To the members of the Cambridge City Council

Ladies and Gentlemen:

The enclosed memo from Harvard University contains some alarming information which, I am sure, is not news to you. However, there is one action on the part of the city that might be of some help to the people in the neighborhood -- leaving the street lights on overnight instead of having them go off in the early evening.

When we first came to town eighteen years ago, there was a bright light at the intersection of Irving, Scott, and Farrar Streets -- so bright, in fact, that we did not need to light our front hall. The well-lighted streets in our neighborhood contributed to our feeling of security when we arrived home from an outing or went out to walk the dog after the 11 PM news. Now, apparently, the street light in the triangle is on some sort of a switch, activated only by the motion of large trucks in the intersection. This leaves pedestrians to find whatever footing they can in almost complete darkness. It should be noted that many of the residents of this neighborhood are senior citizens.

It seems to us that several hazards could be ameliorated by some sort of readjustment of the street lights in the neighborhood.

Thank you for your attention to our problem.

Yours truly,

Katherine W. Estes
