Sadie Shoer marks birthday

On March 27, 1988, a Surprise 90th birthday party was held for Sadie F. Shoer of Cambridge.

Sadie was totally surprised as her family arrived at her home to help her celebrate this very happy occasion.

Helping with the festivities were her three daughters, Dee, Rona and Dorie, her seven grandchildren, Robin and her friend Ronnie, Wayne and his wife Mary Ellen, Mark, Harriet and her husband Michael, Barry, Alaina and her fiance Joe and Michele and her husband, Peter.

Sadie's great grandchildren, Joshua, Lincoln, Erin, Heather, Kathy, Matthew, Aaron and Joey, were there too, to sing "Happy Birthday" to "Ma", as the family affectionately call Sadie.

Sending their love and heartiest congratulations, but unable to attend, were son-in-law, Gene (Rona's husband), Mark's wife Marilyn and Mark's other two offspring, Jacqui and Gene Alan.

All enjoyed a beautiful afternoon with Sadie ("Ma") as she opened her many cards, admired the beautiful floral arrangements.

Girl Scouts to aid elders' food pantry

On Saturday, April 8, 1988 the Cambridge Girl Scouts will be out in full force at the two Stop and Shop Stores in Cambridge, and at Johnny's Foodmaster on Beacon street collecting food for the Senior Citizen Food Pantry at the Cambridge Committee of Elders.

Last year the Cambridge Girl Scouts started the Food Pantry for Elders at Pearl street with their first food drive in April.

"The food pantry for seniors serves 160 senior citizens," says Florinda Pla, senior aide and supervisor of the pantry. To be eligible to use the food pantry, you must be a Cambridge resident, over 55 years old, and your income must be less than $7,000 yearly.

The food pantry is open Tuesday and Thursday, 1 to 4 pm. Seniors who are eligible to get food from the pantry may come once a week.

"This service project started as a gift of service to Cambridge during the 75th anniversary year of Girl Scouting last year," said Mary Ann Savilonis, service unit chairman for the Cambridge Girl Scouts.

Curb cut at last

neighborhood and take away another parking space on Dana street.

Hiller, who celebrated her 51st birthday the day after the council vote, said she is just happy the process is over and eager to get the driveway built. In recent years she has undergone three serious operations and suffers from a hip problem that forces her to walk with a cane. Last May she retired after teaching art for 23 years in the Weston school system.

She wants the driveway built so she can park her car at the rear of the building and to use the back steps. She currently drives a car with registered handicapped plates but parks it in rented space nearby. She says her back stairs may someday become a ramp for a wheelchair if her health worsens.

"I'm just very happy with the decision," Hiller said in an interview at her home. "It renewed my faith in the democratic process. It got so involved but I'm glad it's over."

Why did it take the city nearly five years to approve the curb cut?

When Hiller first requested the curb cub in October 1983 it was approved by the four city departments that oversee curb cuts — public works, the historical commission, the traffic and parking department and the inspectional services department.

Under the process, the reuest was then sent to the neighborhood association — in this case the intensely active Mid-Cambridge Neighborhood Association.

As is often the case for curb cuts, the neighborhood association disapproved and Hiller's request was tabled. Neighborhood residents — including Hiller's next door neighbors — were concerned that a driveway would strip the street of an already decreasing number of on-street parking spaces. They also worried that it would be to close to the intersection of Dana street and Broadway and could cause traffic problems.

Soon afterward, the city's inspectional services department changed its opinion on the curb cut. A debate ensued, another inspection of the site was done, and in February 1986 the inspectional services department said it could not rule on the curb cut because of possible zoning complications. The matter was then referred to the city's board of zoning appeals.

The turning point in this tale of debates, tablings and bureaucratic wrangling was an inspection of the site by architect Jack Joseph in December 1986. Joseph reported that the building fit zoning regulations and therefore the curb cut would be legal. In October 1987, the city's inspectional services department then reapproved Hiller's curb cut request based on Joseph's findings.

This February, Hiller applied for a hearing on her curb cut request and this week it was finally granted.

Since she first filed her request, Hiller has kept the case's growing number of documents in an orange folder. This week, she said with relief, she may finally be able to put the folder away.

"The chapters developed over time and now it's like a book," she said, clutching the two-inch thick folder. "I'm just proud of all the councilors and the people who helped."

RENTING YOUR HOME
Often, our clients have second thoughts about selling their homes, especially if they don't need the equity to complete the purchase of a new one. "We'll just hang on to it and rent it out," they say. While rental real estate is almost always a good investment, be sure you understand all of the consequences before you become a landlord.
Remember that tenants may not share your pride of ownership, and they are sometimes rough on property. You should also acquaint yourself with state or local landlord/tenant laws, including those dealing with rent control and eviction procedures. Finally, if you are planning to rent a home that can be used as your primary residence, you could lose the benefits of your capitol gains deferral if you sell it a few years from now. Before you make a decision about turning your home into a rental property, it's a good idea to get professional advice, both from a tax expert and from your Realtor.

CITY OF CAMBRIDGE OFFICIAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given pursuant to St. 1976, c. 36 (the Rent Control Act) s. 7 that the Cambridge Rent Control Board will hold a public hearing on Monday, April 11, 1988 from 7:00 - 10:00 p.m. at the Cambridge Rindge and Latin High School main cafeteria to consider general adjustments by percentage of the legal maximum rents of all controlled rental units within the City of Cambridge on account of:

1. Increases and decreases in real estate taxes due to revaluation and changes in tax rate;
2. Increases and decreases in heating expenses, including a consideration of energy efficiency of buildings;
3. Increases and decreases in other operating expenses including payroll, utilities, water and sewer, maintenance and insurance; and
4. Adjustments of net operating income.

The Board will consider the establishment of such classes as will ensure the accurate apportionment of expense or income changes, including changes in real estate taxes due to revaluation, taking account of those buildings which have received individual rent adjustments.

The Board will consider procedures to ensure that energy conservation efforts are being undertaken by owners to lessen the impact of heat expense increases. The Board may establish classes based on conservation methods. The Board will also consider classifying buildings according to whether heat is supplied by the landlord or tenant.

In considering a general adjustment the Board will receive information on increases and decreases in operating costs and net operating income. The Board will also receive information on possible energy conservation measures which may be incorporated into any general adjustment.

Following the Public Hearing, the Board will determine the need for a general adjustment. If it is determined that a general adjustment is necessary, the Board will determine that a general adjustment is necessary, the Board will determine the method of adjusting rents by general adjustment and promulgate a regulation to that effect.

The Board desires to receive written presentations on the issues to be raised at the public hearing. Persons unable to attend the hearing may send written material to the Rent Control office during working hours.

All persons wishing to address the Board may submit their names and addresses prior to the public hearing and indicate if they wish to appear in opposition to or in favor of a general adjustment. Persons submitting their names and addresses prior to the hearing shall be heard first by the Board. Persons wishing to address the Board should contact Laurie Goetz at the Board's office prior to the hearing.

Please make all inquiries to the Rent Control Board at telephone number 498-9077 or at the Board's office at 678 Massachusetts Avenue, 5th Floor, Cambridge, MA 02139.

CRLS receives high-tech materials for robotics class

What would you do with a million resistors, 83,000 capacitors, and 50,000 integrated circuits? Rindge Technical Vocational students at Cambridge Rindge and Latin have the answer.

Rindge recently received over $150,000 worth of items ranging from potentiometers to transistors from EG&G Systems, thanks to Associate General Manager Fred Centanni. Centanni, a graduate of the Thorndike (now Kennedy) Elementary School, Cambridge High and Latin and M.I.T., donated the high tech equipment to his alma mater to, "assist the high school to keep current with the latest high tech materials."

"Our new robotics course will put the material to good use," noted Rindge Tech Vocational Director Karen Prentice.

The robotics program brings students into contact with the intricacies of designing and manufacturing a computer and remote controlled mechanisms. Prentice said that students design and create robots in preparation of the growing use of remote controlled devices in manufacturing, space science and the military.

The Centanni family of East Cambridge has long been a strong supporter of public education in Cambridge.

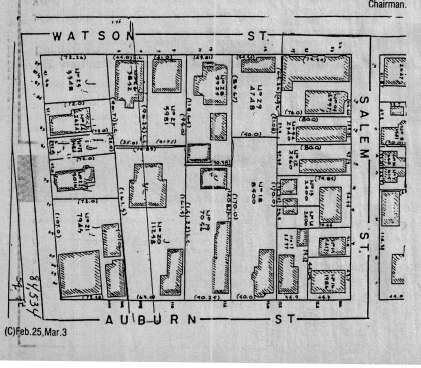

The late Fred Centanni Sr. and his wife Millie, both graduates of the city's public schools, took an active part in school activities during the late 60's and early 70's, assisting school administrators in quelling high school disturbances and involving other parents in school activities.

Fred Centanni, Jr. graduated from Cambridge High and Latin School with scholarships to MIT, and has risen to the position of associate general manager at EG&G. His son Fred has captured science prizes at Cambridge Rindge and Latin School during the past two years, and appears to be following in his father's and grandfather's footsteps.

Sadie Shoer marks birthday

On March 27, 1988, a Surprise 90th birthday party was held for Sadie F. Shoer of Cambridge.

Sadie was totally surprised as her family arrived at her home to help her celebrate this very happy occasion.

Helping with the festivities were her three daughters, Dee, Rona and Dorie, her seven grandchildren, Robin and her friend Ronnie, Wayne and his wife Mary Ellen, Mark, Harriet and her husband Michael, Barry, Alaina and her fiance Joe and Michele and her husband, Peter.

Sadie's great grandchildren, Joshua, Lincoln, Erin, Heather, Kathy, Matthew, Aaron and Joey, were there too, to sing "Happy Birthday" to "Ma", as the family affectionately call Sadie.

Sending their love and heartiest congratulations, but unable to attend, were son-in-law, Gene (Rona's husband), Mark's wife Marilyn and Mark's other two offspring, Jacqui and Gene Alan.

All enjoyed a beautiful afternoon with Sadie ("Ma") as she opened her many cards, admired the beautiful floral arrangements.

Believe it or not, 'meter maids' find much to smile about

By Jane Thurman
Staff writer

Nancy Sweeney is wearing the old style meter maid hat — the navy blue boxy crown is pinned with a badge and has a white brim. Although she has been with the city's traffic department for 14 years, her son's friends still ask, "Doesn't your mother have a problem out there because she's so small?"

But at 7 am, the start of the day shift, after making out reports from the previous day's tickets, Sweeney is ready to go out on the street with the other parking control officers. She is carrying three pads of tickets and a navy blue clutch purse.

"You're not allowed to carry a shoulder bag because we've had cases of pinched nerves," explains Sweeney, who was promoted to day-shift supervisor in December.

Sweeney knows the business and has paid her dues during her tenure with the Department of Traffic and Parking. She has been punched in the chest twice, both times by men who were ticketed for one of the offenses engendered by the parking regulations of Cambridge.

Sweeney, who is five feet tall, explains, "There's being abused and there's being abusive. One guy who hit me, his van was double-parked. They made his life pretty miserable. They made him come into the office five times."

"(Irate motorists) are very sexist," adds Sweeney, "They never say to a guy what they say to a woman."

Yet, Sweeney likes her job.

This particular day she is assigned to the Mid-Cambridge area with Cathy Wells, a parking control officer who has been on the job for four years. Wells, a good ten inches taller than Sweeney, has never been hit on the job. But like everyone else, Wells gets her share of verbal abuse.

"You'd be surprised," says Wells, "Some people thank you, and others, well they're not so nice."

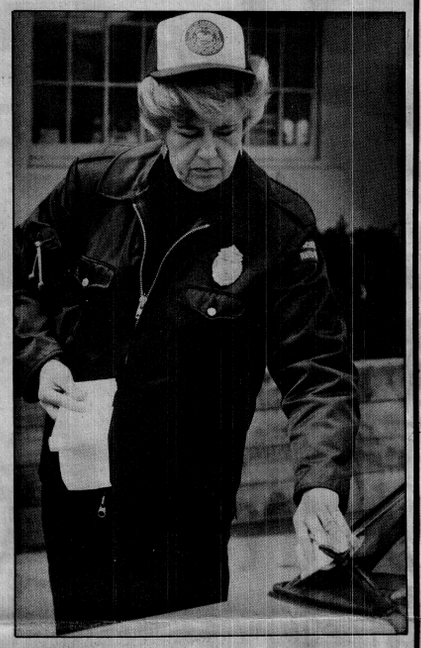

The route begins by walking along Kirkland street. This is the job: staring at a street's two sides of parked cars and issuing tickets. They are on the sidewalk for only a few seconds when a bearded man wearing jeans and a t-shirt rushes up to them eagerly.

"Good morning, ladies. I'm going to be the first one you get," he says. "I'm just going into a house here to get a permit."

"Okay." They smile. His vehicle is left untouched. They've heard every excuse, but it still amuses Sweeney to hear "the first one you get."

Wait, isn't that an out-of-state black BMW parked without a

PARKING CONTROL Officer Cathy Wells says working Mass. avenue keeps her particularly busy. Parking Control Officers, popularly known at "meter maids," may help ensure street parking for city residents but they're not exactly among the city's best-loved employees.(Staff photo by Carolyn Hine)

We look for cars without parking stickers, or permits in residential areas, people abusing visitor passes, like parking in Cambridge and going to work somewhere else. You get to know the cars after four or five days. You really do.

City budget proposal means 'slight' tax hike

By J. Barry Mothes
Staff writer

There will be (a tax) increase, but the majority of (spending) increases will be covered by new construction.
Robert Healy
City manager

City Manager Robert Healy is proposing a $216.2 million city budget for fiscal year 1989 that calls for no new or significantly expanded programs and should cause only "a slight increase" for Cambridge homeowners facing tax bills this fall.

The proposed $216.2 million budget represents a $16.5 million, or 8.3 percent, increase over last year's final budget.

The estimated tax levy for the upcoming fiscal year (July 1, 1988 to June 30, 1989) is $93.5 million dollars — a $6.6 million increase over the actual figure for fiscal year 1988.

Despite those dramatic increases, Healy said Cambridge homeowners will be spared the bulk of the burden. He said most of the proposed $6.6 million in new taxes will be paid by taxes from new construction in the city. He estimates that new properties in Cambridge will pay about $3.7 million in new taxes in fiscal year 1989.

"There will be an increase" for Cambridge homeowners, Healy said. "But the majority of increases are covered by new construction. It (homeowners tax rate) will be about the same as last year."

Cambridge homeowners were billed $9.80 per $1,000 of assessed valuation on their fiscal 1988 property tax bills. While that represented a penny less than fiscal 1987 tax rates, Cambridge homowners have faced significantly higher property taxes since the mid-1980s because of sharply rising property values.

Healy said he could not predict an exact tax rate for

MIT accepts rent board order on Blanche street

By J. Barry Mothes

In a key move for its $250-million high-tech University Park proposal, MIT this week agreed to build six new rent-control apartments for the city in return for removing five run-down rent-control buildings from the proposed development site.

The five buildings now sit on the proposed site of a 350-room hotel and conference center. Their removal is considered vital to MIT and Forest City's 27-acre development proposed for the former Simplex site in Cambridgeport. Two of the buildings are now occupied and three are vacant.

By agreeing to build six new rent-control units — as requested by the city's Rent Control Board March 16 — MIT can now follow through with its plans to demolish three of the houses and relocate the other two.

MIT Spokesperson Walter Milne said the demolition and relocation will probably begin this summer.

MIT has already agreed to renovate six rent-control units in the two relocated houses and to provide six rent-control units to replace the six that will be lost when the three run-down buildings are demolished. MIT also offered to build six new market-rate apartments.

But the city's rent control board voted March 16 to require MIT to build six additional rent-control units in return for removing the five run-down houses. MIT formally accepted the conditions April 4.

Under the agreement, MIT must now build six new two-bedroom rent-control units on the corner of Brookline and Pacific streets by April 4, 1989.

MIT will now demolish six units at 46, 52, and 56-58 Blanche St. and replace them by putting six unregulated units of student/faculty housing on rent control.

In addition, MIT plans to relocate the other two houses to lots on Brookline and Franklin streets. MIT must renovate those units and provide temporary housing for the four tenants now in the two buildings until renovations are completed.

There may be more controversy on the horizon however. Tenant activists, who have urged the board all along to reject MIT's request to move the houses, have said they will appeal the board's March 16 decision.

And Scott Lewis, an attorney for MIT, this week challenged the accuracy of the Notice of Ruling based on the Board's March 16 hearing. Lewis said the conditions to which MIT agreed this week are not necessarily the ones voted by the board March 16. He has urged a meeting between MIT and the board.

CRLS teams gear up for spring

By J. Barry Mothes
Staff writer

Hope springs eternal for hundreds of Cambridge Rindge and Latin athletes as they open their 1988 spring sports schedules this week.

The boys' baseball, girls' softball, boys' volleyball and boys' and girls' track teams all swing into action this week (see sports docket inside), while the boys' and girls' tennis teams open their seasons later this month.

This week the "Chronicle" takes a look at the boys' and girls' track teams, the girls' softball team and the boys' volleyball team. Next week, the boys' baseball and boys' and girls' tennis teams will be previewed.

Boys' track

Regardless of the season, if there's a championship floating around chances are the Cambridge Rindge and Latin boys' track team is going to be in the hunt — if not the outright winner.

This spring looks like no exception as Coach Frank McCarthy has a group of outstanding performers — all of whom were members of McCarthy's state champion indoor track team this winter — to defend last year's state title.

The team is expected to battle with Brockton for the Suburban League title — where a team with fewer members like the Warriors gets "out-depthed" in dual and three-way meets. But McCarthy predicts the team will contend for the state title in May.

As usual, the Warriors have exceptional, nationally-recognized talent that will carry them far in the larger championship meets. The problem, if any, will be depth during the league meets.

4½ years later, curb cut okayed

By J. Barry Mothes
Staff writer

Ruth Hiller didn't know a thing about Cambridge politics when she bought an apartment in a handsome three-family brick building on Broadway in September 1983.

Then in October 1983 she applied for a curb cut to build a small driveway at the rear of the building, and the lesson began.

This week, four and a half years later, the Cambridge City Council unanimously granted Hiller's request for a curb cut on Dana street.

A public hearing scheduled this week on Hiller's request became a mere formality, as the council quickly granted her request. Two neighborhood residents testified against the request before this week's council vote, saying a curb cut would harm the "aesthetic" value of the building and the

Downzoning plan for Harvard Sq. filed

By Jay Weaver
Staff writer

If a new downzoning proposal for Harvard Square passes, it would cut almost in half the current value of several properties in the area.

The Coalition for Harvard Square, the new neighborhood group that recently filed the downzoning petition, says the new plan would reduce large commercial development and promote housing. The plan would make the Harvard Square Overlay District, a zoning package crafted in 1986, more protective of the area's

Old taxi discount coupons valid

Elderly and handicapped taxi riders in Cambridge may still use old discount fare coupons, at least until the city figures out what to do with them.

The city recently passed a package of sweeping reforms to the city's taxi industry, including a 25 percent rate hike and a new discount coupon program for elderly and handicapped riders.

Area banks have stopped selling the old coupons and new coupons are being distibuted free through the city's Council on Aging. The new coupons entitle elderly and handicapped riders to $1 off fares of $5 or less, and $2 off fares over $5.

However, many elderly and handicapped riders still have coupons from the old program.

License Commission Chairman James McDavitt said this week that taxi drivers should honor the old coupons and that the city is working on putting the new coupon program fully into place. He said elderly and handicapped riders can also turn in their old coupons for reimbursement.

In the meantime, he urged elderly and handicapped riders to contact the city's Council on Aging, at 498-9039, if they have any questions regarding the old coupons.

Graham trial set

David Graham, the 23-year old son of City Councilor Saundra Graham charged with possession of cocaine, possession of cocaine with intent to distribute, and possession of marijuana, will go to trial on April 15 in Middlesex District Court.

Graham was arrested on Jan. 19, after a warrant was issued for his arrest by Cambridge Police.

Graham's older brother Darrell, 25, was also arrested on Jan. 14, and faces charges of trafficking cocaine.

Both brothers were arrested as the result of a joint narcotics investigation by state, Boston and Cambridge police and the Middlesex District Attorney's office.

Darrell faces a motions hearing on April 25 in Cambridge Superior Court, but still has not been assigned a trial date.

Correction

In last week's "Cambridge Chronicle," it was incorrectly reported in an article on the Cambridgeport Industrial District that Cambridgeport General Welding was no longer doing business in the area.

The account of General Welding's status was based on a 1987 report by the University of Massachusetts' Gerontology Institute — entitled "Land, Jobs and Business Development: The Changing Cambridgeport Industrial District" — that said General Welding was among many businesses that have left the area since 1983.

General Welding, located at 108 Brookline St., has been in business in the area for more than a decade and has no plans to leave. The "Chronicle" regrets the error.

Concerns About Caffeine

For several years there have been concerns expressed about the possibility of negative, long-term effects of caffeine on the body. Suspected health problems include benign breast lumps in women, behavioral problems in children, heart disease, and cancer of the pancreas.

According to the January issue of the FDA Consumer, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration believes that caffeine (in coffee, tea, and soft drinks) is safe. Several human and animal studies have concluded that there is "no association" between coffee drinking and pancreatic cancer. Review has also failed to show any relationship "between benign breast disease and coffee consumption." In addition, the studies which supposedly reported a link between caffeine and heart disease, were "inconclusive" because the adverse effects reported could have been due to substances other than caffeine, such as tobacco and alcohol.

A review of caffeine and behavioral problems in children indicated "inconsistent findings" in the various animal studies quoted. Other studies have shown that children tend to be neither more nor less sensitive to caffeine than are adults.

neighborhood and take away another parking space on Dana Street.

Hiller, who celebrated her 51st birthday the day after the council vote, said she is just happy the process is over and eager to get the driveway built. In recent years she has undergone three serious operations and suffers from a hip problem that forces her to walk with a cane. Last May she retired after teaching art for 23 years in the Weston school system.

She wants the driveway built so she can park her car at the rear of the building and to use the back steps. She currently drives a car with registered handicapped plates but parks it in rented space nearby. She says her back stairs may someday become a ramp for a wheelchair if her health worsens.

"I'm just very happy with the decision," Hiller said in an interview at her home. "It renewed my faith in the democratic process. It got so involved but I'm glad it's over."

Why did it take the city nearly five years to apprpove the curb cut?

When Hiller first requested tthe curb cub in October 1983 it was approved by the four city departments that oversee curb cuts — public works, the historical commission, the traffic and parking department and the inspectional services department.

Under the process, the reuest was then sent to the neighborhood association — in this case the intensely active Mid-Cambridge Neighborhood Association.

As is often the case for curb cuts, the neighborhood association disapproved and Hiller's request was tabled. Neighborhood residents — including Hiller's next door neighbors — were concerned that a driveway would strip the street of an already-decreasing number of on-street parking spaces. They also worried that it would be to close to the intersection of Dana street and Broadway and could cause traffic problems.

Soon afterward, the city's inspectional services department changed its opinion on the curb cut. A debate ensued, another inspection of the site was done, and in February 1986 the inspectional services department said it could not rule on the curb cut because of possible zoning complications. The matter was then referred to the city's board of zoning appeals.

The turning point in this tale of debates, tablings and bureaucratic wrangling was an inspection of the site by architect Jack Joseph in December 1986. Joseph reported that the building fit zoning regulations and therefore the curb cut would be legal. In October 1987, the city's inspectional services department then reapproved Hiller's curb cut request based on Joseph's findings.

This February, Hiller applied for a hearing on her curb cut request and this week it was finally granted.

Since she first filed her request, Hiller has kept the case's growing number of documents in an orange folder. This week, she said with relief, she may finally be able to put the folder away.

"The chapters developed over time and now it's like a book," she said, clutching the two-inch thick folder. "I'm just proud of all the councilors and the people who helped."

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY

RENTING YOUR HOME
Often, our clients have second thoughts about selling their homes, especially if they don't need the equity to complete the purchase of a new one. "We'll just hang on to it and rent it out," they say. While rental real estate is almost always a good investment, be sure you understand all of the consequences before you become a landlord.
Remember that tenants may not share your pride of ownership, and they are sometimes rough on property. You should also acquaint yourself with state or local landlord/tenant laws, including those dealing with rent control and eviction procedures. Finally, if you are planning to rent a home that can be used as your primary residence, you could lose the benefits of your capitol gains deferral if you sell it a few years from now. Before you make a decision about turning your home into a rental property, it's a good idea to get professional advice, both from a tax expert and from your Realtor.
If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Century 21 — Silva Realty Associates. Just call 661-2525 in Cambridge.

CITY OF CAMBRIDGE OFFICIAL NOTICE

Notice is hereby given pursuant to St. 1976, c. 36 (the Rent Control Act) s. 7 that the Cambridge Rent Control Board will hold a public hearing on Monday, April 11, 1988 from 7:00 - 10:00 p.m. at the Cambridge Rindge and Latin High School main cafeteria to consider general adjustments by percentage of the legal maximum rents of all controlled rental units within the City of Cambridge on account of:

1. Increases and decreases in real estate taxes due to revaluation and changes in tax rate;
2. Increases and decreases in heating expenses, including a consideration of energy efficiency of buildings;
3. Increases and decreases in other operating expenses including payroll, utilities, water and sewer, maintenance and insurance; and
4. Adjustments of net operating income.

The Board will consider the establishment of such classes as will ensure the accurate apportionment of expense or income changes, including changes in real estate taxes due to revaluation, taking account of those buildings which have received individual rent adjustments.

The Board will consider procedures to ensure that energy conservation efforts are being undertaken by owners to lessen the impact of heat expense increases. The Board may establish classes based on conservation methods. The Board will also consider classifying buildings according to whether heat is supplied by the landlord or tenant.

In considering a general adjustment the Board will receive information on increases and decreases in operating costs and net operating income. The Board will also receive information on possible energy conservation measures which may be incorporated into any general adjustment.

Following the Public Hearing, the Board will determine the need for a general adjustment. If it is determined that a general adjustment is necessary, the Board will determine that a general adjustment is necessary, the Board will determine the method of adjusting rents by general adjustment and promulgate a regulation to that effect.

The Board desires to receive written presentations on the issues to be raised at the public hearing. Persons unable to attend the hearing may send written material to the Rent Control office during working hours.

All persons wishing to address the Board may submit their names and addresses prior to the public hearing and indicate if they wish to appear in opposition to or in favor of a general adjustment. Persons submitting their names and addresses prior to the hearing shall be heard first by the Board. Persons wishing to address the Board should contact Laurie Goetz at the Board's office prior to the hearing.

Please make all inquiries to the Rent Control Board at telephone number 498-9077 or at the Board's office at 678 Massachusetts Avenue, 5th Floor, Cambridge, MA 02139.

Green, Singleton shine for BB&N

Adam Green of Fenno Street and Severlin Singleton of Hayes Street have both achieved outstanding wrestling records this season at Buckingham, Browne and Nichols School.

Adam, son of Bob and Happy Green and a junior at BB&N, is undefeated over the past two years in league competition and one of the finest heavyweight wrestlers in the area. This year Adam was 28-0 and won the Christmas, the Graves-Kelsey and the New England Prep School tournaments. He has only had two points scored against him this entire season. In his sophomore year, Adam compiled a 27-1 record and won both the Milton Christmas tournament and the Graves-Kelsey league tournament. His only loss was an 11-10 match in the finals of the New England Prep School Tournament (1987). Technically, Adam is one of the best wrestlers on the team, which is very rare for a heavyweight and one of the major reasons for his amazing success. Adam also plays on the football and lacrosse teams. Best of all, he is only a junior.

Severlin Singleton (co-captain), son of Severlin and Cheryl Singleton, is a senior.

This season Sevie was 24-1 and has pinned all but four of his opponents. He won the Graves-Kelsey tournament and also won the individual award for the wrestler with the most falls in the least amount of time. He finished third at the New England Prep tournament on March 6 with his only loss being a very close 6-5 match in the semi-finals.

In his sophomore year, Sevie compiled an 18-3 record and finished second at the Graves-Kelsey tournament. He suffered a serious knee injury in football

Children's book illustrators hold workshops

On Tuesday, March 22, eight children's book illustrators will conduct workshops in six Cambridge Public Libraries as the last in a series of author and artist programs for fourth grade students.

Throughout January, February, and March, the program offered visits and workshops by 18 authors and illustrators to help students create posters with poems and drawings about books and reading.

The 50 best posters of the 650 produced in the program workshops will be displayed in an exhibit at the Main Library in Cambridge, Lecture Hall from April 14 to 25. The public is invited to view this colorful exhibit during library hours.

Among the book creators who appeared in the program are Marcia Sewall, William Sleator, Jane Langton, Lois Lowry, Sigmund Lavine, Ned Delaney, Joan Drescher, Giles Laroche and Ilse Plume.

Brown goes extra mile as volunteer

It's 4:30 am. A taxi pulls up in front of The Cambridge Hospital and an 80-year old man gets out. Wearing a white lab coat and a volunteer badge, he heads for the front door.

For Manny Brown, early morning work is nothing new. Since joining The Cambridge Hospital (TCH), as a volunter 23 years ago, Brown has spent more than 20 hours each week offering his service as a courier, escort, interpreter and friend.

"Every day is different," says Brown. "Some days I deliver blood to the labs, pick up medications or make coffee for the patients. Other times I console a grieving family member or befriend a lonely patient."

Through the years, Brown has used his native Portuguese language to offer assistance to his fellow countrymen.

"When I came to the U.S. from Portugal in 1920, I met other immigrants who needed help understanding English," says Brown. "Some were getting medical assistance at the hospital and needed help interpreting English. I came to TCH so often, the volunteer department finally recruited me."

Without doubt, Brown's fluency in Portuguese, and familiarity with Italian and Spanish, has aided physicians and patients alike.

"The other day I comforted a Portuguese woman in the intensive care unit who was told she was having a toe amputated," says Brown. "She started screaming, so the nurses paged me to console her. Upon seeing my shadow she said 'An angel has just come through the door.' As it turned out, we happen to be good friends."

Brown's commitment and dedication to TCH has earned him recognition from both the hospital and the City of Cambridge. Two years ago Mayor Alfred Vellucci, (who was a city counciler at the time), presented Manny with a resolution and proclamation for his outstanding community work. Additionally, TCH has recognized him yearly at the annual volunteer reception for exceptional work and dedication. Through the years, he has given more than 29,000 hours of his time for volunteer work.

"Everybody in the hospital knows Manny," says Jean DePasquale, former director of TCH volunteers. "He is constantly giving his time and love to others. Once Manny stayed with a patient for five hours before he went into surgery. Manny is simply incredible, and has never missed a single day in the past 23 years."

Brown is the only volunteer to work the 4:30 to 8 am shift. "You really notice it on the weekends when he's not here," says Ellen Grenhem RN, an ICU nurse. "He's become an important part of our unit."

His volunteer work is one of the most "pleasurable experiences" for Brown. "I like to help people." he says. "God gave me the privilege of having children to help me, and in turn, I also want to help others."

Born in Portugal, Brown came to the United States in 1920 when he was just 18 years old. For the next 44 years, he worked at BF Goodrich as a factory worker and supervisor until retiring in 1964.

Brown, a widower with three children, seven grandchildren, and five great grandchildren, currently resides in Cambridge close to the hospital.

Aside from working five days a week at TCH, he also volunteers his time at St. Anthony's Church in Cambridge.

When asked if he would volunteer for another 23 years, he replied, "If God permits, then why not? As long as I can help others, I will."

Children in Hospitals week events planned

The Association for the Care of Children's Health is recognizing the week of March 20-26 as "Children in Hospitals Week". This week is dedicated to increasing public awareness of the psychosocial needs of children and families in the health care system and to encourage health care institutions to meet these needs.

To highlight the week, Cambridge Pediatrics of The Cambridge Hospital (TCH), has scheduled a Teddy Bear Clinic for selected Cambridge preschools.

As part of the program the children will have a tour of the hospital which includes viewing sample x-rays and watching a demonstration of how casting is done.

In addition, an information booth wil be setup throughout the week to provide the public with educational information on children's injury prevention, car seat safety, health tips and safety advice for the home.

Cambridge pediatrics is a full service pediatric practice for children up to 18 years of age. It provides comprehensive care to Cambridge and Somerville through a coordinated health care system which includes an in-patient service, emergency room, pediatric neighborhood health centers, newborn services, subspecialty clinics, and a hospital-based pediatric group practice. These services are integrated with intensive care at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Three non-profits get checks

Three non-profit organizations in Cambridge received checks totaling $14,500 from the Bank of Boston Corporation Charitable Foundation at the bank's Harvard Square branch Tuesday, January 26.

The groups are:

•Cambridge Family YMCA, operation support for its youth programs, day camp, and residential program for men ($7,500);

•Cambridge Rindge and Latin School, to renovate a space in which the Cambridge Visiting Nurses Association will start an adolescent health clinic providing on-site health counseling and education ($5,000);

•New Communities Services, Inc., an agency specializing in programs for the elderly, for the development of a comprehensive, computer-accessible information and referral service on housing and related programs ($2,000)

CRLS receives high-tech materials for robotics class

What would you do with a million resistors, 83,000 capacitors, and 50,000 integrated circuits? Rindge Technical Vocational students at Cambridge Rindge and Latin have the answer.

Rindge recently received over $150,000 worth of items ranging from potentiometers to transistors from EG&G Systems, thanks to Associate General Manager Fred Centanni. Centanni, a graduate of the Thorndike (now Kennedy) Elementary School, Cambridge High and Latin and M.I.T., donated the high tech equipment to his alma mater to, "assist the high school to keep current with the latest high tech materials."

"Our new robotics course will put the material to good use," noted Rindge Tech Vocational Director Karen Prentice.

The robotics program brings students into contact with the intricacies of designing and manufacturing a computer and remote controlled mechanisms. Prentice said that students design and create robots in preparation of the growing use of remote controlled devices in manufacturing, space science and the military.

The Centanni family of East Cambridge has long been a strong supporter of public education in Cambridge.

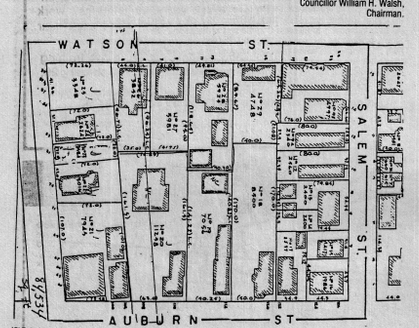

The late Fred Centanni Sr. and his wife Millie, both graduates of the city's public schools, took an active part in school activities during the late 60's and early 70's, assisting school administrators in quelling high school disturbances and involving other parents in school activities.

Fred Centanni, Jr. graduated from Cambridge High and Latin School with scholarships to MIT, and has risen to the position of associate general manager at EG&G. His son Fred has captured science prizes at Cambridge Rindge and Latin School during the past two years, and appears to be following in his father's and grandfather's footsteps.

The installation of the artwork was coordinated by Arts On The Line, a program of the Cambridge Arts Council which incorporated permanent and temporary artwork into MBTA stations. Central Station is one of nine stations included in the MBTA's $80 million Station Modernization Program. The MBTA will celebrate the renovation of Central Station at a Station Opening ceremony on Wednesday, March 9 at 11 am.

Elizabeth Mapelli created seven fused-glass tile murals, each measuring on the back wall of seven seating bay areas in the station. Mapelli drew her inspiration for the patterns, colors, and textures of the handmade tiles from the various ethnic groups of the Central Square community. While remaining close to an overall motif, each tile is uniquely colored; some colors are iridescent, while others change hue when viewed from different angles. The artist achieved the jewel-like quality of tiles by using an ancient fused-glass technique which involves layering glass and other materials before fusing the pieces in a kiln.

Anne Storrs and Dennis Cunningham collaborated to produce 100 12-inch square white tile medallions which serve to cap the top of the station columns. Images on the bas-relief medallions are both figurative and abstract and refer to the historical facts of the neighorhood as well as to diversity of the community.

Elizabeth Mapelli, of Portland, received her BFA and MFA from the University of Colorado, Boulder, in 1970 and 1972. Mapelli's work was exhibited in the 1981 through 1984 National Glass Invitationals at Habatat Galleries, Detroit, Michigan; and she has completed commissions for a fused-glass and vitrolite exterior mural in Anchorage, Alaska; a mural for Southwest Bell Telephone in Houston, Texas; and an entrance mural for R.D. Marvin, Inc., in Portland, Oregon.

Anne Storrs, also of Portland, Oregon, was educated at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago and at the University of Oregon. She has exhibited her work at the Oregon Arts Commission Show in Salem, Oregon; and participated in a two-person show at the Littman Gallery in Portland in 1984. Commissioned by the Art in Public Places program the artist created a 26-piece wall relief for an elementary school in Pasco, Washington, and collaborated with Dennis Cunningham on a sculpture for Rockwood Barrier-Free Park in Portland.

Dennis Cunningham received his BFA from Pacific Northwest College of Art in Portland, Oregon, in 1975. Cunningham has recently held solo exhibitions at the Contemporary Crafts Gallery and the Blacksmith Gallery in Portland, and the Lawson Gallery in San Francisco, California. His work has been included in group exhibitions at the Portland Art Museum, the Cheney Cowles Museum in Spokane, Washington; Oranges and Sardines Gallery in Los Angeles, California, and the Fine Arts Center in Tempe, Arizona.

Murals by Elizabeth Mapelli and medallions by Anne Storrs and Dennis Cunningham in Central Station were commissioned by the MBTA as part of their Station Modernization Art Program, which provides for both permanent and temporary artwork at stations in the Station Modernization program. The MBTA's Station Modernization Art Program has been coordinated since 1982 by the Arts On The Line, a program of the Cambridge Arts Council.

Cable to air ArtStops

American Cablesystems of Cambridge is playing a unique role in the production of a project for the MBTA/Cambridge Arts Council's ArtStops program.

"Subway Rebus," a new work created specifically for the ArtStops program by Cambridge artist Ellen Rothenberg consists of two interrelated parts: a video tape, which will be aired on cable Channel 3 the week of March 21 and a performance art piece occurring March 25 at Central Station and Downtown Crossing Orange Line. "Subway Rebus" explores the relationship between man and the landscape, both natural and urban, through a series of unusual vignettes, tableaux, and striking costumes and props.

The performance component will begin at 12:30 on March 25 when the artist, in costume, will board an inbound train at the Central subway station to Downtown Crossing Red Line. Upon exiting the train, Rothenberg will slowly walk the length of the platform, through a connector tunnel to the southbound entrance of the Downtown Crossing Orange Line platform, where the bulk of the performance will take place. Working from a palette of language, gesture, props and costumes, the artist will create a series of tableau-like images linked in loose association which refer to city and country: boots lined up like a row of corn; a woman with an apron over her coat holding a rake; a series of brilliant blue chairs suggestive of a river, but still functional as chairs; a man holding a picture frame covered in flowers so that it frames his head and shoulders. The props will also double as costume elements, further enriching their use and meaning. The images Rothenberg creates, while vivid and concrete, are ultimately mysterious, operating like pieces of a puzzle, or dream fragments, which the viewer is invited to piece together.

The video tape component of Rothenberg's new work is being created under the auspices of American Cablesystems of Cambridge. Through the administration of Steve Marx, the Program Director for American Cablesystems, the artist is being assisted in the technical production of the video tape. About three minutes in length, the video tape is integrally related to the performance piece, using details and fragments from the performance, but will be a complete work in itself. The video will be broadcast on Channel 3, as part of American Cablesystems "Community Bulletin Board" the week preceding the performance, March 21 through March 25. The creation of the tape and its airing over cable television will intensify the impact of the project, making it accessible to a wider audience.

ArtStops is sponsored by the MBTA and coordinated by the Cambridge Arts Council and is part of the MBTA's continuing efforts to ease commuter discomfort during the Station Modernization program.

The Underground Railway Theatre, working with students from Cambridge Rindge and Latin School, will present its current production of "Sanctuary: The Harriet Tubman Story"on March 27 at the CRLS Fitzgerald Auditorium. This powerful piece, cripted by local poet Kat Rushin, premiered in 1986 in association with the Margaret Fuller House. The CRLS Gospel Choir will perform the vocal score for the show. For ticket information, call 497-6136.

Lottery fund deadline is March 11

The Cambridge Arts Council wishes to remind all those planning to apply in Cambridge to the Massachusetts Arts Lottery for funding during the second half of 1988 that the deadline is March 11 at 5 pm.

Brown goes extra mile as volunteer

It's 4:30 am. A taxi pulls up in front of The Cambridge Hospital and an 80-year old man gets out. Wearing a white lab coat and a volunteer badge, he heads for the front door.

For Manny Brown, early morning work is nothing new. Since joining The Cambridge Hospital (TCH), as a volunter 23 years ago, Brown has spent more than 20 hours each week offering his service as a courier, escort, interpreter and friend.

"Every day is different," says Brown. "Some days I deliver blood to the labs, pick up medications or make coffee for the patients. Other times I console a grieving family member or befriend a lonely patient."

Through the years, Brown has used his native Portuguese language to offer assistance to his fellow countrymen.

"When I came to the U.S. from Portugal in 1920, I met other immigrants who needed help understanding English," says Brown. "Some were getting medical assistance at the hospital and needed help interpreting English. I came to TCH so often, the volunteer department finally recruited me."

Without doubt, Brown's fluency in Portuguese, and familiarity with Italian and Spanish, has aided physicians and patients alike.

"The other day I comforted a Portuguese woman in the intensive care unit who was told she was having a toe amputated," says Brown. "She started screaming, so the nurses paged me to console her. Upon seeing my shadow she said 'An angel has just come through the door.' As it turned out, we happen to be good friends."

Brown's commitment and dedication to TCH has earned him recognition from both the hospital and the City of Cambridge. Two years ago Mayor Alfred Vellucci, (who was a city councilor at the time), presented Manny with a resolution and proclamation for his outstanding community work. Additionally, TCH has recognized him yearly at the annual volunteer reception for exceptional work and dedication. Through the years, he has given more than 29,000 hours of his time for volunteer work.

"Everybody in the hospital knows Manny," says Jean DePasquale, former director of TCH volunteers. "He is constantly giving his time and love to others. Once Manny stayed with a patient for five hours before he went into surgery. Manny is simply incredible, and has never missed a single day in the past 23 years."

Brown is the only volunteer to work the 4:30 to 8 am shift. "You really notice it on the weekends when he's not here," says Ellen Grenhem RN, an ICU nurse. "He's become an important part of our unit."

His volunteer work is one of the most "pleasurable experiences" for Brown. "I like to help people." he says. "God gave me the privilege of having children to help me, and in turn, I also want to help others."

Born in Portugal, Brown came to the United States in 1920 when he was just 18 years old. For the next 44 years, he worked at BF Goodrich as a factory worker and supervisor until retiring in 1964.

Brown, a widower with three children, seven grandchildren, and five great grandchildren, currently resides in Cambridge close to the hospital.

Aside from working five days a week at TCH, he also volunteers his time at St. Anthony's Church in Cambridge.

When asked if he would volunteer for another 23 years, he replied, "If God permits, then why not? As long as I can help others, I will."

Children in Hospitals week events planned

The Association for the Care of Children's Health is recognizing the week of March 20-26 as "Children in Hospitals Week". This week is dedicated to increasing public awareness of the psychosocial needs of children and families in the heath care system and to encourage health care institutions to meet these needs.

To highlight the week, Cambridge Pediatrics of The Cambridge Hospital (TCH), has scheduled a Teddy Bear Clinic for selected Cambridge preschools.

As part of the program the children will have a tour of the hospital which includes viewing sample x-rays and watching a demonstration of how casting is done.

In addition, an information booth wil be setup throughout the week to provide the public with educational information on children's injury prevention, car seat safety, health tips and safety advice for the home.

Cambridge pediatrics is a full service pediatric practice for children up to 18 years of age. It provides comprehensive care to Cambridge and Somerville through a coordinated health care system which includes an in-patient service, emergency room, pediatric neighborhood health centers, newborn services, subspecialty clinics, and a hospital-based pediatric group practice. These services are integrated with intensive care at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

At this time, Councillor Duehay questioned whether or not the Community Development Department had done an in depth study of the petition.

Ms. Liza Malenfant responded in the negative but stated the Planning Board would be meeting on Tuesday evening to make its recommendations. Furthermore, in response to Councillor Duehay, Ms. Malenfant stated the area in question with current zoning allows for the construction of approximately nine townhouses and should the amendment be adopted, it would reduce this number to four.

Both Councillor Duehay and Councillor Wolf discussed the previous zoning changes which have occurred within the last year and a half.

At this time, Councillor Graham moved to refer the petition to the full City Council with a favorable recommendation.

The hearing was adjourned at 6:15 p.m.
