Subject: A free tier of service for cable tv homes.

Please consider that the original cable tv commission chaired by Joseph Sakey was definitively promised a free tier of cable tv service for any interested Cambridge residents.

Cable tv advertising would support the free tier with free access to CCTV community access channels, city cable channels and local origination channel.

There's the great amount of local cable advertising and local cable extended advertisements of half hour lengths. People should not have to pay to receive so many advertisements.

Once in homes, the cable tv company would be able to reach out and offer further services and enhancements.

Would you hold the company to that promise?...

Kind regards,
Don Warner Saklad
