

City of Cambridge

14.

IN CITY COUNCIL

March 25, 1991

MAYOR WOLF

WHEREAS: National Community Development Week will be celebrated throughout the nation from April 1-April 7, 1991; and

WHEREAS: A strong working relationship for providing community development services in Cambridge has been forged by its citizens, not-for-profit agencies, and city government; and

WHEREAS: The National Affordable Housing Act of 1990 has now provided additional funding for the Federal CDBG Program, from which Cambridge receives its principal support for community development work; and

WHEREAS: The new legislation will help the City and Cambridge not-for-profits provide a greater measure of affordable housing, human services, and economic development, as well as help Cambridge residents become more involved in the City's community development programming; now therefore be it

RESOLVED: That this City Council hereby proclaims April 1-7, 1991 as Cambridge Community Development Week and asks that we give special thanks and recognition to all citizens and organizations whose hard work has helped improve the quality of life in our neighborhoods; and be it further

RESOLVED: That Cambridge citizens and organizations concerned with community development are encouraged to thank our Congresspersons for their passage of the National Affordable Housing Act of 1990, and also to request their strong efforts to secure Congressional funding of CDBG, HOME and related programs at the full amount authorized by the Act for the next fiscal year.

In City Council March 25, 1991.

Adopted by the affirmative vote of nine members.
