Faces of Aids

A photographic exhibit by Craig Bailey

Part reminiscence about the impact of AIDS on all of our lives — part remembrance of people who have passed on — and part testimonial from people making difficult decisions about their future, the Faces of AIDS is an intimate labor of love by acclaimed photographer Craig Bailey. The show contains portraits of friends and acquaintances (some who have passed and some who are very much alive) accompanied by text. Too often individual lives disappear in the maze of statistics about AIDS. You are welcome to bring mementos, photos, and chochkes to create a tribute of your own. At 6PM Craig will speak about the exhibit and what compelled him to put it together.

Other people can tell stories, share memories and speak as the spirit moves...

Opening Reception: Saturday, November 22 from 5-8 PM.
