Saturday April 4, 1998 - 12 Noon

Sheraton Commander Hotel 16 Garden Street, Harvard Square

We are pleased to honor as our guests:

Alice Hoffman: Cambridge author of twelve novels and a recently published childrens book entitled "Fireflies", is well known for her enchanting storytelling. Ms. Hoffman's ability to fuse fantasy and realism has endeared her to a coterie of devoted fans, now expanded to include young adults.

Nicholas Kilmer: Author, artist and teacher, has been a resident of Cambridge since 1962. As an author, Mr. Kilmer is best known for his series of mysteries set in the art world. The third mystery in the series, "O Sacred Head" was published in 1997; "Interior at Petworth", the fourth in the same series, is expected to be completed in 1998.

Gail Mazur: A poet, well known in Cambridge and in the poetry community for inaugurating the Blacksmith House poetry series, now celebrating its 25th anniversary. Ms. Mazur has been acclaimed for her recently published book "The Common", a collection of poems depicted by Don Colburn, in The Boston Review as "tough, canny, dangerous poems full of heart".
