WHEREAS: Dr. Jocelyn Elders visits the City of Cambridge on Monday, October 28, 1996;

WHEREAS: We the people of Cambridge are pleased to welcome Dr. Elders as she personifies the courage and vision we believe is so vital to assure the future of ourselves and our children; and

WHEREAS: Dr. Elders has served her country well. She fought the good fight and stood her ground firmly when right was more important than might. She modeled the style of advocacy which provides that you don't have to be disagreeable when you disagree; and

WHEREAS: Dr. Elders, if it is important to you that the world should have improved because of your good work -- then the world did improve. In the face of an increasing AIDS epidemic in Communities of Color, we know it was important that you were U.S Surgeon General and spoke the truth of sexuality both to the shut ears, and those which were open, but did not seem to hear and react; and

WHEREAS: We view you to be one of the Country's great mothers who sought to take good care of the entire family while she had the responsibilities; now therefore be it

RESOLVED: Dr. Elders, the people of Cambridge welcome you today, we wish you continued success and respectfully request that you continue to work on behalf of public health in America and throughout the world.
