set

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY
By Dan and Joetta Silva
Silva Realty Associates

IS IT TIME TO TAKE THE PLUNGE?

Your landlord just sent you a notice that he's increasing your rent, and it's the last straw! You sit down, go over your finances, and begin to think that this might be the right time to stop paying rent and get a place of your own. It makes you nervous, and you don't have a lot of ready cash for the down payment and closing costs. This is a perfect time to sit down with a good agent to talk about the possibilities.

We've helped a lot of people buy their first homes, and we know all of the tricks that can make it happen. If you're low on cash there might be a perfect FHA or other government program that can help you purchase with limited funds. An adjustable rate mortgage can ease the strain of your first mortgage payments. You might be pleasantly surprised when the agent shows you how your tax savings can reduce the costs of ownership, making the monthly payments comparable to the rent you now give your landlord. Then there's the equity you'll build as the property increases in value over the years.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate professionals at Silva Realty Associates are ready to serve you. Call us at 661-2525 in Cambridge.

He said he wouldn't.

He listened politely. He said the Inner Belt was needed.

I thought, "Here speaks the rest of the state. If we can't even persuade this nice man..."

The Paul Revere ride was another part of the public relations.

It took place in a thin chilly rain. I hoped the rented tricorne wouldn't melt. Like a child on a New England Halloween, I was bulky in extra sweaters under my white shirt and tan jerkin.

My horse was waiting in Hastings Park where Brookline Street meets the river; around it stubborn homeowners were still keeping their gardens nice. To the north and west spread mixed residential and small business. To the east industry began with a Polaroid plant.

The horse was accompanied by a silent attendant and I by Paul Morris, the mayor's secretary, driving the mayor's car.

Horses are surprisingly high and broad when you think of sitting on them, and this one was the broadest I'd had a chance to ride, a cart horse. The attendant boosted me up and handed me the reins. As I tried to remember what my riding teacher had taught me about proper fingering, he led us to the curb; waited for a car to go by; crossed us to the legal side of the street for heading north. He said he'd meet us at Mass. Ave. Then he was gone.

I hadn't contracted to be in charge of the horse.

Paul Morris back in the car unleashed a classic wail on the siren.

I nearly fell off, but the horse was wonderfully lethargic, perhaps deaf. When my heart stopped pounding I had the problem of making it move. I kicked with my heels very gently so as not to stir it into a canter. Nothing happened. I kicked harder. When I kicked very hard indeed the saddle shifted under me and we moved north.

Behind us Paul drove the car at a snail's pace, and switched the black box over to the loud speaker.

"The highway is coming," his eerie voice said. He had been given a script and, though not enthusiastic, was game. "Citizens of Cambridge! Save our cities. The highway is coming."

Anyone who was listening, hiding in the houses, surely already knew that. Paul and I and the horse were putting on a show for a nonaudience. I was shivering, but at least there was little traffic and it was a pearl of a horse. It didn't trot, it didn't canter. Neither startling nor stepping, it walked straight ahead along the lane next to the parked cars where I would have pedaled my bicycle.

Sad Brookline Street, little houses, failing shops, failing businesses, for twenty years waiting to be taken for a highway.

"The ones with money sold out, left at the beginning," a neighbor had told me. "The ones who were left behind had all they could do to keep their house. Because, you know why, the bank wouldn't lend you money to fix your house."

And certainly no one would buy it. There was nothing to do but wait for the state taking. I wondered, "Even if we stop the highway, can the area survive?"

At Mass. Ave. I was glad to see a policeman waiting to stop the cars and the horse's attendant waiting to take the reins and steer my friend left. Now in the busy shopping street there should have been an audience, but the rain fell heavier, chillier.

I waved up left to Eliot Spalding, who sat in the second-floor window of the "Chronicle," with the linotype machines whirring in a great loft behind him. He would give us a mention, but Cambridge already knew about the Belt.

A major traffic light. A minor one. City Hall.

The mayor's photographer, Ed Pacheco, ducked out of the sheltering entry and came down the stairs toward us. Snap snap snap snap snap. Ed Pacheco crouched and bounced on the stairs and sidewalk.

That was the point of the whole wet, lonely effort.

A chubby lady with a triumphant smile waved a revolutionary hat and stormed City Hall on a horse. The picture was odd enough to get into the "Boston Globe," which has readers from Connecticut to Maine. How many readers looked at it long enough to discover the message behind it. A hundred? A thousand? Ten?

'YOU THE MAYOR?' REVIEWED ON PAGE 5A

will recognize "novelistic qualities" in the final product.

Ackermann says she deliberately chose not to focus on such controversial issues as rent control or political patronage, opting to zero in on what she felt were the major issues of the radical '60s and early '70s: the schools, police department and public housing. She also wanted to explain how city government worked and failed, filling each chapter with colorful anecdotes, major political figures and everyday citizens so the book would have broad interest.

"There is this whole history behind you of unsatisfied people," she says in her soft-spoken voice. "The book was sort of an apology from that point of view ... that I wasn't always doing my best and that things don't always work out the way you want them to."

Ironically, Ackermann had never considered a life in politics.

The daughter of a foreign service officer, she spent her childhood in Ireland and France and eventually graduated from Smith College with a bachelor's degree in Greek and Latin. In the early 1950s, she moved to Cambridge with her husband, Paul Kurt Ackermann, who was getting his PhD at Harvard University and later became a professor at Boston University.

Ackermann had her heart set on being a writer of fiction. Frustrated in her effort to be published, she soon discovered the power of words in the political arena.

Not surprisingly, she made her entrance into politics through a successful neighborhood zoning battle that ended up in court. "I was hooked on this idea," she says, "that something could happen as a result of your actions."

With her two children enrolled in the city's public schools in the early 1960s, she became active in the PTA and also began writing articles on school issues for the "Cambridge Chronicle."

She soon found herself running for the school committee and drawing the attention of the liberal Cambridge Civic Association. Formed in the early 1940s by New Deal Democrats and progressive Republicans, the CCA seemed the perfect political match for Ackermann.

But initially she resisted the good-government group's overtures. Her first mentor, longtime CCA Councilor and Mayor Edward Crane, talked her into accepting the group's endorsement. He told her "to join the organization and then bend it from within."

After winning her first bid for the school committee in 1961, she sat on the panel for two more terms. And then she won her first bid for the city council in 1967.

Although she admits to being politically "naive" in her first council term, she started to develop a philosophy based on compassion for people of all walks of life.

Her heroes were Crane, a Harvard College and Law School graduate who was born in the city; former House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr., a son of working-class North Cambridge; and City Councilor Alfred E. Vellucci, the populist maverick of ethnic East Cambridge whom Ackermann always considered the "independent" Independent.

Although perceived as the quintessential "issue-oriented" CCA politician, Ackermann says she has more in common with the basic liberal principles of these three men. She's a great believer in the motto: "Get them the job, get them the house and get them health care."

"That's where I'm coming from," she said, stressing that her book focuses on the importance of education and equal opportunity for all.

Ackermann says she also takes pride in the fact that, in 1967, she was the first councilor to speak out against the war in Vietnam. She devotes a few chapters in her book to the peace demonstrations at Harvard College in the late '60s.

By 1972, Ackermann became the first woman councilor to be appointed mayor by her council colleagues. Under the city's Plan E form of government, which was adopted in 1943, the mayor's role is mostly ceremonial. The city manager has the authority to appoint almost all city employees and write up budget allocations for the various departments.

Citizens would often ask Ackermann, "You the Mayor?" and then request a favor to have snow removed from a certain street or to put in a good word for a municipal job. Because of the city's charter and her limited powers as mayor, she would always respond, "Ask the city manager."

To this day, she still believes in the Plan E form of government for Cambridge. "It has its drawbacks," Ackermann says. "But I think its advantages outweigh its drawbacks."

And she also believes in proportional representation, the city's unique form of voting. Nonetheless, she deliberately avoided discussing it in her book because, she says, "I wanted the book to be of interest to people who don't live here."

She also doesn't fling much dirt, not even at her independent adversaries on the council, because she says "that's not the point of the book."

As the first woman mayor of Cambridge, Ackermann drew a lot of headlines. But she modestly says now that she was not acutely aware of her unique role on the council, despite the emergence of the woman's movement at that time.

The biggest shock in her political career came in 1977, when she lost her seat on the city council. Admitting now that she took re-election for granted, her defeat marked the first time she had ever lost a race.

"It was a terrible surprise," she says. "I just expected to win."

Ackermann then ran as the "liberal" choice in the Democratic gubernatorial primary against incumbent Gov. Michael Dukakis and challenger Edward King in 1978. She ended up being perceived as a "spoiler" because she drew votes away from Dukakis, allowing the more conservative King to pull off an upset to become governor.

She says now that she has no regrets about her role in that bitter race. "I think it was a good thing for the state and a good thing for Dukakis," she says. "It has taken me a long time to come around to saying that."

Today, Ackermann keeps a much lower political profile. She sits on the Cambridge Health Policy Board, which creates policies for the municipal hospital and its neighborhood health centers.

And, because of that role, she makes one thing clear: "I'm not supporting anybody for city council."

Hospital honors volunteers

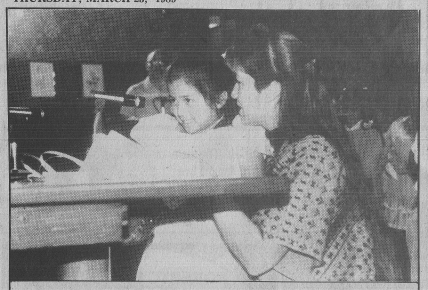

Twenty-four Cambridge residents received special recognition for their service to Youville Hospital and Rehabilitation Center at a volunteer luncheon held there recently.

The residents were among a group of 80 volunteers who collectively contributed more than 12,000 hours to Youville over the past year. The volunteers' duties ranged from visiting patients and assisting them at mealtimes to transporting wheelchair patients to in-house therapy treatments and social events.

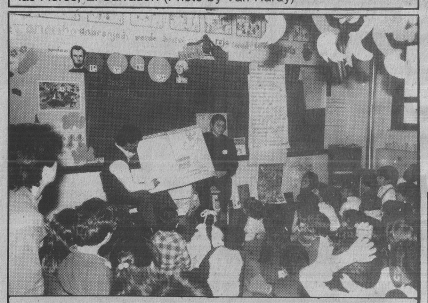

Cambridge volunteers who were honored are: Renee Arb, Helen Beacham, Agnes Breen, Mala Conrad, Theresa Costa, Tom Calabrese, William & Dorothy Cremins, Olive Dottin, Edith Keach, Robert Degregorio, James Dinsmore, Bernard Fang, Mary Gravelese, Florence Judge, Alexandar Kelley, Richard Kougeas, Dorothea McGee, Margaret Mulhern, Timothy O'Leary, Jane Richards, Frances Ronan, Gertrude Rynn, Loretta Tower and Keith Adams.

Youville Hospital and Rehabilitation Center is a 305-bed health care institution in Cambridge serving the specialized needs of the medically ill requiring long-term hospitalization and the disabled undergoing intensive rehabilitation.

If you're interested in becoming a volunteer at Youville, call the volunteer department at 876-4344, ext. 525.

'89 River Festival announced

Join the Cambridge Arts Council in a citywide celebration of the arts, music and culture the weekend of June 2, 3, and 4. The Annual River Festival will be packed with a wide variety of free entertainment and events which will take place throughout the city of Cambridge.

The Festival will commence on Friday, June 2, with the Opening Ceremony at City Hall in Central Square, followed by a sample of the performances to be featured throughout the weekend. That afternoon, the finals of the 3rd Annual Lotus Cup Canoe Race are scheduled to take place in Lechmere Canal Park, and a puppet performance will take place in a location to be announced.

The evening will come alive with the sounds of the Caribbean Festival, featuring calypso, reggae, and latin music, with dancing performances and island food and crafts.

Festival Day, June 3, will feature the Annual Festival Day Parade along the streets of Cambridge with marching units, a variety of vehicles and parade floats, colorful banners and balloons, bicycles and horses. The parade will culminate on Memorial Drive, with a reviewing stand located near the Weeks Footbridge.

After the parade cools down, the atmosphere will warm up with a wealth of music and dance performances taking place on three river-side stages. Some of the performers will include: jazz vocalist Semenya McCord, Bolivian music by Fortaleza, Irish folk provided by Northeast Winds, traditional New England music by Margaret MacArthur and Family, and ballads sung by the team of Roberts & Barrand. The evening will close with an "East Meets West" jazz jam with David Azaryan Trio from Armenia combining forces with an area jazz group.

For those seeking a relaxed atmosphere, the Weld Boathouse stage will feature more intimate performances by jazz and folk musicians. Jazz-Harp is scheduled to play, along with a wide variety of performers from the New England area.

The events on Saturday, June 3, will take place on Memorial Drive between JFK Boulevard and Western Avenue, with additional entertainment scheduled for various locations throughout Cambridge. All events are free and open to the public. For more information, contact the Cambridge Arts Council at 498-9033.

School hosts play on Maria Baldwin

The Agassiz Afterschool Players will perform an original theatre piece entitled "Miss Baldwin of Agassiz" on Saturday, April 8 at 7:30 pm at The Agassiz School, 28 Sacramento St.

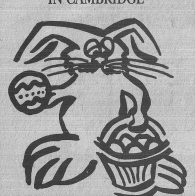

The work is based on the life of Maria Baldwin (1852-1922), the first black headmistress in Cambridge who devoted forty years of service to The Agassiz School. The school was recently awarded $20,000 from the City of Cambridge for necessary building repairs, and a significant portion of these funds will be allocated to Baldwin Hall where the play will be conducted.

"Miss Baldwin of Agassiz" is the result of a collaborative effort by Playwright/Director Carol Hantman and the 17 young people, ages 9-12, who have been participants in an eight week afterschool drama program. Hantman has worked with the Agassiz Players in the past, and the 1988 production of "Graffiti" was an overwhelming success.

Both "Graffiti" and "Miss Baldwin of Agassiz" are representative of a larger project sponsored by The Agassiz Neighborhood Council that is designed to increase awareness of the neighborhood's rich historical cultural diversity. This project was initiated in response to a racial incident that involved large scale graffiti on the exterior walls of The Agassiz School that was discovered on Christmas Day of 1987.

Admission to the upcoming production of "Miss Baldwin of Agassiz" is free.

'89 River Festival announced

Join the Cambridge Arts Council in a citywide celebration of the arts, music and culture the weekend of June 2, 3, and 4. The Annual River Festival will be packed with a wide variety of free entertainment and events which will take place throughout the city of Cambridge.

The Festival will commence on Friday, June 2, with the Opening Ceremony at City Hall in Central Square, followed by a sample of the performances to be featured throughout the weekend. That afternoon, the finals of the 3rd Annual Lotus Cup Canoe Race are scheduled to take place in Lechmere Canal Park, and a puppet performance will take place in a location to be announced.

The evening will come alive with the sounds of the Caribbean Festival, featuring calypso, reggae, and latin music, with dancing performances and island food and crafts.

Festival Day, June 3, will feature the Annual Festival Day Parade along the streets of Cambridge with marching units, a variety of vehicles and parade floats, colorful banners and balloons, bicycles and horses. The parade will culminate on Memorial Drive, with a reviewing stand located near the Weeks Footbridge.

After the parade cools down, the atmosphere will warm up with a wealth of music and dance performances taking place on three river-side stages. Some of the performers will include: jazz vocalist Semenya McCord, Bolivian music by Fortaleza, Irish folk provided by Northeast Winds, traditional New England music by Margaret MacArthur and Family, and ballads sung by the team of Roberts & Barrand. The evening will close with an "East Meets West" jazz jam with David Azaryan Trio from Armenia combining forces with an area jazz group.

For those seeking a relaxed atmosphere, the Weld Boathouse stage will feature more intimate performances by jazz and folk musicians. Jazz-Harp is scheduled to play, along with a wide variety of performers from the New England area.

The events on Saturday, June 3, will take place on Memorial Drive between JFK Boulevard and Western Avenue, with additional entertainment scheduled for various locations throughout Cambridge. All events are free and open to the public. For more information, contact the Cambridge Arts Council at 498-9033.

School hosts play on Maria Baldwin

The Agassiz Afterschool Players will perform an original theatre piece entitled "Miss Baldwin of Agassiz" on Saturday, April 8 at 7:30 pm at The Agassiz School, 28 Sacramento St.

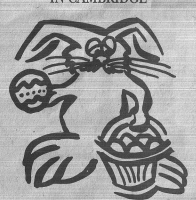

The work is based on the life of Maria Baldwin (1852-1922), the first black headmistress in Cambridge who devoted forty years of service to The Agassiz School. The school was recently awarded $20,000 from the City of Cambridge for necessary building repairs, and a significant portion of these funds will be allocated to Baldwin Hall where the play will be conducted.

"Miss Baldwin of Agassiz" is the result of a collaborative effort by Playwright/Director Carol Hantman and the 17 young people, ages 9-12, who have been participants in an eight week afterschool drama program. Hantman has worked with the Agassiz Players in the past, and the 1988 production of "Graffiti" was an overwhelming success.

Both "Graffiti" and "Miss Baldwin of Agassiz" are representative of a larger project sponsored by The Agassiz Neighborhood Council that is designed to increase awareness of the neighborhood's rich historical cultural diversity. This project was initiated in response to a racial incident that involved large scale graffiti on the exterior walls of The Agassiz School that was discovered on Christmas Day of 1987.

Admission to the upcoming production of "Miss Baldwin of Agassiz" is free.

The evening will close with an "East Meets West" jazz jam with David Azaryan Trio from Armenia combining forces with an area jazz group.

For those seeking a relaxed atmosphere, the Weld Boathouse stage will feature more intimate performances by jazz and folk musicians. Jazz-Harp is scheduled to play, along with a wide variety of performers from the New England area.

The events on Saturday, June, 3, will take place on Memorial Drive between JFK Boulevard and Western Avenue, with additional entertainment scheduled for various locations throughout Cambridge. School hosts play on Maria Baldwin

The Agassiz Afterschool Players will perform an original theatre piece entitled "Miss Baldwin of Agassiz" on Saturday, April 8 at 7:30 pm at The Agassiz School, 28 Sacramento St.

The work is based on the life of Maria Baldwin (1852-1922), the first black headmistress in Cambridge who devoted forty years of service to The Agassiz School. The school was recently awarded $20,000 from the City of Cambridge for necessary building repairs, and a significant portion of these funds will be allocated to Baldwin Hall where the play will be conducted.

"Miss Baldwin of Agassiz" is the result of a collaborative effort by Playwright/Director Carol Hantman and the 17 young people, ages 9-12, who have been participants in an eight week afterschool drama program. Hantman has worked with the Agassiz Players in the past, and the 1988 production of "Graffiti" was an overwhelming success.

Both "Graffiti" and "Miss Baldwin of Agassiz" are representative of a larger project sponsored by The Agassiz Neighborhood Council that is designed to increase awareness of the neighborhood's rich historical cultural diversity. This project was initiated in response to a racial incident that involved large scale graffiti on the exterior walls of The Agassiz School that was discovered on Christmas Day of 1987.

Admission to the upcoming production of "Miss Baldwin of Agassiz" is free.
