Dear Members of the Cambridge City Council,

Only in a municipality as the republic of the City of Cambridge could a governing body take time out from its business, which includes keeping a close eye on the academic institutions within its borders, to wish a citizen well on the occasion of a birthday with a marker to proclaim the same.

To my memory comes a poem by S. W. Ross taught to me in the fourth grade while a student in the old Roberts school by my teacher, Miss Cronin, right out of Radcliff College. The last two lines read "Let me live in a house by the side of the road, and be a friend of man." I am correcting the last word to "people" to be gender correct. This has been my creed in life, and will so continue to be.

Thanks again for the beautiful marker.

My wife, Ruth, our three daughters, seven grandchildren, and two great grandsons join me in thanks and appreciation for this honor.

Yours,

Ulysses H. Gore
