

EARTH DAY CAMBRIDGE 1991 PLANNING MEETING JANUARY 22, 1991

ON TUESDAY JANUARY 22, 1991 from 6:30 - 8:30 p.m. AT CITY HALL CAMBRIDGE, Second Floor, Ackermann Room, we will discuss what is the best use of an "Earth Day" for the Cambridge Community.

Come with ideas and a willing volunteer spirit. If you cannot make the meeting, try to send someone. You may also leave suggestions, comments and resource-leads on (617) 492-2243. All calls will be reported to the group at large.

Last year about 25,000 people met with forty environmental groups, listened to music from over 12 countries, marched, walked, biked and held discussions about our changing Earth. The Cambridge Environmental Citizens Organization (ECO) continues to probe and act on land, air, water issues locally and nationally. (Contact Fred Small 497-1416).

The volunteers who worked very hard to bring about the Earth Day 1990 are excited about having one again this year. The first round of calls proves that Cambridge wants to continue to discuss and act on these imperative ecological concerns. The concept of "ushering in a DECADE of the environment" still inspires many who worked on Earth Day last year.
Won't you help keep the momentum going? Spread the word. Share ideas.
