Dear Mr. Healy:

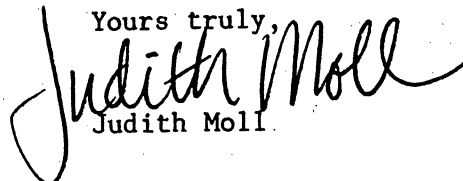

I am writing as a concerned neighbor of 1564 Massachusetts Avenue, the site of the recently illegally demolished Francis-Allyn house. I am pleased that the Historical Commission declared at the June 28 hearing, which I attended, that the owner Stephen Bell and developer Conal Doyle exceeded their certificate of appropriateness. This was the only conclusion which could have been reached after review of the series of events leading to this demolition.

It is essential that the needs and concerns of those of us who are neighbors now be given top priority. We have witnessed two fires on the property, viewed burned debris and trash which was left strewn across the lot for two years, seen vagrant people break into and attempt to inhabit the building in its unsafe and unsecured condition, and watched the mockery of rain and snow for two winters falling through the gaping holes in the roof into this "historically designated" building. Most recently, the developer destroyed the tall trees which offered shade to our own homes and a home for nesting birds, which several of us feed through window birdfeeders.

Now that we have arrived at this sorry stage, with an eyesore in place of an irreplaceable historic landmark, action must be taken. I urge you to insure that the property be graded and planted immediately. Secondly, the views of the neighbors have been made clear through numerous efforts these past three years. We do not want another high rise building on this block. The Francis-Allyn house may be destroyed, but that in no way changes our beliefs as neighbors that a small-scale residential property is the only acceptable use for this lot.

Thank you for your assistance in making this next-door property an asset to our neighborhood once again.

Yours truly,

Judith Moll
