Accettuno added that the activities during Queer Harvard Month — from forums to dances to film screenings — show another side of the famed university. "These are not Hasty Pudding Club events. Our queerness doesn't hang in a closet," she said. "We want the university community to know we're here, we're queer, every day of the year."

The Queer Politics Conference, from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on April 5 in JFK School at 79 JFK Street in Harvard Square, will feature three panels, all moderated by Barbara Roberts, former Governor of Oregon and Director of the State and Local Executive Program at the JFK School of Government.
